Mule Quintet To Play In National Invitational; Conference, Tourneys

Muhlenberg's current cage season will be climaxed with the teams participation in two major post-season basketball tournaments—the National Invitation Basketball Tournament to be held in Madison Square Garden on March 14, 16, 18 and 20 and the Middle Atlantic States Tournament to be held in Lehigh University's Grace Hall on March 11 and 12.

While the complete roster of the teams which will compete in the Invitation Tournament has not been announced, it is a certainty that eight of the Nation's greatest cage machines will see action. To this date Muhlenberg, Kentucky, Bowling Green, St. John's, West Virginia and Syracuse have accepted bids.

Muhlenberg's participation in the tournament marks the third consecutive year that the Mules have been invited to the annual classic. In 1944 the Mules bowed to DePaul of Chicago in the first round, and last year 'Berg dropped a one point decision to St. John's in the initial round. The Mules' first round opponent in this year's tourney will not be announced until the roster of teams has been completed and the drawing has been made by representatives of the teams.

The Middle Atlantic States Tournament roster includes Muhlenberg, Lafayette, Rutgers and Ursinus. In the first round the Mules will tangle with Lafayette while Rutgers will meet Ursinus.

The Mules broke even in conference play with Lafayette, the 'Berg basketweavers downing the Leopards in Rockne Hall 59 to 48 and Lafayette handing the Mules a 47-45 reverse in Easton. Thus the meeting of the two teams in the tournament will be the "rubber" game. Keen interest in the game among the students of both schools and the general public in the Allentown and Easton areas has been aroused, and as a result a sell-out house already is assured.

The two winners in the initial round will meet on the following evening. The two first round losers will meet in the preliminary.

ATO's Reelect Weller President

At the first meeting of the Alpha Tau's in the spring term, held last Tuesday night, many brothers were welcomed back after being discharged from the various branches of the service. Among these brothers were Henry C. Harner, Robert A. Kroll, Robert Ranken, Tracy F. Storch, Joseph Fleischman, William Otto, Philip Peters, Paul Markavage and Edward Fenstermacher. With the addition of these veterans the active chapter now numbers twenty-nine.

During the regular meeting, election of officers was held followed by the installation into their respective offices. Walter W. Weller was re-elected president while Edwin Gregg was elected to remain at the post of treasurer. Other brothers chosen were: William Hillegass, Bruce Romig, Robert Ranken, Robert Kroll and Robert Klotz. Brothers Romig and Wallace were elected to serve on the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Walter Weller announced that the Chapter was formulating extensive plans for the present term.

All-Stars Team To Be Selected

The student body of Muhlenberg College has been requested by the New York Herald Tribune to assist its Sports Staff in the selection of players to compete in the East-West basketball game to be played in Madison Square Garden on March 30. The game, first of its kind in the history of basketball, will be basketball's counterpart of the well-established East-West football classic which is played annually for charity. The East-West basketball game will be played for the benefit of the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund for underprivileged children.

The Herald Tribune has urged the college students of the Nation to nominate the ten players they believe should be selected to play on the team representing their section of the country. Nominations are to be made on the basis of ability and quality of playing.

Muhlenberg students have been requested to name the ten best players in their section of the country, that is, the East. The dividing line has been set as the Alleghenies. Each student is urged to fill out the ballot printed on the fourth page of the WEEKLY. Clip it out and place it in the Press Box in the hall of the Administration building no later than March 12.

Students are reminded that only one player from his college or university may be nominated. This means that nine of the nominations must be from other teams in the East.

The Sports Staff of the WEEKLY urges each student to fill in a ballot. By showing the judges that players in this area have strong support their chances of being chosen will be greatly increased. Ten players will be selected to represent the East.

Pre-Theos To Meet March 25

On Monday evening, the Haas Room of the college Library will be the scene of the first regular meeting for this semester, of the Pre-Theological Club. All pre-ministerial students who are new on the campus are most cordially invited to attend this meeting which is designed principally as an introduction to new members as well as a welcome to old.

Dr. Russell W. Stine will be the speaker of the evening and in addition, a brief business session will be held. At that time President, John Schwalm, will appoint the necessary committee for the term.

The present officers were elected at the last meeting of the November-March term. John Schwalm, a senior succeeded himself in the office of President, while three new men assumed the other offices. Craig Dorward, a junior, became Vice-President; Ray Meck and Richard Bieber, sophomores, were elected as Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

President Schwalm expressed the hope that since the officers are planning an interesting and educational program, all pre-theological students would rally around the work of the club.

Sweda Heads Student Council; Gesregan To Serve As Scribe

At its final meeting of the past semester, the Student Council elected George Sweda as president and Paul Gesregan as secretary. Sweda, an ex-service man, is a senior; Gesregan, a junior. Both men are members of Lambda Chi Alpha and room in East Hall. In addition, George belongs to the Varsity "M" Club (he played football and basketball before his service days) and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Philosophical Fraternity.

Paul is also a member of A.K.A.; moreover, he is active in the P.S.I. Romance Languages Fraternity, M.C.A. Cabinet, and is president of the Forensic Council.

Campus Drive Lags; Campaign To Run Until March 19

Chairman John Rogers of the Student Committee for the raising of funds from the students for the Field House, soon to be erected at Berg, announces a decided lag in the campaign drive. In this connection Rogers revealed that to date little more than $300 previously announced as having been received, has been contributed.

Working under the assumption that all those students who received pledge cards at the end of last semester, have failed to return them because of the period of adjustment, naturally persisting until a new semester gets under way, Rogers declared, that the drive will be extended until March 19. By that date, he stated, all pledge

New V-12 Unit Arrives; Many Faculty Changes

Although actual figures on the enrollment for the present term are not available, it is reported that Muhlenberg has over 700 students. 150 on the lists are Navy V-12 students who have been on the campus since March first.

In this time, the groups have been busy adjusting themselves to the combined College and Navy lives and by now have really gotten into the parade. The other 550 students, the great majority of which are G-I's, filtered in over the week-end, and hopped out along with the Navy for classes on Monday at eight o'clock.

In admitting such a large body of students, the administration had to meet with two shortages: that of rooms and that of teachers. Most of the civilian students have been accommodated in West Hall (Freshmen), East Hall (Upper-classmen), and respective fraternity houses. The crowded conditions will be relieved somewhat around April 15 when the college opens three units in cooperation with the Federal Housing Authority. One of the buildings is a dorm which will house 60 G-I's; the other two are structures of five four-room apartments each. All occupants will be G-I's in the dorm and G-I families in the other units. In addition, Allentown residents have already taken at least 28 men into their homes and more may be placed.

To alleviate the pressure on instructors, twelve men have been secured. Mr. William A. Green, who took his work at Moravian and Lehigh, is assisting in the Biology Department under Dr. John V. Shankweiler. Mr. Green worked as a bacteriologist for Sharp and Dohme Laboratories and taught at Liberty High School for eight years before entering the Navy in 1943.

In the Chemistry Department, Mr. Ralph Herbst will assist Drs. George Brandes and John Keller. Mr. Herbst, a Muhlenberg graduate in the class of '43, has recently completed several years service in the armed forces, part of which he spent in Europe.

After a long period of service in the Army, especially in the intelligence department in Europe, Mr. S. F. Thousman has joined Mr. Richmond Meyers in the Geology Department. Mr. Thousman received both of his degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

Former Naval lieutenant Harold Reese, who received two degrees from Penn State, is the additional instructor in the Mathematics Department under Professor Luther Deck.

Dean Horn's brother, Dr. Edward T. Horn, is working in the Department of Religion with Dr. John Doberstein. Dr. Horn attended Muhlenberg, Yale, and Mt. Airy Theological Seminary after which he served for thirty years as a missionary to Japan and head of the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Tokyo.

Major Floyd Schwartzwalder (University of West Virginia) as acting head of the Physical Education Department has assisting him Frank Lough and Clyde Barker, both of whom are also from West Virginia.

Three men are joining the Social Studies Department under Dr. James E. Swain. Dr. C. W. Wotring received degrees from Franklin and Marshall and Columbia, and has spent twenty-eight years

Try-Outs For Student Assembly Plays Set For March 12th

As a part of the Student Activity Program for student assemblies, Dr. Victor Johnson announced that April 4 will be set aside for two one-act plays to be given under the auspices of the Mask and Dagger Club. Directed by John Rogers, the plays are "Red Carnations" by Glenn Hughes and "If Men Played Cards as Women Do", by George S. Kaufman.

Try-outs are scheduled for 8:15 P.M. Tuesday, March 12 in the Science Auditorium. Rogers urges all who are interested in dramatics, regardless of previous experience, to come out.

The two plays previously mentioned are both light comedies, "Red Carnations" being a humorous portrayal of the two boys—some girl story, while "If Men Played Cards as Women Do" is a satire on a typical women's card game.

FBI Agent Speaks At First Assembly

On Thursday, March 7, 1946, student assembly programs, a pre-war feature, were re-inaugurated with an address by Mr. William C. Hinze, Special Agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mr. Hinze presented a most interesting and vivid description of his work in the Philadelphia Headquarters.

Mr. William Davidson will be the guest speaker for the next program on March 21. At that time, Mr. Davidson, who is the manager for the Bell Telephone Company in this area, will discuss one of the outstanding topics of the day, Atomic Energy. Holding two degrees from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he was also a track man, Mr. Davidson is a very popular speaker and has that unusual ability to make science understandable to laymen.

Elections Held By Phi Kappa Tau; Helfrich President

The men elected were: President, Harold Helfrich; Vice President, Louis Cotanis; Treasurer, Leonard Ellis; Assistant Treasurer, John Keiran; Secretary, Robert MacDonough; House Manager, Edwin Minner; Pledge Master, Earl Bender; Rushing Chairman, Ralph Haaf; Sergeant at Arms, Joseph Baker; Chaplain, Robert Albright; Editor, Frank DePerio.

With the induction of these new men, the fraternity is looking forward to a year of pre-war quality.

The Glenn Miller Band

By Bob Fretz

Special to the WEEKLY

With Major Glenn Miller officially "presumed" to be dead by the U. S. Army Air Forces, the job of reviving the Miller Band has fallen to his former tenor sax and singing star, Tex Beneke. From what has been seen and heard of the band on the stage of the Capitol Theater in New York City, it would appear as though Beneke had succeeded—so far.

The organization, consisting of eight brass, five reeds (six with Tex), four rhythm, and twelve strings, is being backed financially by Helen Miller, Glenn's wife, and Don Haynes, Miller's close friend and manager. The band will record for Victor. The first discs are due for release early in March and will probably be heard on coast-to-coast radio commercial programs.

The complement of the band is very much changed from Glenn's old civilian orchestra. Beneke is the only holdover among the saxes from Miller's civilian outfit. Jimmy Priddy and Paul Tanner in the trombone section remain from brighter days. There are no ex-Miller men among the trumpets, but redheaded Bobby Nichols has been with the Miller Army Air Force Band since its inception back in '43. The rhythm, however, comes up with the biggest percentage of Miller graduates. Moe Purtill, drums, Bill Conway, guitar, and "Trigger" Alpert, bass, all played with Glenn's band at one time or another.

As to the band itself there is no doubt about its possibilities. Sectionally speaking, there are times (especially among the saxes) when the blend is anything but what Miller would approve of if he were leading the band. However, be that as it may, more often than not the saxes click together perfectly. They show up wonderfully on numbers like Moonlight Serenade and Holiday For Strings. The greatest want seems to be for a soloist of some caliber among the saxes. The only real thrill comes when Beneke drops the baton and picks up his tenor sax. "Tex" is greatly improved as a tenor man. His fast work is more sensible and less effeminate than before, and for my money he is unquestionably the best, slow tenor man in the entire music business. In other words, his few solos are sparking the band, something he would have been incapable of a couple of years ago.

The trumpets present a section which shouldn't be ashamed to hold its collective head up in any musical society. Miller liked a virile trumpet section; this one has all the drive a band leader could ever use. And in the section Beneke has one of the finest young trumpeters to come along for many years in Bobby Nichols. He's the young fellow who does the skyscraper blowing on the lid-lifting specialties. When I first heard him in '44, he practically blew out the walls of New York's Vanderbilt Theater. He has toned down since then and he plays some very nice stuff. The trombones might best be described as "four guys who sound like T. Dorsey." They play together well, they get a lovely blend while muted, and there is not a soloist in the whole bunch.

The three aforementioned men in the rhythm section are all, with the exception of Bassman Alpert, capable without approaching greatness. Alpert is generally accepted as being one of the finest on his instrument. Stan Freeman at the piano does some of the band's arranging. Most of the arranging is still handled by an old Miller standby, Jerry Gray. The strings are effective—when used.

As far as vocalists go, Lillian Lane, Artie Malvin, and the Crew Chiefs are competent and no more. There is no feeling at all. Tex is forced to hold up this end of the entertainment, too. When I heard him, he warbled Personality, Ida, and Chattanooga Choo Choo in grand form.

This outfit can go a long way if things are handled correctly. A few suggestions which appear to be quite appropriate at this time are (1) drop the string section. Actually the twelve men are doing nothing more than drawing paychecks each week. Besides, such a cut in personnel would make the band easier to handle on road trips. (2) A couple of competent saxmen and a good vocalist or two would help immensely. (3) Drop this "Glenn Miller Band" stuff and bill the orchestra as Tex Beneke's. If Tex will do these things, he will have gone a long way in establishing a band which even now points toward becoming the first show and dance band in the country!

An unhealthy condition exists when only a small percentage of a nation's population is active in government. The same condition is unhealthy when it exists in a college. Since the advent of the war, this condition has existed in OUR school. Now is the time to end it! You men are the only ones who can do this. We need a BAND, we need more DEBATERS, we need more men interested in DRAMATICS, we need YOU.

Of the many opportunities offered in any school, there are few which rank higher than those made possible by the school press. Regardless of what you expect your college education to offer, the newspaper can add experience which will be of unlimited value in your life's work. This is in addition to the personal satisfaction which it will afford. Pre-ministerial and pre-legal students can test and improve their ability to sway and convince an intelligent and thinking group.

Many of you have expressed opinions privately upon conditions which if eliminated or improved would be highly beneficial to Muhlenberg. We wish to afford you the opportunity to publicly express your opinions and thoughts. All letters and articles which are submitted in a vein of constructive criticism about any school activity will be welcomed by your paper.

Some students have experienced strange and exciting happenings. Perhaps you have seen some unusual customs of a foreign people. Did you live on an island? Many of us have not had this opportunity. It is your duty to give it to us. We will appreciate it. Write about these things and let us print them.

We here extend an invitation to Navy men who would like to write or engage in any college activity. This is your school as much as ours, and we want you to become an integral part of it.

To those of you men who have never engaged in college or high school activities, now is the time to start. Every student should engage in at least one. We want you!

For the benefit of all students, new and old, the WEEKLY publishes the Muhlenberg College Alma Mater.

CAGERS RACK UP 20th AND 21st VICTORIES

Terriers Fall In Garden Tilt

Paced by a spectacular performance by Harry Donovan, the Muhlenberg Mules, ending their regularly scheduled season on Monday evening, February 25, before a crowd of 15,156 persons in New York's Madison Square Garden, routed St. Francis College 70-50. Actually, though, the victory, the twenty-first in twenty-three games, served as a spring-board for the Pennsylvania quintet, for the impressive triumph landed Muhlenberg in the National Invitational Tournament for the third successive year.

Donovan was outstanding in the Mule scoring attack and was the center of interest in an otherwise one-sided game. Throwing in 24 points from all angles on nine field goals and six foul conversions, the ex-sailor from Union Hill, N. J., was high man for the night. In addition, Hurricane Harry was little short of terrific under the back-boards and in general floor work. All in all, Donovan's was one of the outstanding performances seen in the Garden this year.

There was no doubt about Muhlenberg's superiority. In the first eight minutes they built up a commanding 25-5 lead over the Terriers and thereafter coasted. As if to prove that they could score at will, the Mules added 14 more points in two and a half minutes shortly after the start of the second half. Slackening the pace at times, the Allentown five, nevertheless, always held a lead that St. Francis never could approach.

Van Combs, the Kentucky whiz, hooked in six baskets and added seven more points from the free throw line to tally 19 points for Muhlenberg. Two veterans, Jim Doran and Red Baldwin, kicked in with 13 and 8 points respectively. Camp was high for St. Francis with 15 points.

In the opening game of the bargain bill, the Redmen of St. John's University, another team invited to the Tournament, after a slow

Gettysburg Bows 56-34

The final home game of the season saw 'Berg defeat the orange-clad Bullets of Gettysburg, 56-34, Saturday evening, February 23. The victory also concluded the regular season games in the Northern Division of the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Conference for the Mules. Muhlenberg and Lafayette, tied for the lead, and Ursinus, Southern Conference champ will engage in a Tournament next week to determine final Conference standings.

Muhlenberg was definitely off and started slowly. At the end of the first quarter it was only 8-5, and Red Baldwin personally accounted for 7 of these points. But as the game progressed, the superiority of the Mules was easily apparent. At half time it was 25-14 and at the three-quarter mark, 45-25.

Van Combs and Red Baldwin, the London, Kentucky, duo, were the big guns in the 'Berg attack with 16 and 15 points. Baldwin, playing one of his best games of the year, did most of his scoring early in the game. Comb's accurate hook shots were responsible for his being high man. Harry Donovan added 10 more points. Brown, Gettysburg guard, had 13.

Gridders Begin Spring Drills

Spring football drills began this week with Coach Schwartzwalder and assistants Lough and Barker putting a squad of 60 gridders through preliminary paces. Although this week's sessions are primarily of a limbering-up nature, the squad will get down to serious work next week.

As the basketball season draws to a close the sports spotlight will soon turn to track, baseball and tennis. Rosters of the various teams are now being formulated, and practice sessions will begin in the near future.

Mule Quintet Stuns Navy In 62-45 Rout

Scoring one of their greatest victories of the season, the Mules walloped a highly regarded five from the U. S. Naval Academy, 62-45, before a packed house of 3,700 at Rockne Hall on Friday, February 15. Navy, beaten only once before this year, and that a two point triumph in the closing seconds by North Carolina, sole conqueror of N. Y. U., never knew what hit them, as the fast Mules amassed a 12-2 lead in the first few minutes. Muhlenberg at one time built up a 25 point advantage, and Coach Lee Coker emptied the bench in swamping the baffled Midshipmen.

For just two minutes the Sailors were in the game, when the score was knotted at 2-2. The Cardinal and Gray zoomed to a 12-2 and by half-time the score was 36-19. Far beyond the wildest dreams of any rooter the Mule five continued its torrid pace, and only after the regulars left the floor, amid wild applause, could the Annapolis quintet do much to cut Muhlenberg's lead.

Three men hit the scoring column in a big way in the triumph. Hurricane Harry Donovan blazed the way with 20, most of them in the first half. The Kentucky boys, Van Combs and Red Baldwin, had 15 and 10 points respectively. For Baldwin and Jim Doran, who had 8 points, the victory was fitting revenge for last year's defeat of 'Berg at Annapolis.

Perry Carroll, who tallied 13 points, and Kenny Shugart, who drove in with lightning layups, paced the Navy team. Fans also had a chance to see Dick Duden, All-American football star, in action.

HARRY DONOVAN SCORES 19 AS WILDCATS SUCCUMB

Victory Number Eighteen for the high flying Muhlenberg Mules was a 67-46 conquest of the Wildcats of Villanova on Saturday night, February 16 at Rockne Hall. The Mules, showing the effects of their rigorous schedule—this was the third game in four nights—started slowly and led only 7-6 at the end of seven minutes. However, the Cardinal and Gray horde was unstoppable and kept getting better as the game progressed, and Villanova's aggressive tactics failed.

Amazing ability at the foul line was one of the features of the game. Muhlenberg sank no fewer than 22 out of 31 foul tries. Harry Donovan with seven for nine, plus six two-pointers, led the Mule attack. Van Combs tallied 12 points, and Ed Donovan, Joe Podany, and Red Baldwin each had 7. High man for the evening, however, was Howard Lord, set shot artist of the Philadelphia quintet who had 21 of Villanova's points.

In the early stages of the game 'Berg did most of its scoring from the foul line. Even with only three field goals in the first period the Mules enjoyed a 14-8 advantage. At half time it was 34-22. The second half saw Coach Lee Coker start a substitute five that included Podany, Rubbert, Martini, and the Donovan brothers. They sent the score up to 50-33 by the end of that canto, and in the last quarter the regulars continued the pressure and left the Philadelphians far behind, 67-46, as the game ended.

Mules Kick St. Joseph's

An early lead and accuracy at the foul line helped Muhlenberg to topple an aggressive team from St. Joseph's College, 58-49, Wednesday night, February 20, before a large crowd at Rockne Hall. The Hawks, early season conquerors of Utah, staged a spirited second half rally, but Muhlenberg was not to be denied and racked up victory number nineteen of the current season.

Billy Ferguson, strategy-minded coach of the Philadelphia college, started his so-called "B" team, holding his "A" unit in reserve. Before he could withdraw this first group, however, the Mules had built up a 13-2 lead. They continued their onslaught against the "A" squad, piling up margins of 18-5 and 34-16 at half-time. Thereafter the local quintet eased the pace but continued to enjoy its ten point advantage throughout.

CUTTING THE LACES

By Art Peters

The performance of the Mules in their recent tussle with St. Francis of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden, which saw the Mules hand the Terriers a 70 to 50 beating, established the 'Berg cage crew as one of the Nation's best.

After the game the New York sports writers were unanimous in their praise of the Coker men, and most of them put Muhlenberg down as a sure shot for a post season tournament bid. With last week's announcement that the Mules will compete in the National Invitation Tournament, the words of the Gotham scribes became an actuality.

As for Muhlenberg's chances in the tournament, we feel there are substantial grounds for optimism. During the season the Mules showed conclusively that they could play ball with the best the Nation has to offer and come out on top. During the long and grueling schedule the Mules humbled such stellar aggregations as Penn State, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Long Island University, Valparaiso, Navy and St. Joseph's. The record speaks for itself.

Another important factor to remember is that the Mules are a smartly coached outfit. During the season Lee Coker and Floyd Schwartzwalder have molded a team which works with machine-like precision. An outgrowth of this able coaching has been the development of considerable reserve strength, something which was very much needed during the two preceding seasons. This year Muhlenberg has eight or nine performers who are capable of consistently playing ball of first team caliber—this reserve strength plus excellent coaching will greatly bolster the Mules' chances to come through in the tournament.

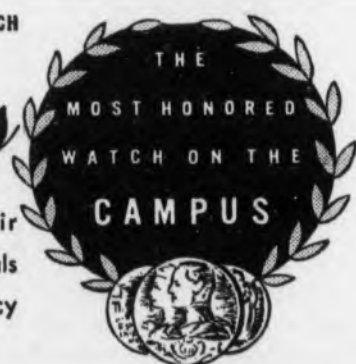

Another factor which bears mention is the added scoring punch which this year's quintet packs. In the 23 regularly scheduled games, the 'Berg hoopsters averaged approximately 59 points per start—which is scoring power in any man's league. When you stop to remember that this array of scoring was divided among five men, each of whom is capable of being an individual high scorer, even more significance emerges.

Any team which grapples with the Mules will not be able to concentrate on one man. Each man on the court is a continual scoring threat.

Adding these factors together with the team spirit and determination which the team has possessed all season, we are confident that the Mules will make a creditable showing in the tournament. In fact, we feel that the boys are capable of winning the tournament.

We'll also put our two bucks on the Mules in the Middle Atlantic States Tournament. Bill Anderson and crew are going to find it plenty tough to stop the consistent scoring of Harry Donovan and Tex Baldwin, the hook shots and follow-ups of Van Combs, the set shots of Joe Podany and Al Rubbert, the pivot throws of Eddie Donovan and the one-handers of "Dry" Martini at one and the same time. We'll take the Mules to eliminate the Leopards. Since the other teams in the tourney, Rutgers and Ursinus, are conceded to be weaker than either Muhlenberg or Lafayette, the rest of the way should not prove too burdensome.

in the teaching profession; he last served as Superintendent of Mauch Chunk. Mr. Golatz is an alumnus of Temple and the University of Pennsylvania, and a former teacher of Pennsylvania Military Academy. Attorney K. H. Koch of Allentown is another graduate of Muhlenberg, and a former Red Cross Field Director in the Pacific area.

Mr. Philip E. Bolliere will serve in the English Department under Dr. John D. M. Brown. Mr. Bolliere graduated from 'Berg in 1943, and has spent several years in the army.

In addition John H. Wagner, Alumni Secretary, who recently was put on the Navy list of inactive officers will teach in the department.

In a special interview, Registrar H. A. Benfer made particular note of two facts regarding courses: 1. Four semesters of Bible study are required of all students; 2. Physical Education is prescribed for all students in each semester that they attend Muhlenberg. Mr. Benfer also pointed out that Registration Books may be secured in his office as soon as any student completes his schedule.

The game was hard fought, something which is testified to by the fact that Harry Donovan fouled out for Muhlenberg and three Hawk players, Billy Maher, Bob and Jim O'Neill, left the court via this route. The Mules, shooting with deadly accuracy from the fifteen foot line, accounted for no fewer than 22 of their points on penalty shots.

Three men hit the double figure scoring column for 'Berg. Harry Donovan led the parade with 16, and Van Combs had 15. Jim Doran hit the cords for 10 points and Red Baldwin added nine more. Bob O'Neill's 10 was the best any Philadelphia player could do.

Writers Praise
Muhlenberg Five

New York sports writers really went for the Muhlenberg Mules in a big way after seeing them perform in Madison Square Garden last week.

William G. Wittig, staff columnist of the New York Sun, wrote: "Excitement was not to be had last night in any great quantities, but those that stayed away missed seeing a grand ball club in Muhlenberg. The Mules had the kick that most spectators like, as the squad was a well-balanced bunch of boys that could shoot with the accuracy of an expert marksman. The regulars are plenty fast and move the ball around with unusual speed."

Wittig termed Harry Donovan "as pleasing a sight to the eye as any player seen on the Eighth Avenue floor this season."

New York Herald Tribune columnist David Eisenberg commented: "In making a show of a St. Francis five that carried into action eight straight victories and a season total of 11 out of 14, Muhlenberg revealed considerable class. Harry Donovan and Van Combs led a brilliant shooting array that plays with savvy and skill."

cards should be returned to him in the WEEKLY office.

For the benefit of all the new men entering the College, many of whom will undoubtedly want to contribute to the Field House Fund, Rogers declared that pledge cards may be secured in the WEEKLY office.

Stressing the fact that all contributions regardless of the amount will be more than welcome, the chairman again urged that all students get behind the drive and thereby insure a successful campaign.

Student Council President Sweda Active In Reorganization Of Cardinal Key Society

Paul J. Gebert, Assistant Registrar, announced that the revival of the Cardinal Key Society of Muhlenberg College, an honorary service organization, is being brought about by George Sweda, president of the Student Council.

This society was first founded on May 28, 1940 by six members of the class of 1942 with the purpose of seeing that visitors on the college campus, such as debating teams, athletic squads and friends of the college, are entertained. The members of the society also acted as ushers at football games, guides during Freshman Week, Sub-freshman Day, and Parent's Day, and aided the Junior Marshals at graduation exercises. One of the society's biggest jobs of service was its work during the Muhlenberg Bi-centennial Week, May 24 to June 1, 1942.

The three faculty advisers for the society are Paul Gebert, Assistant Registrar, Dr. John D. M. Brown, Professor of English Literature, and Dr. Harold K. Marks, Professor of Music. The emblem of this service organization is a gray "M" superimposed on a cardinal key. This group was patterned after similar service groups in other colleges and universities.

The membership is limited to fifteen. There are five seniors, five juniors, and five sophomores. Five sophomores who have met the qualifications of the society are initiated into the group and serve until they leave the college by graduation. Besides the fifteen regular members, freshman students assist and from these freshmen on probation, five are chosen to become permanent members of the society when they become sophomores. The initiation ceremony is very colorful and elaborate. The nominees for the society must be approved by the Dean and Student Council.

Dr. Levering Tyson, President of the College, stated that in the past the society was very successful in its work and was highly thought of. He further stated that its reorganization will be very beneficial to the welfare of the college.

In announcing re-organization plans, Gebert pointed out that societies at other colleges with functions similar to those of the Cardinal Key Society are among the most active and eminent. He added that membership in these serv-

Two New Men Join 'Berg Faculty; Changes Made In Administration Staff

With the tremendous influx of new students during recent weeks, and the additions to Muhlenberg's faculty announced in the last edition of the WEEKLY, several new faces have been evident also in the offices of the Administration Building and elsewhere on the campus.

Former Lieut. John H. Wagner has returned to his desk as executive secretary of the Alumni Association of the college after years service in the Navy. Stationed at various times at Solomon, Fort Pierce, Fla., and Bainbridge, Lieutenant Wagner was an instructor training officer. During Lt. Wagner's absence, alumni activities here were handled by Gordon B. Fister of the Public Relations Staff.

Now assisting Miss Kuntz in Dr. Tyson's office is Miss Berlyrae Neifert of Summit Hill, Penna. Miss Neifert has completed her schooling at Allentown Business College and will be graduated in July.

At present in charge of the mail room and mimeographing department is Mrs. Arlene Knoll, who replaces Mary Moser, now working in the business office.

Dr. Shankweiler has a new secretary in the person of Miss Anne Kuntz, a native of Scranton, Penna. A graduate of Taylor High School, Taylor, Pa., Miss Kuntz was formerly employed at the Allentown ration board headquarters.

Miss Gladys Shute came to Muhlenberg several weeks ago to be Secretary and assistant to Miss Anne Mulcaster, college dietitian. Miss Shute has attended the Northfield School for Girls, Northfield, Mass., and the Boston Y.W.C.A. School of Domestic Science, and has served in hospitals in Massachusetts and Illinois. Previously employed at the same place was Miss Jeanette Furler,

Student Aid Requested By Ciarla Editor

All men who are interested in working for the next few months on either the Business or Literary staffs of the Ciarla are urgently needed, Jack Reumann, Editor-in-chief of the publication, revealed yesterday in an interview. The Ciarla, always one of the top year-books in the country, has not been published since June, 1943, but is now being readied for appearance in June.

Jim Gross, the Business Manager, is particularly anxious to have several new men interested in advertising added to his staff. Any student interested in this work is requested to see Gross. In addition, students experienced in write-up or lay-out work will be welcomed to the staff. Although the call applies chiefly to Juniors and Seniors, some Sophomores are needed, in order that they may be trained for next year's staff, which will be elected later this spring.

"The obstacles faced in getting this year's book out are far tougher than ever in the past," Reumann said. This year's staff, for example, is starting "from scratch." There has been no carry-over from previous staffs, and there was no work done towards the publication during the war years. The present book must cov-

Oratorical Contest Slated For April 11

Offering the income from $1000 as an award, the Jeanie Kramer Oratorical Contest will be staged on April 11. As prescribed, the profit will be divided in ratios of 50-30-30 for the first, second, and third prizes respectively.

George Derr Krouse established the Fund in 1942 as a memorial to his wife and designated the general theme as some aspect of music. This year, the verbal joust will be based on "The Influence of Music".

The contests are judged by several men from the Allentown area; they are not always professional musicians but music plays an important part in all their lives.

Any member of the Junior class who is interested is requested to contact Dr. Brown of the English department.

Cast Selected For Assembly Plays; Production April 4

After try-outs this week, the casts for the two plays, "Red Carnations" and "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," which will be presented at the Student Assembly on April 4, have been selected. Under the auspices of the Mask and Dagger Club, rehearsals will begin March 18.

Forensic Council Issues Call For Additional Men

All varsity debaters and any other students interested in oratory are to meet Tuesday morning, March 19, at 11:30 a.m. in the English office, the Forensic Council has announced. Paul Gesregan, Council President, urged especially that experienced men report, as plans for the remainder of the semester will be discussed. In addition, students without any experience will also be welcomed.

At the meeting on Tuesday, specific plans will be made. Activity for the semester will be determined by the amount of interest shown. At present, tentative debates are listed with Ursinus, Temple, and Syracuse University. Muhlenberg is also a member of the Lehigh Valley Intercollegiate Debating Association, which meets monthly. Plans to establish a practice league for inexperienced debaters are being formulated; this will also be discussed at the meeting. Anyone unable to attend the meeting on Tuesday is to contact, Gesregan or Ernest Hoh.

Muhlenberg debaters received their first work-out of the semester last night when a group of them attended a forum on "What Kind of Labor Legislation Should Be Enacted?" Students from five local colleges spoke. Representing John Q. Public in the forum at Cedar Crest College, Paul Gesregan gave the average man's viewpoint in the matter. A short business meeting preceded the debate.

A new instructor, Mr. Philip Bollier of the English department is in charge of the debating this term in place of Professor Everitt who is on a leave-of-absence. Mr. Bollier was active in this field in his undergraduate days at Muhlenberg and has recently returned from the service.

Before the war Muhlenberg debaters achieved considerable prominence throughout the East. It is hoped that 'Berg orators will climb to their pre-war position, now that a normal enrollment is on the campus.

Both plays are humorous. Complications are the key-note of "Red Carnations," which was written by Glenn Hughes. At a masked ball "she" met "him." They arranged to meet in the park, "he" with a red carnation on his lapel as a means of identification. Unfortunately, papa also comes along, he, too, wearing a red carnation. Mr. Hughes solves the ensuing difficulties in a charming and entertaining manner. The second play, "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," is by George Kauffman. The characters speak in masculine voices about masculine subjects while the intonations are those of the fairer sex.

The four card-players are John, Bob, Marc, and George, played respectively by Phil Mitterling, Jim Gross, Bob Turton, and Herb Garber. The latter two are freshmen. Garber is a graduate of Central High School in Philadelphia, where he was active in dramatics and debating, winning a letter in debating.

A graduate of Columbia High in Maplewood, N. J., Turton was active in dramatics there. He last appeared in "The Royal Family." Turton comes from South Orange. Gross and Mitterling are both Mask and Dagger veterans. Gross, a native of Allentown, has appeared in several Muhlenberg plays and is very active in extra-curricular activities, including Ciarla, the WEEKLY, and Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Mitterling, from Hollidaysburg, rose to dramatic fame by ascending a rope as "Little Willie" in "East Lynne." Also a member of Alpha Tau Omega, he is active in several campus organizations.

Heading the cast of "Red Carnations" are Paul Rabuck as the Father, and Bob Kantra as the boyfriend. Both students are sophomores. Rabuck has just returned to college after service in the army. Kantra appeared in "Rope" last semester.

The two plays will be directed by John Rogers. Gerald Rogers is to be stage manager, and Charles Markley will act as electrician.

There are few additions to Muhlenberg which could be more welcome than the proposed new field house. When the appeal for a fund to build it was made, those who are not so actively concerned with a new field house gave a heartening response. It is only fair that we who stand to benefit most from this project do the same. Of course, we do not want anyone to give up his dates in order to contribute to the fund. But, we are solidly behind the campaign and we would like to be able to say that everyone in Muhlenberg has helped. Pledge cards can be obtained in the WEEKLY office.

We would like to express our appreciation to Coaches Lee Coker and Major Schwartzwalder for producing one of the finest basketball teams that has ever played for Muhlenberg. We especially wish to thank the players for their hard work and sacrifices which made the team possible. We know how difficult it is to spend many hours practicing each day and then to study. Regardless of whether you win or lose we're behind you all the way.

Last week a ballot was published to determine the players on the East-West All-Star Basketball team. Only two ballots were received. Certainly some of the members of our great team deserved your support. This is an example of the present do-nothing attitude which exists among the student body. How would you feel if the basketball team decided it was too much trouble to go to New York on Saturday?

We were more than pleased to welcome the return last week of one of the most interesting features which our campus affords, The Student Assembly Programs. The schedule has been so arranged that all students may attend these bi-monthly features which we feel should gain the support of the entire student body. This can only be done by everyone—students and faculty alike—manifesting their interest by attending. Need we say more?

President George Sweda of the Student Council has announced that one of the chief functions of the Student Council will be to stimulate extra-curricular activities. We believe this is one of the most important points of any student organization program. We will give President Sweda all the help which we may command. But the success of such a program is after all in the hands of the student body.

Are You Thinking?

Some of the members of our faculty have suggested that we as students are not learning the one thing which above all should be the most prominent feature in our education—the art of thinking. In many courses, should the instructor ask any objective question, few students have trouble in giving the correct answer. But, when the question is so phrased that the answer requires not merely memorization, but deductions from the material learned, the average student is lost. Is this the fault of the professor? Is this the fault of the student? Does the professor have the right to expect the college student to think, or should he be prohibited from demanding that the student know his material and then use that material to demonstrate his theory of the subject?

Not all of Muhlenberg's graduates can be Miltons, but, in addition to being able to spell and punctuate correctly, the student should be able to write a theme and express himself in a manner that will be pleasing and coherent to others. Any man who spends his time in a history class for two years should be able to do more than recite a few dates and proper names. He should at least have some theories of his own on the causes and effects of what is happening today and what is likely to happen tomorrow.

A language course is of little value if after two or three years of study, the student cannot carry on even a simple conversation. But is this all the fault of the courses offered? The men who are foremost in their criticisms are often hindmost when it comes to taking advantage of the opportunities offered. How many language students bother to tune in a foreign language program or to try and read a foreign language magazine? No time you say—and yet, there is time for Bob Hope. Too many of us expect to become educated by merely paying the bursar and passing exams.

I believe that the student body is very poorly informed. In the few instances where a student is informed, he is able to do little more than repeat the

The Awful Truth . . .

Once again we take our venomous pen in hand to spread a wee bit more of the hate and malice which we had the pleasure of dispensing in years past . . . Going to press right before the Lafayette game and extending our best to the gang for the coming Middle Atlantic and also the Garden tussles. The guys have been doing a bang-up job and they really rate in our books . . .

Case you haven't noticed on your sojourns about the hallowed halls of Muhlenberg, quite a few of the men stationed here with the Navy are returning to continue their quest for knowledge; "I say QUEST, that is" . . . Therefore from time to time we will try to keep you guys informed of the whereabouts of some of the old crew and who's doing what to who!!

Speaking of doing what to who; Jim Dorap, "MR. MUHLENBERG", has confided in this reporter on the matrimony angle. It's really on the Q.T. but Jim has finally let the dope slip and when asked about the situation he replied, "Aw Gee". That's what we like about the boys, they're always eager to louse up a guy's story. . . . The old master Don Starnier is once more holding sway in the daily sessions. Set-up is a little different right now; you see the Mrs. is expecting the stork momentarily, and Don is saving his strength. We could say what for but why should there be so many laughs in one column.

SCREAM OF THE WEEK: The happy lad on the campus with the Navy jumper, gabardine trousers, plaid socks, suede shoes and flat hat. Can't tell whether he's with the unit or an escapee from Forrestal's Frothing Flotilla. Don't laugh guys, remember that opening session at the Lakes, Sampson, Newport or where-ever you happened to get caught up with???

By the by, should any of you guys have a wee bit of inside info you would like conveyed to your fellow students, I use the word lightly, how 'bout dropping a little note into the WEEKLY box just outside the phone room in the Ad Building and we will be glad to oblige. Anything from a nasty note to the guy who nixed your notebook, to a willing woman's wily weaknesses. Results on the latter not guaranteed as we will most likely take a stab at that ourselves, "I say stab, that is" . . .

We are quite sure that most of you fellows are all familiar with one William "Scotty" Renwick, more affectionately known as "Bearbait". In case you don't know the gentleman, we suggest a trip to the trainers room and there to feast your eyes upon the only living soul to swim the length of the Grand Canal in Italy, (1918) with two loaves of bread, a case of XXX, and a furlough paper balancing on his head. QUESTION: who forged the furlough paper??? We love you buddy.

We note that the campaign to raise the fresh green stuff for the Field House is a bit behind schedule. Don't have to state about it being a worthy cause or anything like that. Must be that it has slipped some minds or that the bankroll was weak at the time. Let's get going and get it built, every couple of coins help. Don't be shy and when the man comes around; BE THERE. . .

Don't forget the contribution to the WEEKLY box, don't forget to pull the Mules home a winner in the Garden and don't forget spring is on the way, cemetery season . . .

On The Campus

Field House Drive

With less than a week to run, the Student Campaign Fund for the Field House is far from being successful. According to Chairman John E. Rogers, who states that the past week has seen the fund increased by well over one hundred dollars. But says Rogers, this entire amount came from only one source; namely, brothers of Alpha Tau Omega House. This means that still to be heard from are the Lambda Chi fraternity and many of the non-fraternity students on the campus, which latter group constitute a rather sizeable portion of the student body.

Expressing the hope again that before the campaign closes, all students will have contributed something, Rogers reiterated the fact that pledge cards may be obtained in the WEEKLY office: in West Hall from Proctor John Reumann, in East Hall from Ernest Hoh, in A.T.O. House from Philip Mitterling, in P.K.T. House from Donald Martin and in Lambda Chi House from Lambert Zaengle.

Stressing the fact that all contributions regardless of the amount will be heartily received, the chairman looks forward to a successful final week. Don't forget the closing date, March 19.

The German Club

Der Deutsche Verein, honorary German Club, will hold a reorganizational meeting for the present term this coming Monday evening, March 18, at 7:30 in the West Hall recreation room. The election of officers and the discussion of plans for the coming term will be taken up. Refreshments will be served by a committee headed by Donald Miller, and all members and former members of the club now on the campus are urged to attend.

The nominating committee has chosen the following men as candidates for the various offices. For president, Jack Reumann and Paul Walter; vice president, second highest of presidential candidates; secretary, Ralph Boyer, Craig Dorward, and Donald Miller; and for assistant treasurer, Phil Mitterling and Dick Bieber. Dr. Reichard, faculty adviser, along with Dr. Barba, is also permanent treasurer. Any additional nominations may be made at the meeting.

The German club, oldest organization on the campus has as its aim the furtherance of student interest in the German language and culture. This is accomplished through special programs, typical German parties, "Ausflug," and the singing of German songs.

Philosophical Frat

Dr. Charles A. Haff, well-known surgeon of Northampton, will address the members of Alpha Kappa Alpha, honorary philosophical fraternity, at their regular bi-monthly meeting next Thursday evening, March 21, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at 2116 Allen St., home of Dr. Stine, faculty adviser.

Besides his medical work, Dr. Haff is actively engaged in music and church work. He possesses a fine collection of rare musical instruments which date as far back as the 16th century. His church activities include the posts of superintendent emeritus of St. Paul's Ev. Reformed Sunday School, Northampton and active teacher of the Young Men's Triangle Bible Class.

The fraternity welcomes back those brothers who left for the service and who now have returned to the campus.

Student Assemblies

A week ago, the student body was addressed by Mr. William C. Hinze who presented a resume of his activities as a member for the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mr. Hinze pointed out the rigid physical and mental requirements and outlined briefly an average role of one of his colleagues. Mr. Andrew H. Erskine, English instructor and a friend of Mr. Hinze, presented the speaker to the student body.

On March 21, the assembly program will again feature a speaker. Mr. William Davidson; he is manager of the Bell Telephone Company in this area. Mr. Davidson is planning to discuss one of the foremost points of interest in the minds of the world, "Atomic Energy". The Massachusetts Institute of Technology conferred two degrees on Mr. Davidson who, because of a fascinating appeal brought out by an ability to make science interesting for laymen, is one of the most popular speakers in this locale.

Inter-Frat Council

Plans for the Spring rushing season by fraternities on the campus were completed on Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the inter-fraternity Council held in the Alpha Tau Omega House.

The formal rushing period will begin on Monday, March 18th, and continue for two weeks, ending at 6 p.m. on Sunday, March 31st. A "quiet" period will then be maintained until bids are issued on Thursday, April 4th, at 7:30 p.m. in the Physics Office by Winfield Keck, faculty adviser to the Inter-fraternity Council.

The Council also delegated dates for smokers and dances to be held during the formal rushing period, dances being held the first week and smokers the second. The dates for the various affairs as scheduled are:

Phi Kappa Tau: Dance, March 21st; Smoker, March 28th.

Alpha Tau Omega: Dance, March 20th; Smoker, March 25th.

Lambda Chi Alpha: Dance, March 18th; Smoker, March 27th.

George Abel, president of the Council, presided at the meeting.

Carnegie Room

The Carnegie Music Room, due to the great increase in the number of students at Muhlenberg this semester, has adjusted its schedule to remain accessible to students every afternoon and evening during the week.

Located on the third floor of the northwest corner of the library building, the Carnegie Music Room houses a collection of nearly 2,000 records, ranging from Bach to Gershwin, with the musical scores for those who desire to follow. The room itself, adorned with drapes and thick rugs, is furnished with comfortable chairs where the listeners may recline while one of the two attendants, Ernest Hawk and Dick Bieber, find the desired records.

Some more recent additions to the collections are Ravel's Bolero and Gershwin's Concerto in F.

Those new students who have not already done so are urged to pay a visit to the Carnegie Music Room. Following is the weekly schedule of hours for this semester:

Monday—2:30 - 6:15; 6:45 - 9:00

Tuesday—3:30 - 4:30; 5:30 - 6:15; 6:45 - 9:00

Wednesday—2:30 - 6:15; 6:45 - 9:00

Thursday—3:30 - 4:30; 5:30 - 6:15; 6:45 - 9:00

Friday—2:30 - 6:15; 6:45 - 9:00
Saturday—9:00 - 12:00 A. M.

MULES TO MEET SYRACUSE

Cagers In Tournament Contest On Saturday

The Muhlenberg Mules take their place among the cage greats of the nation tomorrow night as they meet a favored Syracuse University quintet in the first round competition of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament. The Muhlenberg-Syracuse game will be preceded by another first round tussle, Kentucky vs. Arizona.

The Mules with a record of 22 wins and three losses will be facing a foe which boasts an equally impressive record, 23 wins and three losses, the Orange of Syracuse holding victories over Cornell, Temple, St. John's and Dartmouth. One of their three defeats was sustained at the hands of N.Y.U., the top team of the country, in an early season fray in the Garden.

The up-state New Yorkers have a tall rangy team which averages 6'4", one member of the squad stretching 6'10" into the stratosphere.

Muhlenberg will be making its third consecutive appearance in the National Invitation Tournament. Two years ago the Mules were eliminated by DePaul and last year they fell by the wayside after a one-point reversal inflicted by St. John's.

Regulars Jim Doran, Tex Baldwin, Harry Donovan, Van Combs and Al Rubbert will bear the brunt of the attack, but Leo Martini, Joe Podany and Eddie Donovan are sure to see plenty of action.

TRACK MEN HOLD DRILLS

Track practice got underway this week under the guidance of Coach Barker as 34 candidates reported for the opening session. Although no lettermen are back from last year's team, Barker feels confident that 'Berg will field a squad which will cause her rivals considerable trouble on the cinder path.

As yet the drills are informal, consisting mainly of limbering-up and conditioning rigors. All men interested in any event are urged to come out and get in shape now.

Veterans Fortify Baseball Roster

With new coaches at the reigns and many experienced baseball veterans in the fold, Muhlenberg's baseball training program got under way this past Monday with the signing of forty-two candidates. Prospects for a good season loom excellent as many former Mule sluggers are back on campus and should add to the strength of the team. Lefty Myers, former Mule hurler, George Bibighaus, Tuss Becker, and Pete Gorgone, along with former manager, Foster Blair, have returned, while Oscar Baldwin, Jim Doran, Sam Krouse, John Waelchli, and Don Starner are back from last year's squad.

This last Monday, Coach Lough started to get his moundsmen and catchers, limbered-up, having them warm up indoors. In two weeks the rest of the team will start work and will probably work out on the Muhlenberg diamond.

Not much is known as to the exact strength of the club about to be formed, what with many new men, including some from the Naval unit, out for the team. It is thought, however, that the team will be able to bring the Mules up from the depths they reached last year when they had a scrappy, but green, outfit.

The schedule has not yet been completed, but it is known that the Mules will tackle New York University, Lafayette (2 games), and many of the other schools represented in the Middle Atlantic League.

Mules Bounce Back In Middle Atlantic Tourney; Sink Ursinus

Having been rudely jolted after dropping a heart-breaking 59 to 58 overtime thriller to Lafayette on the opening night of the Middle Atlantic States Conference Tournament, the Muhlenberg Mules had to be content with a 67 to 30 win over a weak Ursinus team in a consolation contest to satisfy their quest for victory in the tourney.

Grid Prospects Look Promising

By Sam Krouse

For the past two weeks sixty erstwhile candidates for Muhlenberg's 1946 football machine have been working out their kinks in Spring training under Coaches Schwartzwalder, Lough, and Barker. Each day the squad is divided into two groups; the line, under the tutelage of Coach Lough, and the backfield, under the reigns of Schwartzwalder and Barker. Most of the time has been spent in getting the fellows into condition and getting them to heed the training rules.

The coaches have been running the boys through blocking, tackling, and running exercises, and many bright prospects have been seen in the ranks. There has been one big disappointment, however, and that is the fact that some of the squad has not been regular in attending practices, so that the coaches really only have about thirty men to work with. It seems as if the warm weather drilling

Netmen To Begin Practice Sessions

The tennis team is to be called out sometime this coming week, and practice will begin as soon as weather permits, according to Dr. John V. Shankweiler, tennis coach. All practice and home matches will be played on the Oakmont Tennis Courts.

Two former members of Muhlenberg's undefeated team of 1942, Walter Weller and Robert Ranken, will form the nucleus of this year's squad. Bill Klink formerly of Allentown High's tennis team, is notable among the new prospects.

The first scheduled match of the regular season will be played away from home on May 1st against Swarthmore.

Ursinus Victory Easy

On the following evening Red Baldwin came back and paced the Muhlenberg five in a 67 to 30 slaughter of Ursinus. Scoring 21 points in the Ursinus rout, Baldwin brought his two-game total to 47 tallies.

Getting off to a 19 to 1 lead, the Mules completely outclassed Ursinus from beginning to end. It was the Mules' 22nd victory in 25 starts.

The Mules held a 32 to 13 advantage at halftime and reeled off a 50 to 20 edge at the three quarter mark. The second team played the entire last frame and kept the ball rolling.

Honors and awards for Harry "Hurricane" Donovan, freshman sensation of the crack Muhlenberg College basketball team, came in leaps and bounds this week as the 19-year-old Union, N. J. flash was named to two national all-star quintets and chosen as the most valuable player in the recent Middle Atlantic States Conference Tournament.

The first of the honors bestowed on "Hurricane" Harry came on Tuesday night when he was named by the Middle Atlantic States Conference Committee as the most valuable player in the conference tournament held on Monday and Tuesday in Lehigh University's Grace Hall. The trophy which he received was awarded to the player who displayed the highest degree of sportsmanship and all-around athletic prowess in the tourney.

On Wednesday morning it was disclosed that Harry Donovan had been selected as a member of the team representing the East which will compete in the first annual East-West All-Star basketball game to be played in Madison Square Garden on March 30 for benefit of the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund. The appointment was made in recognition of the brand of ball which Harry has been playing all season and in particular the standout performance which he turned in during the Muhlenberg-St. Francis game in the Garden a few weeks ago, in which he tallied 24 points and ran St. Francis ragged with his stellar floorplay.

On Wednesday afternoon it was announced in New York that Harry Donovan, along with Bob Kurland of Oklahoma A. and M., Milo Komenich of Wyoming, George Mikan of DePaul and George Kok of Arkansas had been chosen as the All-Madison Square Garden team of 1946. This team of the Nation's greats in the cage world is composed of what a committee consisting of metropolitan coaches consider to be the top five performers in the Garden this year.

Harry last week was elected by players of the Villanova College basketball squad to their All-Opponent team.

Taking into consideration that this is his first season of collegiate basketball, the array of praise and honorary awards which have fallen his way are even more meaningful. Harry will be giving basketball coaches in the East plenty to worry about for three more years.

Student Council Outlines Plans

In the first student body meeting of the semester held in the science auditorium on Thursday, March 14, Council President George Sweda announced plans and social activities which the council is formulating for the coming months. Included among these were two dances which are to take place as soon as the lenten season expires.

Another member of the council, Foster Blair, in an effort to promote student activity on the campus unveiled plans for a tug-of-war contest to be held at Cedar Beach between freshman and upperclassmen, sometime in the near future.

Also present was John Rogers, editor-in-chief of the school paper who disclosed intentions for a reorganization of the WEEKLY office.

Sweda as well as the other student representatives stressed throughout the entire meeting that now is the time for students to get behind all of the school's activities and make them organizations of which we can be proud.

Are You Thinking?

opinions of others. He has not yet learned to think for himself. I asked one Junior what he thought of the U.N.O. He said, "It is good." But he knew little of its organization, he knew few of either its good or bad points. He had not one single thought as to how it could be made to work better. He was not particularly concerned as to whether it could continue to operate or not! He thought that it was good and yet he did not really know anything about it. Do you? I heard one student suggest that this country was no longer a democracy but a socialistic state. Yet he could not tell me what constituted state socialism and he even had trouble in defining a democracy. He could not tell me the things that had changed us. Few students would get their degrees if they were required to write a thesis on why we entered this war. I have heard some students say that we were fighting England's war and yet they could not defend their position. Can you defend yours?

Since learning to think is one of the primary objectives of our college education, we shall inaugurate, starting next week with an article on some phase of our national life, a series of articles designed to stimulate thought among the students. Any ideas or arguments should be written and placed in the press box for the feature staff. Let's start THINKING.

Evening Classes Get Under Way

In addition to the opening of an enlarged day school, the past two weeks have also seen the formation of a number of classes in the night sections. Assistant Registrar Paul J. Gebert tabulated a list of the courses running at present.

Mr. Raymond Walter is conducting classes in freshman English and English literature. Dr. Kilmer is holding a class in sociology and Mr. Melville Boyer has a group in visual education.

In the scientific branch, Dr. Brandes is officiating in an organic chemistry course, while Mr. Carl Boyer manages a sophomore physics assemblage.

Dr. Stine is teaching three courses: Ethics, Psychology of Religion, and the History of Philosophy. Mr. Klammer, a member of Cedar Crest's faculty, is instructing one class in American history and another in history of Pennsylvania. A class in freshman French is being conducted by Dr. Corbiere.

Mr. Gebert pointed out that since more GI's will be asking for courses, additional classes will probably be formed.

doesn't go over too well with the players. The coaches are hoping that, with the start of Fall drills, the squad will return to its full strength and that the team will shape up into a fast, dangerous machine.

Several men, such as Al Rubbert, Joe Staudinger, and Jim Doran, are back from last year's team, while former players such as Bibighaus, Starner, Reimer, Gorgone, and Celian have also reported. Several new men, from West Virginia especially, look promising, and it shouldn't be too much trouble for the coaches to formulate a good team to represent Muhlenberg on the gridiron this year.

er almost nine terms or three years. It must present a period during which class lines were for the most part broken down and activities were, temporarily interrupted. The present staff, moreover, was not chosen until November and active work could be begun only mid-way in the last semester.

Extensive changes have been planned both in the physical appearance and inside contents of the book to meet the special requirements and conditions for this year's Ciarla, and to make use of recent innovations and techniques in lay-out. The page size of the 1947 Ciarla will be seven inches by eleven inches, and the book will be bound in gray book-cloth, trimmed with cardinal. Thus the finished product will be more of a book than previous Ciarlas and will present a more attractive appearance in a library. Sections of the book, in addition to campus views and a general review of happenings at Muhlenberg during the past three years, will include ones of Faculty and Administration, Classes, Training Units, Sports, and Activities. Material in the book will cover happenings from July, 1943, until February, 1946.

Five Associate Editors are assisting in preparing the 1947 Ciarla. They are Jack Schwalm, in charge of Faculty and Administration, Bob Oswald, whose staff is compiling the section on Classes, Foster Blair, Training Units, Jack Yohe, under whose direction the part of the book concerned with Sports is being prepared, and Paul Gesregan, who is in charge of campus activities.

Two Casts Rehearse For Assembly Plays; Production April 4

On Monday evening, rehearsals of the two plays for the assembly program scheduled for April 4 got under way. The two plays, "Red Carnations" and "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," are being directed by John Rogers who stated that in just three rehearsals this week the casts already show signs of presenting notable performances.

Rogers announced that Miss Dorothy Gottschall, a senior at Allentown High School, has been chosen as the feminine lead in "Red Carnations". The director also stated that although he has two capable "behind the scenes" men in stage manager Gerald Rogers and electrician Charles Markley, there is a need for additional stage-hands and electricians.

All students who remember the humor of "East Lynne" and the mystery of "Rope" know that a fine performance is in store. Since the plays are both comedies, and since the WEEKLY's staff of expert drama critics predict a merry time, the student body will no doubt find the hour very enjoyable.

It is of worthy note that one of the important functions of these student assembly productions is to give an opportunity to all potential talent. In the past, the Mask and Dagger Club formed its ranks from those who came out and made themselves known through these performances.

Andrew H. Erskine, instructor in English and faculty adviser for the Mask and Dagger, announced that there is a great need for additional talent. "Coming plays will be much bigger successes if we have the whole-hearted support and interest of the entire student body," he said.

In expressing the need for stage managers, assistants, electricians and the like, Erskine pointed out, "It seems no one wants these production jobs, although these are perhaps the most essential."

In this connection, he revealed that the forthcoming spring production of the Mask and Dagger Club, a Shakespearean drama, will have places for many more than are now in that organization.

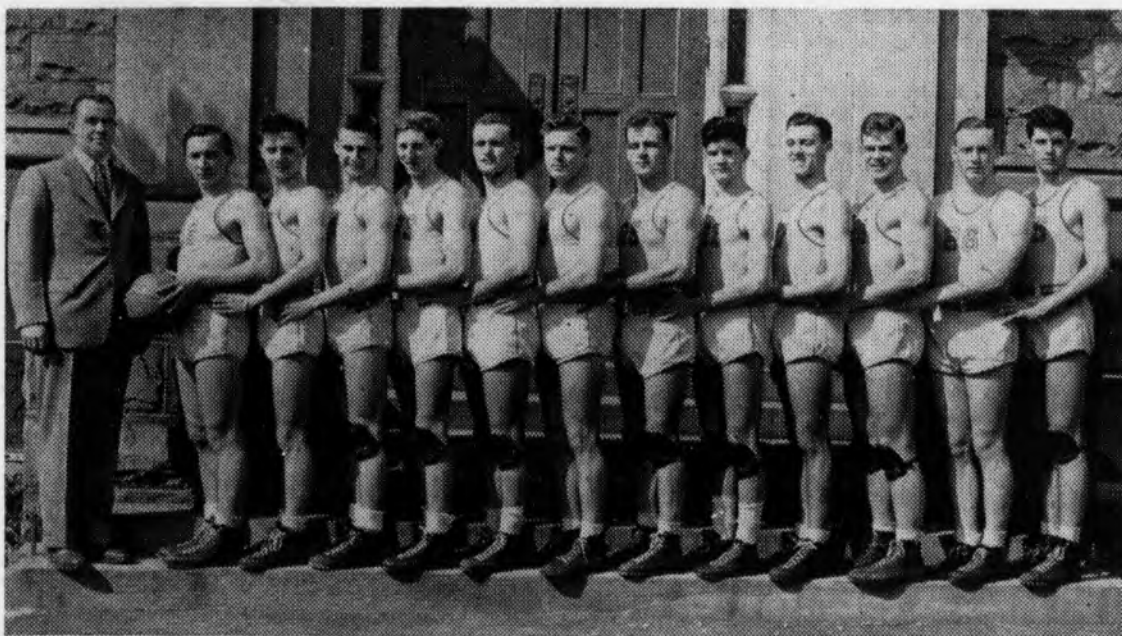

Poll Reveals Freshman Regs Favored By Student Body

Muhlenberg College is returning to its prewar activities and with it comes the question of Freshman Regulations.

Before the war, the freshmen were under strict regulations. Wearing of dinks and black ties, entering the buildings only by the front door, memorizing the Alma Mater and Freshman Challenge, and engaging in the annual Tugs-of-War, Pansy Bowl, and Banner Light were all part of Freshman activities.

A beginning has been made toward the reactivation of such regulations and activities with the announcement made by Foster Blair at the Student Body meeting last Thursday that the traditional Tug-of-War will be held in the near future. Because of the large influx of new students, however, it will not be a pull between the freshmen and sophomores, but rather, a contest between the first semester freshmen and the rest of

'BERG'S 1946 TOURNAMENT SQUAD

Reception Hails Basketball Team As Mules End Great Cage Season

An enthusiastic student body and boisterous group of fans yesterday welcomed home the Muhlenberg Mules basketball squad from New York, where they played in the National Invitation Tournament. Finishing fourth in the competition, bowing to Rhode Island State and West Virginia after a surprising victory over Syracuse, the Mules were met at the Allentown railroad station at 1:30 p.m. After moving up Hamilton Street and out to the college in a motorcade, the team was greeted by speeches and ceremonies. Thus was the squad that for the third straight year has brought national recognition to Muhlenberg College, welcomed home.

Field House Fund Tops $309,000

When the student campaign for Muhlenberg's field house came to an official close on Tuesday, Chairman John Rogers announced that the amount received thus far is in excess of $500. He added that since all of the pledge cards which were given out have not yet been returned, the amount can be expected to increase considerably even to the point of doubling itself.

This official close does not mean that contributions will no longer be accepted; it does mean that, from here on, the students are entirely on their own. Rogers stated, however, that all students who wish to make contributions toward the erection of the "best field house in the state" and who either didn't receive a card or misplaced

Robert Ritter, acting mayor of the city, Attorney Eugene Gorman and Dr. Levering V. Tyson, president of the college, headed the reception committee. Gurney Afflerbach, Director of Athletics, and Coach Lee Coker also spoke briefly. Both the coach and the team were hailed for the conclusion of another successful season. The college Student Council handled most of the details for the reception and organized the motorcade under the direction of President George Sweda.

The Mules finished their regular season with a record of two losses and twenty-one triumphs. In post season play, meeting five opponents in ten days in two tournaments, Muhlenberg added two more triumphs. The record thus for the year was twenty-three up and five down.

Prospects for such an outstanding season were slim last fall. Jim Doran and Red Baldwin, mainstays of the 1944-45 squad, when St. John's eliminated the Mules from last year's tournament by one point, were back. Al Julian had moved into the head coaching position at Holy Cross, but under Lee Coker's guidance another great team was developed.

Leading scorer was Harry "Hurricane" Donovan, a freshman. An all-state player in New Jersey last year, Donovan was named to this year's all-Garden Five, including George Mikan, seven-foot Bob Kurland, Wyoming's All-American Komenich, and George Kok, of Arkansas. Brother Ed Donovan, tallest man on the Muhlenberg squad at six feet, four inches, played some outstanding games, excelling on rebounds and tap-ins.

Red Baldwin proved again why he was named to the All-Pennsylvania Five last year. Baldwin was especially hot during the post season games, scoring twenty-three points from the pivot spot against Syracuse. It was Baldwin who brought Van Combs, a fellow Kentuckian, to Muhlenberg. A hook-shot artist, Combs developed into a fine offensive player after a slow start.

Forensic Council Calls For Freshman Debaters; To Hold Tournament

On April 11th, Muhlenberg will side with Moravian College for Women to present the United States' point of view on its relationship with Argentina at an open forum in Lehigh's Broussing Room. Cedar Crest and Lafayette will present Argentina's views. Featuring the discussion will be several interesting facts, relationships, and points of view coming from a native Argentinian who is now attending Cedar Crest College.

Discussing the future program of the Forensic Council Tuesday morning, members came to the conclusion that freshman debating activities must be begun in order to build a strong team for next season's intercollegiate debates.

Dean Horn Announces Semester Schedule, Easter Vacation

Dean R. C. Horn announced this week that Muhlenberg students will enjoy a vacation of five days over the Easter holidays. Undergraduates will be free from 4:30 p.m., Thursday, April 18th, till classes are resumed at 8:00 a.m., Wednesday, April 24th. The men must attend all scheduled classes on Thursday, April 18th, and then they will be excused till Wednesday, April 24th, on which date they must attend all classes scheduled for that day.

The Navy V-12 Unit may possibly not observe the same vacation period as the civilian students since many of the Navy's classes started after the regular classes this semester. Dean Horn stressed the point that vacation dates for the Navy men on campus will be announced later by their commanding officer.

The Dean also announced that the week of June 17-21 has been tentatively designated as Exami-

Five 'Berg Men Delegates To Model UNO

Five students from Muhlenberg College will attend the Model United Nations Organization Conference to be held at Lafayette College, Easton, on March 28, 29, and 30. Dr. Victor L. Johnson of the Social Science Department revealed this week. The delegates, who will represent Mexico, are Foster Blair, Phil Mitterling, Steve Sivcho, and Russell Everitt. In addition, John Myers will represent Peru.

The Congress will be attended by more than thirty-five colleges and universities from all over the Eastern United States. Each school will send a delegation representing a nation which it has chosen or which has been assigned to it. Delegates from a college are to specialize in one particular phase of the work of the United Nations Organization, and they will attend the sessions of that particular body. Among these specialized bodies of the Conference are the Political Commission, Legal Commission, Economic Commission, and the Economic and Social Council. During the course of the meetings at Lafayette the college students will discuss issues and problems of the day in a realistic atmosphere. Complete accommodations, including entertainment, will be provided by the host college.

Foster Blair will be on the Political Commission, Phil Mitterling on the Legal, and Steve Sivcho on the Social Commission. As a representative of Peru, John Myers will be on the Economic and Social Council.

The five students from the college who will take part in the Assembly were selected from more than a dozen candidates. There was a special training course which covered the general workings of the UNO and Mexican affairs and history. This work was done under the direction of Dr. James E. Swain, Dr. Johnson, Mr. Norman Wilkinson, Mr. Karl F. J. Wittrich, and Mr. Kenneth Koch, all of the Social Science Department. These men will attend some of the sessions. In addition to this work, all the students had to do extensive reading on Mexico and the field in which they were specializing. Various reports were nation Week. It is quite possible that a few examinations may be held on dates prior to this, however. Commencement exercises will be held the following Monday and Tuesday, June 23rd and 24th.

The college will again hold a Summer Session this year, which will cover eight weeks of academic work. Classes of the Summer Session will begin on July 1st. All students must report to their respective professors for the beginning of classes on that date. After a full schedule of eight weeks' classes, the session will close on August 24th. Additional plans for this session will be announced by Dean Horn at a later date. Courses to be offered during the summer will also be disclosed at that time.

Students will once more come tramping onto the campus for the fall semester of 1946-1947 on September 18, 1946. Registration will be completed on a date shortly prior to this.

Editorials

Several weeks ago, one of our faculty members proposed the idea that a list of two hundred of the world's greatest books be compiled by the faculty and the students. Included in the list would be books such as Plato's "Republic," Machiavelli's "Prince," Dante's "Divine Comedy," some of the Immortal Bards works, as well as many other books, which through the ages have come to be recognized as "Musts" on one's reading program, if he is to consider himself well educated.

Nor, as one might suspect, would the proposed book list be restricted to any particular field, such as literature, or history, or philosophy. Rather was it suggested that every field of endeavor be represented, the only condition being that the books chosen should be ones that had attained the distinction of greatness.

Continuing the proposal, it was further suggested that upon the compilation of the book list, a copy of the same would be distributed to every freshman entrant into the college with the charge that he choose no less than one hundred from the two hundred recommended. Having thus chosen, the student would be required during his four years of college life, to read those books which he selected. The idea being of course that the conferring of one's degree would be contingent upon the submission of proof that the books had been read.

To many, such a proposal would seem fantastic, absurd, ridiculous. To us, quite the contrary. In fact, we believe it would prove not only feasible, but highly beneficial to every Muhlenberg student. Why? Well, simply because we believe that too many men are graduating from college and universities today without either an appreciation for, or an understanding of the greatest books of all time. And these books have attained greatness only because the material contained in them has helped men of all nations in every respect.

We do not know what action has been taken on this proposal. But we would like to state that our full support is behind such a move. We would like to make, however, one suggestion to be inculcated into this idea. It is simply that if the proposed book list is compiled there will be discussion groups established between the faculty and students so that the students will not only read the books, but understand them.

This is purely our opinion. What do you think?

The Art Of Thinking

The present selective service law is soon to expire. Congress must make a decision. Should we let it become inoperative? Should we retain it or should we enact some substitute?

It is not my intention to exhaust the arguments for any of the above alternatives. Rather, it is my desire to have you decide what you think is the best solution. Perhaps, you will be one of those who writes to your Congressman. How else can he truly represent YOU. Of what value is a representative if he does not represent YOU. Poor government is your fault. Good government is possible only if you demand it.

Few people will argue for elimination of the draft without some substitute. Those who favor the end of all selective service do so primarily for the following reasons:

1. A volunteer army is possible.
2. The fear that a permanent peace-time draft will make America a militaristic state.
3. Belief that the atom bomb has outmoded large armies and navies.
4. A small modern well-equipped army amplified by streams of National Guardsmen and Reserves will suffice for our needs in any emergency.
5. They will be personally affected by the draft.

Those who wish to retain the draft as it is maintained that:

1. We are obligated to keep occupation forces all over the world.
2. The army has announced it needs at least a million men and we can scarcely raise half that number by the volunteer method.
3. A period of a year in the service would more than compensate eighteen-year-olds by giving them travel, dental and medical care, etc.
4. Permanent peace at best is only a dream. This dream can best be realized by a strong national defense.

There is a large number of people who believe that some substitute is necessary for the present act because:

1. With the present rate of scientific advancement, training now taken will be out of date in ten years.
2. A student's education is very often interrupted.
3. A continuous year in the service has a bad moral effect on the average youngster.
4. Many Americans feel that the Army is contrary to everything American.

Among the substitutes offered is the plan to allow young men to go in the service for periods of from three to six months. General Arnold, now a civilian, who did so much for his men, has been named to head a committee of former "civilian officers and enlisted men" to study the so-called Army and Navy "caste system." Congress is considering a permanent conversion to a civilian army making less distinction between the privileges of rank and making commissions more accessible to enlisted men. Such reforms should at least lower the number of needed draftees.

Each of you should be concerned with this issue. YOU can help to decide it. Or, perhaps the dictators were right. The average person doesn't care. He needs to be told what to do. F.B.

The Awful Truth . . .

Shades of the olde days. Appears as tho things are resuming a little of that natural state on the campus. Various activities coming to light which were abandoned during the war. Such items as Freshman-Soph get together, (that's putting it mildly, isn't it), welcome home rallies, work on the Ciarla commencing, and many others. Sorta like old times, eh bub???

Don Martin extolling the virtues of married life at one of "Renwick's Rowdy Roustabouts". Don is all for it, and as for Mrs. Martin, well we can't say, but their favorite radio program is "The Contented Hour" . . . Cementing Cedar Crest - Muhlenberg relations are Jim Gross and the lovely Randy. Denials are fast and furious, but that gleam is there . . .

Pete Gorgone, ex-Muhlenberg luminary readying for the coming pro season with the New York Giants. Working out with the 'Berg Blasters and maybe giving the boys a few pointers here and there. . . . Bill Mullin added to the Ciarla staff . . .

Harold Helfrich is the only one man fraternity we know of. Seems Hal is the sole possessor of the rights and privileges which go with the honor of belonging to a dramatic outfit here on the campus. Wonder who pays what dues to where???? That BEEG romance which started a couple years ago when the Navy was in sway at 'Berg still keeping Jack Gaskill and Betty Cooper busy. Shouldn't be too long until we all have a real good excuse to stay out late with the Stag Party and then take the little women to a brawl. How about getting married, Jack, haven't had a brawl in years . . . Bill Dortch, former Chief Specialist with the Unit here finally made the grade and is now sporting the old familiar R. D.

Couple of visitors aboard during the past week, Joe Kurtin, past Prexy of Phi Katy, and Abe Kaplan. Both the boys making with the medicine at Temple . . .

Might as well be spring, not from the song of the same name. But we will admit it appears that it won't be long before the fellows' fancies are turning to what the girls have been thinking about all winter. This is perfect weather for the old one when the bankroll gets low, "Whatta swell night for a walk" or have you tried that one????

Alpha Tau Omega

Highlighting activities at the Alpha Tau Omega House this week-end will be the initiation of 15 pledges. The ceremony which will begin this evening, will be topped off on Saturday with a banquet at the Elks' Club, near 8th and Hamilton streets.

The initiation banquet which is to be held in conjunction with the 65th celebration of the fraternity's Founder's Day is to be dedicated to the memory of Oscar R. Bernheim, loyal supporter of the local chapter. Mr. Bernheim, who died February 15, 1946 was for many years treasurer of Muhlenberg College.

Master of Ceremonies for the banquet will be Attorney George B. Palmer of Reading. Speakers for the evening will be two members of the alumni, Dr. Robert C. Horn, dean of the college, and Mr. David Miller, of the Morning Call. William F. Hillegass, one of the active brothers will also speak.

In connection with rushing activities for Alpha Tau Omega, it was also disclosed that a dance which had been previously scheduled for March 20, will be held at the fraternity house on Tuesday, March 26. Also changed was a fraternity smoker which is now to be held on April 4th.

Phi Kappa Tau

Phi Kappa Tau plans for this week-end include the initiation of pledges tonight and a Founder's Day Banquet on Saturday.

The initiation will take place at the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house. The Founder's Day Banquet, which is to be a festive affair will be held in the spacious Sky Terrace of the Hotel Traylor at 15th and Hamilton Streets.

Brothers Foster Blair and Harold Helfrich who have arranged for a full evening of entertainment announce that Dr. Isaac M. Wright, former Muhlenberg professor, will be the toastmaster. It was also revealed that Judge Harold W. Helfrich, well known Allentonian, will be the principal speaker.

It was also disclosed that plans are now being formulated for a rush dance on March 28. Chairman of the dance committee Frank De Pino stated that a more inclusive announcement will be forthcoming early next week.

Lambda Chi Alpha

A combination ursh smoker-Founder's Day Celebration is being planned by the brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha. To be held at the Shrine Club on March 27, the affair is to be a gala one, according to Social Chairman John (Continued on Page Four)

On The Campus

Pre-Theos Meet

The Haas Pre-Theological Club will hold its first meeting of the current term on Monday evening, March 25, in the Haas Room of the library.

Dr. Russell W. Stine of the Muhlenberg faculty has been engaged as speaker of the evening. His address will be in the form of a welcome to pre-theological students.

Verein Meets New Prof.

Members of the Deutscher Verein were introduced to Dr. Ralph Wood, new assistant professor of German, at the meeting of the club Monday evening. No business meeting was held, the election being postponed until next meeting at which time a large attendance is requested.

Band Reorganizes

Previous to the war, the Muhlenberg Band held vaunted position in the esteem of all the students. During the war the Navy and Marine Corps contributed heavily to the success of the band. For one semester the Navy took over all activity here and organized the Navy Band. At present, however, we are a college without a band.

Last semester there were several attempts to create a band. Various difficulties caused the delay until this term.

A start has already been made. On Monday, March 18 a meeting of prospective members was held. It is still not too late to participate in this undertaking. Anyone who is interested should report to the science auditorium on Tuesday, March 26 at 11:30 a.m. If you cannot attend this meeting, please see Martin Shemilla before then.

Letter To The Editor . .

March 19, 1946

Mr. John Rogers, Editor
THE WEEKLY
Muhlenberg College
Dear John:

Our daily Chapel exercises are so much worthwhile that I hesitate even to suggest something that might improve them from the standpoint of the students themselves. It is pretty well known at this College how jealous I am of these exercises and how definitely I believe Chapel is of primary importance in the life of every undergraduate, so, the few suggestions I have are solely in a complimentary vein for everyone appreciates the fine spirit which our students always display in Chapel.

It is customary for students when they come to Chapel to take seats as close to the altar as there are vacant seats. This means that the choir stalls should be completely filled before seats are taken in the nave and this will prevent any unsatisfactory scattering of the student body throughout the rear of the building. Might I also suggest that upon their entrance into the Chapel all students find their seats immediately. In this way the congestion in the rear of the Chapel, which often delays the service, could be avoided.

I hope and believe that the students will cooperate in following these practices and I am sure that everyone will enjoy the services all the more if this procedure is continued.

Sincerely yours,

Levering Lynn

MULES PLACE FOURTH IN TOURNAMENT

'Berg Quintet Trounces Syracuse In Opener; Drops Decisions To Rhode Island, W. Virginia

Muhlenberg's current cage crew brought its 1946 season to a close this week as it emerged from the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden with fourth place honors. Slashing an aggressive Syracuse University quintet, 47 to 41, in the opening round of the tourney, the Mules dropped a ten-point, 59 to 49, decision to fast-breaking Rhode Island State in the semi-final play and fell victims to a 65 to 50 onslaught by West Virginia in the consolation round.

Mules Upset Syracuse

A record crowd of 18,493 basketball fans witnessed Syracuse, a five point favorite, take a 47 to 41 beating at the hands of a determined Muhlenberg College five on Saturday. Paced by Red Baldwin and Eddie Donovan, the Mules overcame an 11-8 Orange lead midway in the first half and went on to hold a 28-18 advantage at the end of the frame.

Using cautious and deliberate tactics in the second half, the Mules saw their ten-point half-time margin dwindle to a mere three points with three minutes of play remaining, 44-41. Frantically trying to break up the "freeze" employed by the Mules, four Syracuse starters went out of the game with five personal fouls in the closing minutes. A foul conversion by Podany and a lay-up by Baldwin sealed the 'Berg victory.

The aggressive Orange committed 38 personal fouls in the course of the game, the Mules converting 21 for a new tournament record, although waiving many to keep possession of the ball. Baldwin racked up 23 points to take top scoring honors. Gabor of Syracuse paced the Orange with 13.

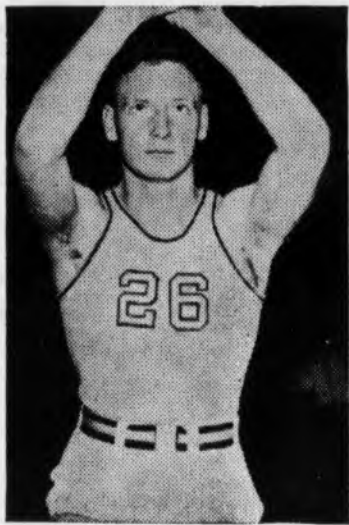

Calverley Too Much

Unleashing an attack of speed which the weary Mules were not able to match, Ernie Calverley and the Rhode Island State Rams handed Muhlenberg a 59-49 reverse in the semi-final competition on Monday evening before another capacity Garden crowd. Calverley who dumped in 27 tallies thrilled the assemblage and bewildered the Mules with an exhibition of deadly sharpshooting.

Scoring 47 points in the two games of the Middle Atlantic States Conference Tournament last week, Baldwin came back to tally 43 counters in the National Invitation Tournament, giving him a total of 90 points in Muhlenberg's last five games for an average of 18 points per game.

A NATURAL!

Philadelphia newspapers yesterday suggested that a post-season basketball game between Muhlenberg and Temple University to be held in Convention Hall for the benefit of Red Cross would be a sure sell-out. The Owls early in the season handed the Mules one of their two regular season defeats.

Coaching Staff Seeks More Grid Material

"We want more candidates out for the football team," said Coach Schwartzwalder, head football mentor, this past Tuesday. It seems that the tremendous enthusiasm, with which the Spring grid drill was met, has died off and only a few stalwart men have continued to train under the watchful eyes of Schwartzwalder, Lough, and Barker.

"Twenty-two men are enough to suit a high school coach, but we want more men to report for Muhlenberg's football team." The coach urges any man on campus with previous football experience to report for practice on Monday afternoon.

Students Await Baseball Season

By Sam Krouse

With regular practice to begin soon, Coach Lough, baseball coach, is hoping that he will be able to mold a good team together to put Muhlenberg back into the baseball limelight. The coach is not acquainted with any of the prospects for the team this year, and therefore the first few weeks of practice will be somewhat like a chemist working with unknown materials and trying to see how each reacts to various tests. A fifteen game schedule is ready to be tackled sometime in April; so the coach and the team have plenty of hard work cut out for them in the near future.

A glance at the squad of fifty-four candidates for the Cardinal and Grey nine shows that many of the men have plenty of experience, but whether this experience will carry over into good performance this Spring is yet to be seen.

In line for pitching positions are former Mule hurlers such as "Lefty" John Myers, ace of four years ago; Oscar Baldwin, last year's star who carried the brunt of all the work, John Waechli and Sam Krouse, who saw little action

CUTTING THE LACES

By Art Peters

The past three basketball seasons have seen Muhlenberg rise from insignificance to the very top of the cage world. For three consecutive years 'Berg quintets have fought successfully through long and grueling schedules, climaxing each campaign by competing in the select circles of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

Among the teams which the Mules faced during the last three years were: Temple, Penn State, St. Joseph's, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, C.C.N.Y., Princeton, DePaul, Columbia, Navy, St. John's, Long Island, Valparaiso, Syracuse and Rhode Island State—which just about amounts to a Who's Who of the cage world.

In this fast company, the Muhlenberg basketball teams of the past three years have accumulated a record of 67 victories and 14 losses. Of this total the Cardinal and Grey was victorious in 42 of its 45 home contests and 25 of its 36 away games. In winning better than 93 percent of their games at Rockne Hall, the 'Berg quintets have given ample evidence of their virtual invincibility on their home floor. In fact, the last defeat the Mules sustained on the Rockne Hall boards was inflicted by Temple in the middle of the 1944 season.

In Philadelphia's Convention Hall, the Muhlenberg quintets of the last three years have a record of two wins and one loss. In Madison Square Garden, the Mules have come out on top in three of seven games played. Lowering their Garden percentage has been the Mules' record of one win and four losses in National Invitation Tournament play.

The Mules have been especially effective against teams from the Philadelphia area, winning 22 of the 25 games played with Quaker City quintets in the last three

Tournament Topics

The fifty-five-foot underhand heave which Ernie Calverley sent swishing through the basket with three seconds to go, enabling the Rams of Rhode Island State to go on and upset favored Bowling Green in overtime on the opening night of the tournament, was the most sensational shot of the year in Madison Square Garden, according to fans who regularly attend the Eighth Avenue doublebills. With two men closely guarding him, Calverley scooped the ball from underneath, placing it cleanly through the iron.

Big Don Otten, the difference between victory and defeat for Bowling Green, who tallied 31 points against Rhode Island, was deprived of the opportunity of breaking George Mikan's season high of 33 points as he was evicted from the game via the personal foul route with three minutes of play remaining.

About the only thing which Arizona, first round victim, could put up against the surging Wildcats of Kentucky was Link Richmond, who hit the basket time and time again with deadly one-handers from outside. The Arizona sharpshooter scored 21 of his team's 53 points.

The Mules of Muhlenberg aroused considerable comment as they downed the Orange of Syracuse, a five-point favorite, in the initial round of the tourney. Eddie Donovan, outjumping six-foot-eight Royce Newell under the baskets and frequently breaking under to score follow-up goals, was a major factor in the Muhlenberg victory. However, the real spark-plug, reliable Red Baldwin, drawing foul after foul as the aggressive Orange tried to stop his pivot throws under the basket, made good on nine charity tosses and added seven field goals to keep the Mules' attack rolling.

The Rhode Island Rams put on an exhibition of the fast break in the semi-final round which the Mules were unable to halt. Ernie years. In games with New York City aggregations the Mules have won seven and lost one, for an equally impressive percentage. In competition with Ivy League teams, the Mules have won nine and lost two.

These statistics tell the story. Muhlenberg teams in the last three years have accepted the challenge from the best the Nation has had to offer and in the majority of the cases they have come out on top.

Muhlenberg has met colleges and universities five or ten times its size on the basketball court and has humbled the small and large alike. The record it has established has branded it as a major basketball power. With this year's team slated to return intact and a great influx of veteran material in prospect, the outlook for another great season next year is promising indeed.

school spirit. Regulations that should be enforced according to the poll were the wearing of dinks, compulsory attendance at student body meetings, learning the Alma Mater and the Freshman Challenge. In addition the renewing of Freshmen-Sophomore contests was favored. All Freshmen should be required to participate.

The men who wrote the comments have used good judgment. We must keep in mind that the men coming onto the campus will be older and won't want to bother with silly rules. Regulations mentioned above seem to be adequate; they are not trivial matters, nor are they terrible hardships; they are part of college life. It is up to the college to get back into full peacetime activities by resuming Freshmen Regulations.

17-12 lead, but the fast-breaking Rams quickly rallied to tie up the contest at 17-17. With the ball rolling, the Rhode Islanders maintained a blistering pace and held a 32-24 advantage at half-time.

The Mules promptly brought the count to 32-30 at the start of the second half, but the pace-setting Rams pulled away each time the Mules threatened. With Calverley letting loose with a barrage of one-handers in the closing minutes, the R. I. boys held a 59-49 edge at the end of the game. Baldwin scored 18 for the losers.

West Virginia Flashy Passers

Winding up their tournament play, the Mules suffered a sound 65-40 trouncing inflicted by the tricky West Virginia Mountaineers. The Mountaineers quickly wiped out an early 7-0 Muhlenberg lead to take a 33-18 lead at the end of the first half.

With Bird throwing in pivot shots and Carroll connecting with over-the-head set shots, the Mountaineers poured it on in the final frame to completely smother the Mules and win 65-40.

These organizations are conducting campaigns in the form of dinners, formal surveys, and other requests in twenty-one different areas in Eastern Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Maryland. It is expected that their all-out effort will net the Muhlenberg College Alumni Field House Fund over $150,000.

Calverley sank long set shots, looping push shots, one-handers from the foul line and dribbled through the Muhlenberg defense to score layups. It was just too much Calverley. The Mules refusing to abandon their deliberate tactics fell prey to the sizzling speed and marksmanship of the Rams, the Rhode Islanders again proving that the team which takes the most shots usually will come through and score the most points.

As in the Syracuse game, the sharpshooting of Red Baldwin, who tallied 18, and the work of Eddie Donovan under the boards gave hope to the Muhlenberg cause, but Calverley's 27 points kept the Mules in check.

Up until the last few minutes of play, the West Virginia-Kentucky semi-final round fray was anybody's ball game. The Mountaineers put on a show of razzle-dazzle passing and shooting which kept the pace-setting Wildcats on their toes throughout the game. Had not Jack Tingle broken through to score three goals in the last minute and a half of play the ball game may well have turned out differently.

Forensic

Because of the lack of sufficient variety of material this semester, attractive debates with schools such as Syracuse, Temple, and several New England universities have not been scheduled.

It is in anticipation of a busy debating season next year, which, in all probability, will be climaxed by a tour through New England, that the Forensic Council is undertaking a program to build a debating team which will be of the pre-war Muhlenberg caliber. The proposed plan includes an extensive intra-mural debating contest to which teams from the college fraternities, organizations (such as Pre-Theological Club, M.C.A., Der Deutsche Verein, and others), and dormitories will be invited. Town students will also be encouraged to form teams and enter this contest. Students, particularly freshmen, are urged to watch for further announcements concerning this tournament.

last year. Other prospects include Eslinger, Thomas, Koylin, Dean, Lybrand, Borrell, Donovan, Kindred, and Glose who have played either high school or independent ball for three or more years, and should serve to strengthen the team.

Six catchers are out for the "tough" position. One is a former Mule star, Don Starner, who has caught for the Mules for the past three years. Lucus and Fredicici played independent ball, while Koplin, Marino, and Karlobanick saw plenty of action in the service.

Jim Doran and "Hammy" Becker are Mules aces out for the first base spot, Jim played last year and Becker about three years ago. The rest of the candidates, Lahr, Moyer, Herverts, Kuhns, and Staudinger, are fresh from independent or high school teams.

Around the rest of the infield, the field of competition is wide open with five and six men trying for every position. Schroy, Baylereim, Knies, Saemer, Harrington, Lahr, Halkais, Karlobanick, Lybrand, Reifsnnyder, and Clausen all played independent ball, and should all give each other plenty of trouble while racing for first string spots.

The outfield candidates, a husky bunch of potential power hitters, all come from playing high school or independent ball, while some kept on playing while in the service. Sacks, H. Donovan, Rinehart, B. Donovan, Hillman, Courtney, and Mazzacca form the roster of competition for the far-flung posts.

In a few weeks the squad will be out and the ball club will begin to form. All candidates are assured of hard practice sessions, as that is the quickest way of getting a good team on the field.

Basketball Squad To Be Honored At Testimonial Banquet, April 11

Honoring the great 1945-46 Muhlenberg basketball squad, a Testimonial Banquet will be held on Thursday evening, April 11, at the Elks Club. The event will be presented by the College, and the principal speaker will be Lou Effrot, New York sports writer. Students may secure tickets for two dollars on Monday, April 1, either in the Athletic Office or from Paul B. Esser, student representative on the Banquet Committee. The tickets for the event will be on sale this one day only. Starting time for the Banquet is 6:30 on Thursday evening.

Guests at the Banquet will include the basketball team, the coaches, and the managers. Among other notables expected to be present are Dr. Levering V. Tyson, Dean Harry A. Benfer, Gurney Afflerbach, Director of Athletics, and other college officials, sports writers, and coaches from neighboring colleges, such as Lehigh, Lafayette, and the University of Pennsylvania.

Lou Effrot, speaker of the evening, is a sports writer of the New York Times and is president of the Metropolitan Basketball Writers' Association. As a newspaper man in New York, Effrot has seen and followed the best in basketball teams throughout the years, including Mule quintets of the past three years.

Much credit for the season, which netted twenty-three wins in twenty-eight games, must go to Coach Lee Coker. A native of Allentown, Coker took time from his business activities to guide the Mules to national recognition. Managers of the squad were James Koppenhaver and Graham Rinehart.

Players who will be honored at the banquet include Captain Jim Doran, Red Baldwin, Van Combs, Harry and Ed Donovan, Joe Podany, Leo Martini, Al Rubbert, John Waelchli, Dick Hale, Frank Borrell, and Joe Staudinger. It was this group that finished fourth in the National Invitation Tournament, losing to West Virginia and Rhode Island State, after a first round victory over Syracuse University. This climaxed a string of victories that landed the Mules in the National Tournament for the third successive year.

Casts Shape Up For Plays

With final rehearsals scheduled to be held next week, students are anticipating an outstanding production of the two one-act comedies, "Red Carnations" and "If Men Played Cards as Women Do", in the assembly period next Thursday morning. Director John E. Rogers and members of the casts, including Miss Dorothy Gottshall of Allentown High School as the feminine lead in the former play, have been working for three weeks to ensure a thoroughly enjoyable performance.

These will be the first plays to be given under the auspices of the Mask and Dagger Club this term. Probably the greater number of the student body has never had the opportunity to witness one of the Club's presentations, but if past successes are any indication, they may be assured of an excellent show.

"Red Carnations", a twenty-five minute farce, will star, with Miss Gottshall, Paul Rabuck and Robert Kantra. The four card-players in the second play, a ten-minute skit, will be portrayed by Phil Mitterling, Jim Gross, Bob Turton, and Herb Garber. Gerald Rogers, James Reppert, and Charles Markley have been serving as stage managers and electrician, respectively.

Chapel Choir Sings; Tour Is Planned

Having resumed its well-known place in the life of Muhlenberg's campus, the Chapel Choir, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, began its spring season of activities with a rendition of two a capella chorales in Chapel last Wednesday.

For the first time since the emergency, the Choir is again working up a repertoire for a series of outside engagements which are to begin on April 28 with a trip to East Mauch Chunk, Pennsylvania. There the Choir will give an afternoon concert for the local Parent - Teachers' Association. In the evening, a number of selections will be rendered to the congregation of St. John's Lutheran Church.

The Choir's 32 members, headed by Bob Kisbaugh, manager, George Baker, and Eugene Harmony, assistant managers, rehearse every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 4:30 to 5:30. Kisbaugh stated that with the resumption of definite activities, the members of the organization again look forward to their annual banquets and the awarding of Choir Keys. He added that there are

Easter Leave For V-12 Unit

Lt-Commander T. T. Abel, chief of the Navy V-12 Unit now at Muhlenberg announced that the official Navy Easter vacation would begin after the last scheduled academic or military affair on Thursday, April 18 and would continue through Tuesday, April 23 at 0700.

The Commander also released two new briefs: customary, inspection will be held on Saturday, at 1110; of particular interest is the fact that Chief Specialist A. McCrehan is campaigning for the organization of a drum and bugle corps.

Reminded by a letter from the President of Student Council, George Sweda, in relation to the Welcome Home Rally of last week, Abel expressed his desire to help the Council in any way he could to better relations "aboard" and even went to the point of extending an invitation to students with any questions about the Navy group to "step in and talk it over."

In a district inspection, Capt. H. R. Stevens, Comm. E. T. Linze (representative of the District Medical Officer), and Lt.-Comm. J. A. Thayer (Physical Fitness Officer) surveyed all the facilities of the college in addition to the

Ciarla Pictures Go On Sale; '48 Staff To Meet

Copies of group and informal pictures taken last semester for the Ciarla, yearbook of Muhlenberg College, will go on sale within the next few days, James W. A sample set of all pictures taken will be placed on display, and students will be able to order as many prints as they want from the price list. Earlier in the week, the Editor-in-chief, Jack Reumann, revealed that any student wishing to be eligible for work on next year's staff is to report to a meeting in the WEEKLY Office Tuesday morning, April 2, at 11:45 o'clock.

Deutscher-Verein Plans Discussion Of Veterans' Experiences At Meetings

Der Deutsche Verein has sent out a special invitation to returned veterans who have seen service in Europe to attend the next meeting of the society on Monday evening, April 1, in the West Hall Recreation Room.

Dr. Barba, who has made three trips to Europe over a period of some forty years, will preside at a discussion of veterans' experiences in Germany and other European countries.

Since many former members of the club have no doubt returned to the campus, a special plea was made for them to reactivate themselves with this meeting. The business session will involve the election of officers and after all formal activities are completed, refreshments will be served.

A large attendance at this veterans' meeting is anticipated.

H. Donovan Captains Men Initiated AP All-State Team; Baldwin Honored By Cardinal Key Society

Muhlenberg's "Hurricane" Harry Donovan received another feather in his well plumed cap this week as he was named by the Associated press to its 1946 All-State Basketball Team and was chosen as its honorary captain.

Other members of the AP All-state squad are Wally Hatkevich of Penn State, Jimmy Joyce of Temple, Dave Podbielski of Geneva and Paul Semko of Lafayette.

On Tuesday, March 25, at 11:30, the Cardinal Key Society held its first meeting since the announcement of its reactivation. Senior Morris Horn and Junior Robert MacDonough, both of whom are members of long standing, presided at the meeting. Of the three faculty advisers, Paul Gebert, Dr. Brown, and Dr. Marks, only Mr. Gebert was able to attend.

Dr. Tyson addressed the group and stressed the fact that he has always considered the Society instrumental in promoting the action of the college and, in this connection, expressed a sincere desire that the Society give special attention to social functions for the weekends on the campus.

Following Dr. Tyson's remarks, Messrs. Horn and MacDonough introduced the names of twelve men who had been approved by the Registrar and Student Council to be initiated into the Society. These men, who will be inducted on Tuesday at 11:30 in the College Chapel at a closed ceremony are Seniors — Earl Bender, Foster Blair, Bruce Romig, and Walter Weller. Juniors — Harry Grave-man, Ernest Hawk, Harold Helfrich, Sam Krouse, and Robert Rankin. Sophomores — George Baker, Russell Kirk, and William Smith.

Freshmen students are appointed as assistants and from this group "on probation", the five sophomores of the following year are chosen.

Tug-of-War Classic Will Take Place At Cedar Beach Tuesday

Announcement was forthcoming this week by Council President George Sweda, that one of Muhlenberg's classic events, the famous Tug-of-War is to be revived on April 4, at 4:30 in the afternoon. Cedar Beach, at which locale the contest will take place, will be the scene of much merriment as the entire freshman class pits itself against the rest of the student body.

In charge of the "battle" will be council member Foster Blair who urges that every member of the student body be present to participate in the gala frolic. According to Blair, if the freshmen are to receive their proverbial "dunking," a majority of the upperclassmen, if not all of them, should be on hand.

Simultaneously disclosed this week, was the announcement that plans for two dances, one a sports dance, the other the Graduation Ball, are now being formulated. President Sweda pointed out, however, that because of the Lenten season, no weekend activities will be scheduled until after Easter.

He stated, also, that in order that every student may have a voice in the selection of the kind of dances to be held, a student body meeting will take place in the very near future, at which time discussion on the dances will occupy a prominent position.

P. T. For Veterans

On April 2, there will be a meeting in the Science Auditorium of all veterans to discuss the recent petition to give service credit for physical training. President Tyson and Major Schwartzwalder, in charge of the Physical Education Department, will address the group.

American Red Cross Offers Three Life Saving Courses

Two courses sponsored by the American Red Cross and the Allentown Life Saving Corps, Senior Life Saving and Instructor Training, will be offered from April 1 to 12, David Aldrich, chairman of the project, announced this week. The courses will be open to the public, and all Muhlenberg men interested in the work can enroll in the classes at the Allentown YMCA or the Jewish Community Center.

The courses have been instigated in order to procure more capable instructors in swimming and life saving. The aquatic project will be supervised by Wilson L. Lutte, Michael Sumja and "Footer" Wolf.

The Senior Life Saving class will be conducted from April 1 through 5 from 7 to 10 p.m., each evening under the supervision of Wilson L. Lutte, aquatic director of the local YMCA.

The Instructor's class will be in charge of a field director of the American Red Cross and will be held from April 8 through 12 from 7 to 10 p.m.

For certification as an instructor, the full two-week course is required, while certification in senior life saving will be granted

Editorial - - -

Student activities are finally assuming an important rôle in our college life. We have revived many of the old activities which made Muhlenberg so well liked.

It is not enough, however, to rest on our hindquarters. Dr. Tyson recently remarked that this is the period in which we must not only revive our old programs and traditions, but initiate new ones. This is the time to revitalize college activity. This is the time to begin the customs that WE WANT.

We want a May Day program with Cedar Crest. During the afternoon, athletic events, such as field hockey could take place. Suggestions have been made to hold a picnic supper followed by a sport dance in the evening. Student opinion has been polled and there seems to be universal approval of such a plan on both campuses. Miss Catharine Baker, Editor of the Crestiad, is solidly behind any plan to get together. She has promised the full support of the Crestiad. We will do everything possible to help. It is now up to the student council. Committees should be selected to begin working out the necessary details.

If this is to be a successful affair, work must be begun now. There is nothing to prevent this from becoming one of our most enjoyed activities.

F.B.

Student Opinion

It has been proposed that Saturday evening informal dances be held in the library for Cedar Crest, Muhlenberg students. They would not commence until after the Easter Vacation.

Typical of the students approached on the question was Jerry Braverman who said, "Bring on the girls," and Barbara Bohner, a freshman of Cedar Crest, who replied, "I think it marvelous." Dick Boswell said it was a great idea and that he would be at most of the dances if they were held. Naval Trainees, Harry Lauer and Dan Hollibaugh both thought it would be a good deal and promised to add their color to the affair. Freshmen Richard Manchester and Paul Mohr were of the opinion it would be a nice way to meet Cedar Crest girls. Most of the Cedar Crest girls thought it was fine. The only adverse comment was made by Dick Bodenweiser who pointed out, "I can't go; I go steady."

Editor's note—Student Council, please, take over.

The Awful Truth . . .

Added among those who have bitten the dust, Joe Greenberg, Ed Reese, and the Mules' Cage Captain, Jim Doran. All the above announced engagements and are looking forward to the BEEG events . . .

Now don't get us wrong, don't think we are trying to duck the course in Physical Training, BUT WE ARE. The mailbox has never been so crowded as it is now with the deluge of letters pertaining to aforementioned subject. The beefs are ranging all the way from, "Had three years of this in the service", to "My wife doesn't want me to tire myself out". Seriously tho from our looking in corner it does appear that if stress is going to be placed on P.T. as a regular required course, how about the courses which have already been taken and for which credit has been awarded? Placing P.T. in the same required category as history, English and the like, should afford the students the same consideration on that score. Credit received before for history makes one exempt from repeating that history; credit received before for a certain course in English, makes one exempt from that particular course again—here is where we put that nasty remark about taking courses in the armed forces, (numbering Physical Training among them)????

Petitions have been signed and several remarks have been passed relative to the subject, and yet there seems to be no real movement to try and convince the powers that be along the lines of discontinuing Physical Training. Our humble suggestion to the leaders of the student body, if they really desire to push the issue; the old five or six man representative committee, to the President of Muhlenberg would be the thing. A few well chosen words in the right direction will do much more than all the petitions combined.

Distinguished visitor to the campus last week, young Master Johnnie Blair. Sported by his beaming old man, Foster Blair, Johnnie took over the duties as baseball manager from his old man and gave the boys the low-down on what's what . . . SCREAM OF THE WEEK: "Red" Baldwin entering the Superior few nights ago with Adele, yep that's her name, and the canny cager was "ableedin' from the lip", teh, teh . . .

At present time we wish to express our fond adieux to Don Peters who has taken cover in Chicago. Can't be the fresh Illinois air, and it can't be the train ride that got the boy, so it must be love, love, love . . . Thought about the poll taken of the students on the proposed Muhlenberg-Cedar Crest Saturday evening informal dances. Would be held in the library and you and the frau could drop in or should you be on the loose, stop in to meet up wif' the gals who will be there. If you have any suggestions and thoughts on the subject, drop that note in the WEEKLY box or pass the word to your councilman.

Big "Diz" Dean in very good shape over the past week-end. The leading lady was in town and we can well see why the hubub . . . Getting on the subject of wives for a moment, nix, nix on that very nice young lady in the athletic office. Hubby is making with the moleskin for Muhlenberg, and we mean right now . . . Mrs. Hill, Kitty to you, in the front office really all agog. Reason: return of husband Art from a loooooong time in the Pacific. Orchids to Kitty for retaining her composure, all she did the past few days was forget her boss' name, eat an ice cream cone with her ear, comb her teeth in the A.M., and walk to work on her hands . . .

Soliloquy

I sit and mourn, the truth is out
The world cares not for truth,
Professedly striving for its light
She snuffs it out when it comes bright.
O Wordsworth, Milton sleep, sleep on
You tried, you lit the flame
And sent your beacons shining forth
Into the night in vain.

The world sees not the world we love
She sees no spirit there,
Cold reason is her only stay,
And when perplexed by logic's way
She says that truth can never be
For truth lives only in the free
The free in spirit, and in life
Free of life's ties and cares.

I sit and mourn, the truth is out
The world cares not for truth,
And should she know all that there is
In heaven and earth below,
She still would follow in her ways
Of pride and selfish greed,
For only love can save her now
And this, a hopeless plea.

Freshmen Due For Dunking

Back in the days of the pre-war era, college life was filled with many traditions and customs, which were carried out year by year with a lot of enthusiasm and feeling. You most likely have already heard of many of Muhlenberg's hoary traditions, such as the pajama parades, the big bonfire before the Lehigh game, the Christmas parties. In days past these activities were looked upon as an integral part of the student life, and now bring back sweet memories to the old grads.

One of these traditions, which has grown through the years, is the whole fracas of freshmen regulations. Freshmen were required to pass through an initial period of discipline and clownish fun, in which the incoming student lost his strangeness and merged himself completely with the upper-class student body. Youthful enthusiasm and ingenuity coupled to make this one of the most memorable phases of the student's college career.

Of the various traditional events of the hazing period, the tug-of-war between the freshman and sophomore classes stands out as one of the highlights. Together with the Banner Fight and the freshman - sophomore football game, it determined the supremacy of the two classes. Should the freshmen win two out of these three freshman "regs" were over by Thanksgiving. Otherwise, they were continued until Christmas.

This tug-of-war was held by Cedar Creek and was simply this. The sophomores lined up on one side of the stream and the freshmen on the other. Object: to pull the other side into the water. I need hardly explain what happened when this occurred. Rumor has it the boys carried towels with them—and used them when the fun was over.

HANDEL'S LEGEND

by Eugene C. Harmony

Around many of the most famous musical masterpieces have grown legends which, although very improbable, are none the less interesting.

One of these legends concerns Handel's beloved oratorio, The Messiah. It is said that on the evening of the first performance in London, the soprano who was to sing the recitatives and arias in the oratorio suffered a heart attack and was therefore unable to sing. No one could be found to replace her. Poor George Frederick believed the performance would have to be cancelled.

While sitting in his study, worrying about this particular problem, Handel heard the sound of rustling silk behind him. There stood a woman who asked him for the privilege of singing the soprano role in The Messiah.

You can imagine Handel's feeling of relief and gratitude. When the curtains parted on that memorable April day in 1742, the mysterious woman who refused to reveal her name sang the several arias including "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion" and "I know that my Redeemer liveth", with, as many people who attended that performance say, an almost ethereal beauty.

The audience awaited the final chord of the "Amen" chorus with a great deal of anxiety. Everyone, including the king of England, George III, wished to congratulate Handel for the superb performance. Handel, in turn, was eager to present the soloists to the king. He located the contralto soloist, the tenor soloist, and the bass soloist, but you guessed it, the soprano soloist had vanished. Nor was she ever seen again.

Some say she was an apparition, but others say she was an angel sent by God to sing the soprano role in this magnificent musical masterpiece which portrays the life of Christ.

Letter To The Editor . .

Dear Sir,

Having read the many pleas in our paper and on the bulletin board for men to participate in the various campus activities, I, for one, think it's about time we did something drastic about it.

For, if we don't get going, the result will be just too bad for America. We are its future leaders. Realizing this, our government has opened collegiate doors to all G.I.'s—but to get the full benefit of a college education, a student must take an active part in extra-curricular activities. In high school we were the ones who edited the paper, made the debating teams, took part in dramatics, and led the discussions in class meetings. We were the leaders in high school. But look at us now, in college. If only our classmates could see us now, wouldn't they be surprised. We have to start thinking; we have to get back of our student activities, if only from a selfish motive to be someone in this world.

What we need on this campus is a revival of the class organization, to give every student a place to express his views and secret aspirations. All of us have special interests and talents, but we lack an opportunity to express ourselves as individuals. This is truly unfortunate, as our college career should be the time we are realizing and developing our potentialities. Right now we have 750 students working together as one single unit, and the individual is utterly lost.

We need smaller groups of students to work with, and to get some worthwhile action. I have a million and one ideas in my head, but I don't have the nerve to raise them in the student body meetings; and I'm certainly not going to bother telling my friends about them all the time. I need a medium-sized group that meets especially to improve campus conditions and student life. This can be found in the class groups.

The various classes, freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior should be divided into their two semester groups. This will give us eight groups in all, each large enough to work with and small enough for the individual to feel at ease. An idea of the possible scope of these class groups may be gathered from the following: discussion of common problems, discussion of the various student activities, organization of inter-class sports, organization of class social programs. Muhlenberg, I feel, has failed miserably to provide an adequate social life for its students, and this field alone offers great possibilities for improvement.

Politics should be eliminated to retain the open spirit as much as possible. Meetings would be presided over by a rotating chairmanship, and anyone who wished to preside would have the opportunity. A president, a secretary, and a treasurer would be elected for the full semester, and committees would be elected from nominations submitted by the candidates themselves. The president would represent his group to the student body and the administration, and I might even add that the student council be replaced by a council of the eight class presidents, with three junior-senior men elected at large.

BASEBALL TEAM TO PLAY 16 GAMES

Mule Nine To Open Season Against Lafayette In Easton

By Sam Krouse

With the first game of the season just two weeks away, Coach Lough's baseball squad is buckling down to some hard and sound practice these days—when the weather permits. The men are gradually getting their batting eyes in condition, and defense practice is just getting underway. No definite infield or outfield combinations have been selected as yet.

Schedule Announced

An attractive sixteen game schedule has been released by the Athletic Office, and it looks as if the team won't have an easy time of it on any of the sixteen playing dates. Leading off the season, the Mules tackle their bitter foes from Easton, the Lafayette Leopards. There are plenty of reasons why the 'Berg men want to win this opener, as the Leopards have troubled the Mules in too many contests, in all sports, in the last few years. This game will be played at Easton on April 13th.

Tough competition looms conspicuously at every glance at the schedule, with such headliners as N.Y.U., Temple, Penn State, and Princeton leading the way. Only N.Y.U., out of this group, will be met at home in one of the six home games of the season.

Rivalries Continue

Old scores will be settled with Lehigh, F. and M., and Ursinus when they meet the Mules this year. Last year the Mules registered their only two victories against F. and M. and Ursinus when they split two games with each club. The old rivals from South Bethlehem, the Engineers of Lehigh, took the measure of the Mules twice in closely contested ball games.

The team also is going to try to reverse last year's defeats when they met Penn State, Swarthmore, and Princeton. These teams won by large scores last year, but the Mules hope to write a different ending to the story this year.

The complete schedule includes:

April 13—Lafayette	Away
April 17—Moravian	Home
April 24—Lehigh	Away
April 27—Moravian	Away
May 1—Lafayette	Home
May 3—N. Y. U.	Home
May 4—Gettysburg	Away
May 8—Lehigh	Away
May 11—Swarthmore	Away
May 15—Penn State	Away
May 18—F. and M.	Home
May 22—Temple	Away
May 25—Bucknell	Away
May 29—Princeton	Away
June 7—Ursinus	Home
June 8—F. and M.	Away

By Art Peters

In a year or two Muhlenberg should have on hand one of the most powerful basketball machines ever assembled in collegiate circles, if, and its a big "if", the expectations of the Athletic Dept. materialize. This uncertain "if" involves the return of the many former Muhlenberg basketball greats to the campus upon discharge from the Nation's armed forces.

Among the members of the great 1943 'Berg team, which won 20 and lost three in its regulation season and ended up with a 20-5 record, who it is believed will return to Muhlenberg are Hank Baietti, Jim Capehart, Dick Miller, Bob Smith, and possibly Mel Munson. Former Long Island Blackbirds Baietti and Smith, 6' 4" and 6' 5" respectively, would give the Mules some of the height which it lacked during the last two years.

Included in the galaxy of returning Cardinal and Gray cage luminaries may well be "Chuck" Theisen, Bob O'Brien, Johnny Bird and Dick Whiting of last year's stellar aggregation. These boys compiled a record of 23 wins and three losses during their regular campaign and closed up shop with a 24 and 4 count.

Also keep in mind that the team which carried the name of Muhlenberg through every newspaper in the Nation this year, led by Harry and Eddie Donovan, Red Baldwin, Van Combs, Jim Doran, Al Rubbert, Leo Martini and Joe Podany, will be back next year. Rubbert and Martini may be swallowed up by the draft and Podany will graduate before the 1947 season rolls around, but the remainder of the team will return intact.

Twenty-Three Hopefuls Begin Preliminary Tennis Sessions

By Paul Elson

With preliminary practice sessions underway and eliminations scheduled to be held in a week or two at the Oakmont Tennis Club, candidates for the 1946 Muhlenberg tennis team are getting down to serious work prior to launching a nine-game schedule.

TENNIS MENTOR

DR. JOHN V. SHANKWEILER

Director of Athletics Gurney Afflerbach this week announced that the tennis team will open its current season on April 27th against Lafayette.

Candidates Hustle

In the meantime 23 hopefuls are working-out on the college courts, getting in shape for the eliminations. Of this number, eight or ten will be selected for varsity berths on the team.

Many of the boys have had considerable experience at various high schools and colleges. Hank Moyer is a carry-over from last season's court team, while Bob Ranken and Walt Weller were members of 'Berg's 1942 undefeated team. Among the four Navy candidates is Bob Cerney, veteran netman with two years of experience at the University of Minnesota.

War-time Curtailment Over

During the past few years a decided drop in the quality of Mule tennis teams was in evidence, no doubt due to the shortage of experienced netmen. However, this year with a semblance of normalcy, Coach Shankweiler hopes to whip into shape a team of pre-war caliber.

Ernest Hoh, manager, has disclosed that persons desiring to take part in the preliminary drills on the 'Berg courts may obtain tennis balls from him in Room 216 "D" Hall, in East Hall.

The schedule for the 1946 season is as follows:

May 1—Swarthmore	Away
May 4—Gettysburg	Away
May 8—Haverford	Home
May 11—Drexel	Home
May 15—Lehigh	Home
May 18—Johns Hopkins	Away
May 22—Lehigh	Away
June 1—Bucknell	Away

Pre-Theos Hear Lenten Address By Doctor Stine

At the Pre-theological meeting on Monday evening, Dr. Russell W. Stine discussed the relationship of sin to the Lenten season. He stated that men fear sin more than they fear pain or death and emphasized the fact that Christ's sacrifice was an inevitability of sin. In conclusion, Dr. Stine urged the following of Christ as Lord and Master for only religion can say "O grave, where is thy victory?"

During the business meeting succeeding Dr. Stine's address, President John Schwalm appointed Richard Bergman, Roy Meck, and Ray May to the General Activities Committee, which will handle all the details regarding meetings, social functions and field trips. During the meeting the President stressed that members should cooperate in two ways: offering suggestions to the General Activities Committee, and soliciting the support of other inactive pre-theological students. He also announced that the next meeting will be held in the Haas Room on April 8.

College Band Shaping Up

In the Science Auditorium on Tuesday, the organization of Muhlenberg's Band got underway. Since twenty-eight students (22 civilian and 6 Navy) turned out for the meeting and agreed to give full support to the organization, it can be definitely stated that Muhlenberg will have a band.

Martin Shemella, who was the fuse to the reorganization idea, said that he believed many men were unable to attend this meeting but, he hoped, a larger group would be at the next rehearsal on Tuesday, April 2 in the recreation room of West Hall.

In making a plea for men, Shemella pointed out that not everybody can be an expert but that every instrument counts. He emphasized particularly the need for both snare and bass drummers.

In conclusion, he announced that plans for the next meeting include not only a big rehearsal but also the election of officers for the semester.

Fraternity News

by Staff

Lambda Chi Alpha

Lambda Chi Alpha held its joint Founders' Day - rush smoker celebration at the Shrine Club on Wednesday evening. After buffet luncheon, John Rogers, the social committee chairman, opened the formal proceedings with a few remarks on the fraternity's history. He then introduced Professor Truman Koehler who added his comments.

The principal speaker of the evening, Attorney Donald V. Hock then delivered a very interesting talk on topics of life in general. Mr. Hock is known throughout the East, and particularly among young men's groups as a very pleasing speaker.

In the light of their present housing situation, Lambda Chi will hold only this single gathering (at which about 60 brothers, alumni, pledges and rushees were present) as part of the Spring rushing events. It is expected that the Navy will vacate Sick Bay in July, thereby allowing for the reopening of the house.

Phi Kappa Tau

Last Friday, March 22, ten men were initiated into the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity: Richard Kauffman, David Hoffman, William Glase, Richard Gery, LeRoy Fiest, Richard Rushmore, Van Combs, Charles Albright, Graham Reinhart, and Earl Erich.

The following evening, Saturday, March 23, the fraternity held its annual Founders' Day banquet. After a delicious chicken dinner, served on the Sky Terrace of the Hotel Traylor, the men were entertained by the two Dons, Klotz and Martin, in a lively skit. Following the levity, both old and new Brothers were reminded of the real meaning of fraternal life in a forceful speech by former Judge Harold W. Helfrich.

Under the supervision of Ralph Haff, chairman of the rushing committee, a rush dance was held at the chapter house last night. The Phi Tau Tavern, a reconverted garage where refreshments were served, was the great hit of the evening. Music for the dance was supplied by the best bands of the country—on records.

ture is the fact that there will be a constant influx of new material from New Jersey and Pennsylvania high schools—and the teams of the past two years show well what these newcomers to collegiate ball can do.

Of course the return of all of these Muhlenberg greats by next season is, to say the least, wishful thinking, but it is contended that many of them will be on hand. If but half of the athletes mentioned above are on the campus next season, the coaching staff will have their hands full choosing a starting five.

One thing is certain, however, the coaching staff will not be dealing with unknown quantities. Most of the men who will be playing basketball will be experienced and proven performers. One team representative of three tournament teams may result.

of the Cardinal and Gray machine. In the two games of the Middle Atlantic States Conference Tournament he scored 47 points.

The other four men on the All-Tournament Team are: Ernie Calverley of Rhode Island State, Leland Byrd of West Virginia, Jack Tingle of Kentucky and Ralph Beard of Kentucky. Calverley, however, was the only player named on every ballot.

Muhlenberg failed to place any men on the second team, but brothers Ed and Harry Donovan received honorable mentions.

So this is what is in store for you when we revive this Muhlenberg tradition on April 4. To be held next Thursday at 4:30, the entire student body will participate, with the freshmen pitted against the upperclassmen. A lot of prestige is involved, not to mention that one or the other of the sides just has to get wet, and who's going to miss seeing the campus dudes getting their pants muddy? Which reminds us, tuxs are out; dress in any old clothes. A former student just whispered in my ear that part of the tradition is a ducking of all the fellows on the losing team. Wow! So be on hand, April 4, at 4:30, down by Cedar Creek, and make this the biggest tug-of-war in Muhlenberg's history.

Frosh Classmen Victors In Classic Tug-of-War Revival Yesterday At Cedar Beach

A freshman class, its ranks swelled by many new additions, yesterday eaked out a narrow triumph over an out-manned but stubbornly fighting Upper Classman unit in the first post-war revival of the Tug-of-War classic. A tradition for a number of years, the event took place at Cedar Beach. Although the victory carried no special incentive as a freshman triumph did in years past, such as the removal of regulations, at least in part, a few weeks earlier than usual, the freshmen nevertheless were proud of their victory for its morale value.

The Tug-of-War was in charge of the Student Council, which has been active in revitalizing many such college traditions. Joe Podany, a member of the Council, was in general charge of the action. Together with his assistants Podany explained the rules—a doubtful series of provisions by which a winner may be determined. The event began at 4:30, an hour convenient to most students. In spite of an extensive campaign to get every student out for the contest, there were many absentees, and the outcome was severely affected by the absence of these men.

The struggle began with both sides lined up in long columns, each man seizing a portion of the rope. At the "go" signal, every student exerted all his might, and the contest was on. Not only brute strength was used but also clever stratagems, rapid or delaying movements to attempt to throw opponents off balance.

With men slipping and sliding in the oozy ground, the battle went on. Combatants braced themselves on the ground, strained, and determined not to yield. There were momentary surges with first one side then the other gaining. The rope swayed back and forth, fate first favoring the frosh and then their elders.

Finally, with a supreme effort on the part of the ultimate winners, the "big push" began. Some of the doomed losers attempted to save the day by throwing themselves literally into the gap and making their whole weight count. One last big surge and the victors were crowned. The defeated lay scattered about on the ground; some dry, others soaked in the waters of that infamous stream, Cedar Creek.

Although the entire affair seems to be one of great seriousness and a closely contested battle of skill and muscles, actually all the combatants had a gala time. Council officials were pleased with the success of the event.

With this successful completion of the annual Tug-of-War members of the Council are now looking forward to the reactivation of other pre-war traditions. The Tug-of-War was normally held in the fall and determined the fate of some Freshman regulations. This activity having been revived, other customary campus events will soon follow. In the pre-war days the colorful pajama parade, in which members of the frosh, goaded on by the upper classmen, was an annual event. Scene for the hilarious parade was Hamilton Street. Another popular practice was a yearly Jollification Day, during which students helped to beautify the campus, policing every inch of it hunting for lowly dandelions which were immediately plucked out. This is only the grimmer and more practical side.

Important Issues To Face Next Student Body Meeting, April 11

A student body meeting will be held next Thursday morning, April 11, at 11:30, in the Science Auditorium. Because important plans are to be considered, all students should attend, the Student Council announces. Social activities and dances are on the agenda for the meeting.

Krouse, Hawk, Reumann In Speech Contest

Three students of the Junior class will compete for prizes totaling forty-five dollars in the annual Jeanie Krause Memorial contest next Thursday morning, April 11, in assembly at 11:30. Subject for the competition is "The Influence of Music."

The three awards are provided for by the income of the Jeanie Krause Memorial Fund of $1,000, established by bequest of the late George Derr Krause, of the class of 1879, in memory of his first wife. The income is to be paid in the ratio of fifty percent for first prize, $22.50; thirty percent for second prize, $13.50; and third prize, twenty percent or $9.00.

Judges for the contest will be Attorney Harry M. Schoenly, Prof. Herbert F. Gernert, and Mr. John K. Heyl. The three students who will speak, Dr. Brown announced, are Sam Krouse, who will talk on Wagner, Ernest Hawk, whose topic will be Bach, and Jack Reumann, who is to speak on American music.

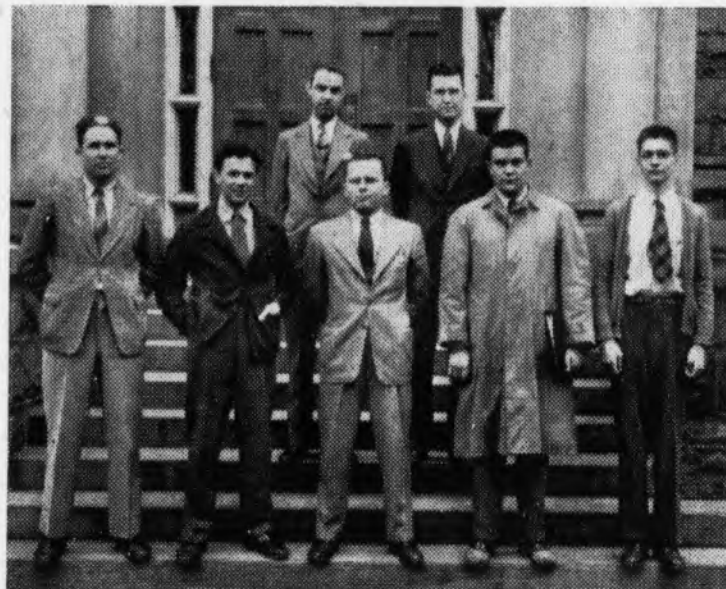

Play Try-outs

All students interested in taking part in the spring Mask and Dagger production will please report to the Science auditorium next Thursday night at 8:30. The name of the play will be announced at that time.

UN Delegates Return From Model Conference At Lafayette

The Nineteenth Annual Session of the Model League Assembly of the Middle Atlantic Division of Colleges got under way on March 28, 1946, with the convocation of the first plenary session held in Kirby Hall at Lafayette College, at which thirty-six colleges were represented. At the first meeting, greetings were extended by the President of the College, and a brief talk on the procedure and method that the individual delegates should follow in presenting their country's case was given by Dr. John Lindberg, Conference Adviser. Following Dr. Lindberg's address, Robert Payro, the President of the Conference, gave the opening address in which he stated: "Let us strive to make ourselves worthy of this organization, from which our sons and daughters and the whole world may profit", which may be taken as the theme of the whole assemblage. After this very illuminating speech by Mr. Payro, a discussion on "Full Employment" by the Economic and Social Council was undertaken. It was agreed among the members of the nations represented that universal full employment can be achieved only by the elimination of trade barriers and tariffs.

Track Meet Opens Intra Mural Program

Muhlenberg's long awaited Intra-Mural program is under way. Major Ben Schwartzwalder fired the opening gun with the announcement that a track meet will take place next Thursday, April 11th, at 4:30 p.m. on Muhlenberg Track in the stadium. Contesting in the meet will be teams representing the Navy V-12 unit, the combined campus fraternities, East Hall, and West Hall.

Captains will be appointed for each team, and they in turn will gather the material for their respective squads. In addition to inaugurating the program, the meet will afford track coach Bud Barker a chance to look over some of the material for the Mule track team now beginning its season.

Each contestant will be eligible to compete in three track and one field event, or a total of four field events. The following events will be run: 100 yard dash, the 220, the 440, the 880, the mile, the two mile, the 120 high hurdles, the 220 low hurdles, and the 880 relay. Listed among the field events are the shot put, the javelin throw, the discus, the broad jump, the high jump and the pole vault.

Track candidates are among those eligible to compete and should add considerable strength to their respective squads. Each team will be allowed three entries in each event.

Athletic director Schwartzwalder announced he would like volunteers from the faculty to act as officials of the meet, and requests they contact him. Coach Barker will appoint and meet with the

Debaters Plan Tournament For Campus Groups

by Ernest Hoh

Speaking for Muhlenberg at an open forum next Thursday evening, April 11, at 8:00 p.m., in the Browning Room of Lehigh University, Phil Mitterling will side with Moravian's representative, to present the United States' point of view concerning U. S. - Argentine relationships.

This forum is the April activity of the Lehigh Valley Debating League of which Muhlenberg is an active member. Lafayette and Cedar Crest will present the Argentine point of view.

Highlighting the forum will be some interesting facts and opinions to be expressed by a native Argentinian who is now attending Cedar Crest College.

Paul Gesregan, president of Muhlenberg's Forensic Council announced this week that a debate has been scheduled with the Brothers College of Drew University to be held at Muhlenberg on Wednesday, April 24. Jack Reumann and Bill Young will present the negative side of the question, Resolved: The Congress of the United States Should Enact Legislation Requiring a Year of Military Training for All Able Bodied Male Citizens.

This debate will be the first duel-college debate for Muhlenberg's Forensic Council since March. Most probably it will take place in the West Hall Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Ernest Hoh, assistant manager of debate, announced this week that plans had been completed for the Forensic Council's Spring Intramural Debate Tournament. The

On Friday, March 29, the four commissions, Legal, Political, Economic, and Social, convened in their respective rooms in Kirby Hall from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. During this time the agenda drawn up for each of the commissions was discussed and resolutions were adopted. In the evening, at the conclusion of the dinner, the assembled group was privileged to hear two distinguished speakers. The first speaker was Dr. Eugene P. Chase, Division of Dependent Area Affairs, Department of State, Washington, who spoke on the topic "Trusteeship". He emphasized the advantages of placing mandates and other types of territory under the Trusteeship Council, and presented the attitudes and positions taken by various colonial powers to such a system. The other speaker was Dr. Alastair Taylor, Executive Assistant to the Director of Public Information of UNRRA, who gave an account of the proceedings of that organization just recently convened in Atlantic City. In his address he painted a picture of a Europe and Asia rotting at the roots because of an insufficient supply of food. Also he described the deplorable and squalorous conditions existing in the D. P. Camps, in Europe and the urgency to continue the work of UNRRA. Later in the evening all adjourned to Hogg Hall where an informal dance was held.

The final day of the session, Saturday, March 30, saw the adoption of resolutions within the commissions, and a drafting of the proceedings of each commission to be submitted for adoption at the final plenary session. The final plenary session met at one o'clock in Kirby Hall, where action was taken on the reports of the various commissions. Although there were some vehement discussions on the reports submitted, caustic verbal exchanges between delegates and the chairman, and a prolific amount of note passing among the delegates themselves, the last assembly was the most interesting.

Assemblies To Count As Chapel Credits

Student Council President George Sweda has disclosed that as a result of recommendations by the Council, attendances at student assembly programs will be counted as Chapel attendance commencing with the program on April 4th.

Previous to this announcement, Dr. Johnson, chairman of the Faculty Assembly Committee, stated that unless the students manifest more interest in these programs, they would be abolished. In granting the Council's request, the Administration is attempting to foster interest in the programs so that suspension will not be necessary.

During the past several weeks, the editors of the WEEKLY have received several complaints pertaining to the distribution of the paper. We are doing everything possible, with the men available, to print a good paper and have it in your hands immediately after publication. Unless we have some more volunteers, however, we cannot improve our circulation department. As it has previously been announced, those men who do not have mail boxes can get their paper in either the Administration Building or the WEEKLY office.

We are happy to notice the fashion in which the discussions over veterans and physical training were handled. In our mind the frankness which has been applied to the problem is emblematic of the Muhlenberg spirit. Although the final decision of the administration is still in doubt, cooperation has been excellent. The Administration has considered the petitions of the student committee, Dr. Tyson in a meeting with the vets stated his position, and also listened to theirs. Both the Administration and members of the student committee deserve thanks for their actions.

The campus is being remapped. Naturally while construction is going on, it cannot look its best. But that is no reason for you to throw paper, candy wrappers, and "butts" all over the campus. Nor is it any reason to walk across the campus, especially in the face of signs requesting you to stay off. Before the war, we had a Student Council regulation that anyone caught throwing candy or wrappers on the campus would be required to buy a similar bar for the person picking it up. The same should hold true for cigarette "butts". They are easy enough to destroy. Butt cans should be placed outside of the Commons to eliminate the disgraceful condition there, but only by complete student cooperation can we eliminate this condition.

Next Thursday evening tryouts will be held for the Mask and Dagger's regular semester production. Needless to say, this organization has, through the years, held the foremost position in providing the college with grand-entertainment. Ours is the job therefore, to support Mask and Dagger with all that we have. We can do this by appearing at tryouts. Will you be there?

JAM SESSION . . .

by George Pappas

Fifty-second Street of New York still retains its title of Swing Street. Coleman Hawkins, Errol Garner, J. C. Higgenbotham, and Billie Holiday hold forth in various spots along the street . . . Lynne Stevens has been added as female thrush to the Woody Herman band. She really has a fine voice . . . Very good article on Benny Goodman in this month's Esquire, besides some nice pin-ups . . . Barry Ulanov, editor of Metronome jazz magazine has written a biography of Duke Ellington. It is being published by the Creative Age Press and is priced at three dollars . . . If Mel Powell, young brilliant pianist, leaves the B. G. band, it will be to study serious music—don't laugh, Teddy Wilson still takes lessons! . . .

Latest raw deal in music is the creation of small fly-by-night record companies. They buy "master records" from the larger companies, press them on inferior wax, and sell them for seventy-five cents up to a dollar and a half. The large companies refuse to press jazz records in quantities because of the low volume of business they bring.

The so-called jazz critics have been telling us for years how obscure musicians play for hours in the jazz meccas of the country, and only receive enough money to pay for "coffee and", but they continue to play for their own enjoyment and for the recognition of jazz as one of the arts. Eddie Condon, guitarist, is supposedly one who fits in the above class. The Condon Club is located at 47 West Third Street in Greenwich Village, and the band features Eddie on guitar, Joe Sullivan on piano, and Miff Mole on trombone.

Anita O'Day just upped and left Gene Krupa holding the bag. Maybe she wasn't satisfied with her salary—only four hundred a week! Carolyn Grey, former Woody Herman canary, replaces her . . . Woody Herman comes to the Rainbow Room in Central Park on Monday, April 8 . . . Watch Cement Mixer, an irritating novelty, come up to replace Onezy-Twozy . . . Louie Jordan and his Tympani Five hit the New York theatres in April . . .

Classical music fans will enjoy a Republic technicolor movie called "I've Always Loved You." It features Chopin, Bach, Wagner, and Beethoven played by Artur Schnabel. Hollywood always does right by classical music, but I'd like see the film capitol do justice to swing and jazz. Syncopation, starring Bonita Granville, Jackie Cooper, and Bunny Berrigan on the sound track, was a feeble attempt several years ago. It was Hollywood's biggest farce.

New Releases—In December of 1942, the great Duke Ellington Orchestra presented its first jazz concert in Carnegie Hall. The Duke gave out with the history of swing and jazz in a tone poem entitled Black, Brown, and Beige. Victor has finally released the suite in four 12-inch sides. This is Ellington's at its best. Although B B B is hybrid music, one can find brilliant, powerful, and inspired passages to compensate for the forsaken tempo. This is a must for students of righteous jazz . . . Red Norvo, Teddy Wilson, and Slam Stewart present "The Man I Love" on Keynote label, and make it a good record. "Three Little Words" by the Coleman Hawkins' Sax Ensemble rates high on Keynote . . . The late Jerome Kern's "All Through the Day" gets a marvelous treatment by Margaret Whitling . . .

Note to the sailor on the first back in C Hall—stop listening to Artie Shaw and maybe you'll play better clarinet!

Press Time; Tuesday, April 2; just came from the "G.I., D.W., P.T." meeting. Regardless of what the outcome is, it looks good from here to be able to air the thing out and get some good cooperation from the President, director of athletics and the head of the student body . . . Suspension of football drills have bloomed a lot of the pigskin toters to the diamond, track, and court. Orchids to the guys who keep on the go . . .

Ensign Wallace "Corky" Hunter in town over the past week-end. Looking fit and fine with the braid . . . also among those present was Bud Gosling. The ex-swabbie and star dash man for 'Berg contemplating return to school in fall, Coach Barker take note . . .

George Bibighaus strolling on the avenue last Sunday. Sans escort but apparently willing . . . Don Starner and his blue beetle burning the roads to Easton . . . Letter from George Biehl, former attendant at Muhlenberg, with Uncle's Navy in Rhode Island.

Pick up the marbles and go home, gals, Don Peters has gotten himself married to Miss, or should I say former?, Lucy Soda of Chicago . . . Have you checked some of the new hair styles on the Navy fellas? Brings back the old days at Diego, New Cumberland, Parris Island and some more, when that man would say, "I know just how you want it cut, zzzzip" . . .

SCREAM OF THE WEEK—What the well dressed Lt. Commander is wearing in the line of skivvies is on display about the person of Foster Blair, Veddy, veddy stunning, especially with that monogram, in case you get lost. The gang on the Independence would loooooove that . . .

BEEG fat onions to the guys who are too busy to make the hike over to the Science Building to attend the student body meetings. They're the guys who do all the hollering when they don't like something but aren't around when it's time to bear hand . . .

Campus Character

Kenny Konrad

AMAN AMUCK

Introductions are in order, for what is a biography without a character and in turn what is a character without an introduction? However the particular character of OUR article needs no formal introduction; a verification of his existence is all that is necessary.

He does exist. Whether he was born or not, I cannot truthfully say. He appears outwardly to be of the same substance as humans, namely, flesh, and blood. (Reliability of latter statement is questionable.) Consequently, accepting the information of our initial hypothesis, as fact, we shall classify our hero as "home Sapien Esquire."

Being a "homo" (short for homo sapien which means man) our hero is fully entitled to all the privileges of mankind, including a name. Introducing to you dear reader, the king of "Joe" and "Jive," the celebrity of the cellar, the boss of the classy commissary: Kenny "Killcustomer" Konrad!!

Kenny's conception, "The Customer is always wrong" has been the cornerstone for his initial and ever increasing success as "The Classiest Connoisseur of the Cuisine in the Country". However that is neither here nor there.

Everyone is familiar with Kenney's Emporium of Eating, and undoubtedly, YOU have had the extreme pleasure of visiting his establishment at one time or another. Killcustomer's inherent personality is exemplified by his expert management of the commissary. Quick service, spotless counter, A-I merchandise and less for your money, are just a few of the outstanding benefits of his business.

Konrad is listed in the Allentown City directory as a "Go Getter," married, with two wives and one great-grandchild. He is a lover of dumb animals including horses and blonds. He is known to have taken his chances with both. Kenny also delves into the fine arts, his favorite literary work being, the famous pictorial biography, "Petite Abner" by Alvin Capp.

Should you have any problems of a personal nature, Killcustomer is the man to see. He is a person fully experienced in the ways of life and will be only too glad to help you. (for a slight fee, of course; no charge for personal attention to your "problem" providing she is over 18)

Drop around anytime between 8 and 5. Kenny will be only too glad to shake your hand (particularly if it has money in it).

On The Campus

M. C. A.

German Club

The Muhlenberg Christian Association, in past years the hub of religious activities on our campus, currently is undergoing a complete reorganization, it was revealed this week. The remaining members of the cabinet of last term, Richard Bergman, Paul Gesregan, Sam Krouse, Ray May, Henry Moyer, Bob Oswald, Jack Reumann, and Franklin Sherman, constitute a committee which is meeting with Dr. Doberstein to rethink the whole nature and purpose of the M.C.A.

It is hoped that close contact with the national Y.M.C.A. and the Student Christian Movement may be re-established, and that by the opening of the September term, at the latest, a well-functioning and strongly supported group may be built that will serve both individual students and the college as a whole. Suggestions will be welcomed by any of the above-named men.

Der Deutsche Verein, German Club, held its regular bi-monthly meeting in the recreation room of West Hall Monday evening, April 1, under the supervision of Dr. Preston A. Barba.

The group sang numerous songs to the flute accompaniment of Dr. Ralph Wood. The feature of the evening was eleven impromptu talks by returned service men who had visited Germany during and after the recent war. The veterans discussed their travels and points of interest they had visited. Dr. Barba commented upon their observations from his recollections of German sites.

At the election of officers the following officials were chosen: John Reumann, Vorsitzender (president); Jack Reppert, Stellvertreter zum Vorsitzender (vice president); Donald Miller, Schriftfuhrer (secretary); and Roy Meck, Helfer zum Kassenwart (assistant to Dr. Reichard who is treasurer).

Letter To The Editor . . .

March 31, 1946

To the Editor of the WEEKLY:

The excellent poem, "Soliloquy," in last week's WEEKLY moved me to write the following lines, presenting an optimist's viewpoint on much the same subject. Perhaps at some time you would care to print it.

TO THE WHOLE WORLD . . .

Think not, my friend, that Truth is dead.
As long as mortal man
Sees beauty—sunsets, skies of blue,
The seas, or stars set deep in fields of black;
As long as men can read the words
Of Milton, Wordsworth, or of Fancy's Child,
Or any other of ten thousand seekers after Truth,
These poets do not sleep; Truth lives.
As long as logic probes the world
For truths that Science seeks,
Faith must reach on where only God can know.
As long as love endures,
Earth's great embracing All,
Then mourners need not cry a hopeless plea.
The world still cares for what is True,
Else it had died a thousand years ago.
And whatsoever things are true shall always be.
Our Science, men with searching minds,
Faith, Love, and Beauty all around—
As long as these eternal shall remain,
Truth crushed to Earth will always rise again!

OPTIMISTIC STUDENT .

Snag on Tennis Front

The tennis team is getting off to a slow start due to the continued postponement of work on the Oakmont Tennis Courts, where the Mule netmen will hold formal drills. The snail-like pace at which work on the courts is progressing is attributed to the recent cold and rainy weather.

We've been told that the varsity will not be selected on a strictly elimination basis (the pairing off of candidates with winners then playing winners). It seems each candidate will compete with six or more other candidates, and final evaluation will be based upon general performance and comparative scores.

All-Stars Really Stars

The basketball stars who participated in the East-West All-Star basketball game in New York last Saturday are deserving of the praise of the Nation. By putting on a splendid exhibition of basketball at its best before a capacity crowd in the Garden, the boys directly helped hundreds of underprivileged children of New York City. By their participation in the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund benefit classic they helped provide over 10,000 two-week vacations for many children who have never seen the America which lies beyond the confines of tenement surroundings.

Incidentally, Muhlenberg's own Harry Donovan figured prominently in the hair-raising finish of the All-Star game. With the score at 60 to 59 in favor of the Eastern All-Stars and six seconds remaining, the West gained possession of the ball and moved it hurriedly down the floor. Kenny Sailors, Wyoming flash, let loose with his famous jump shot. The ball bounced hesitatingly on the iron and then dropped off to the side. Harry Donovan took the rebound and held the ball until the game ended.

College To Fete Cagers April 11

Final arrangements for the College sponsored testimonial banquet for the Muhlenberg basketball team, to be held next Thursday evening at the Elks beginning at 6:30 o'clock, are being completed, according to Paul B. Esser, Jr., student representative on the banquet committee.

Highlight of the affair will be a talk by Lou Effrat, president of the Metropolitan Basketball Writers' Association. Effrat, a sports writer for the New York Times, has been associated with "big time basketball" for many years and has watched Muhlenberg quintets perform in the Garden during the past three seasons.

Other notables who will attend the testimonial banquet are Dr. Levering Tyson, "Haps" Benfer, Gurney Afflerbach and other college officials as well as a host of sports writers and coaches from colleges in the East.

1946 Grid, Track Schedules Complete

Director of Athletics Gurney Afflerbach this week released the schedules which the Muhlenberg College football and track teams will follow during 1946—the emphasis being toward a return to pre-war standards all along the line.

With war-time travel restrictions off and plenty of material on hand, 'Berg's 1946 gridiron machine will tackle a tough nine-game schedule next fall. Many of the teams on the schedule have not been met in recent years. Old rivalries will be revived, reflecting Muhlenberg's desire to return to the football wars in earnest next season.

Last year an abbreviated five-game schedule was played, and the Mules failed to win a game. In playing a nine-game schedule next fall the Mules will meet

Harry Donovan Aids In Defeat Of West

"Hurricane" Harry Donovan, Muhlenberg high scorer, appearing in the first annual Herald Tribune East-West All-Star basketball game held last Saturday night in Madison Square Garden, turned in a creditable floor game and added three points to help the East whip the seven-point favored Western quintet, 60 to 59.

The game, the first of its kind, was played for the benefit of the New York Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund for underprivileged children.

Although Donovan did not start for the East, he saw action in both the first and second halves and was in the game when the final whistle blew. He converted one for one from the charity stripe and connected with a field goal in the second half.

With The Giants

PETE GORGONE

One of 'Berg's all-time football greats worked out with Coach Schwartzwalder and his gridders during spring training prior to his joining the New York Giants professional football squad in August. Pete was a member of the great pre-war Muhlenberg eleven which took top conference honors in 1942 and is now taking post-graduate work and getting into shape in his spare hours.

Courses For July And Fall Semesters Requested By Benfer

Registrar Harry A. Benfer stated that the questionnaires which have recently been distributed by the Registrar are for the purpose of determining which courses are most desired for the short summer term and the normal fall term.

Announcement of these courses will be forthcoming from the Registrar's office in the near future. Registrar Benfer further stated that nine credit hours will be the maximum for the summer term. Tuition will be adjusted so that it will be proportionate to the length of the term.

Veterans who are planning to attend summer school will be able to get full government compensation. Dr. George Brandes made mention of the fact that scholarships will not be renewable for the summer term.

fraternities and several other college organizations have been individually invited to send teams. Other societies, with which Hoh could not make definite contact, are also invited to enter teams.

On Tuesday, morning, April 9th, at 11:30, Hoh will meet with all teams, or representatives of same, in the West Hall auditorium. At that time the participants will decide on such items as the question (or questions) to be used, time and place of the debates, judges, and style.

For the organizations who wish to participate there are the following rules which regulate the formation of teams.

1. A team shall consist of two members. If desired, an alternate is permissible.

2. Students with college debating experience are excluded.

Note: If there are any students who have had college debating experience, please notify either Mr. Bollier, faculty adviser, Paul Gesregan, or Ernest Hoh.

record somewhere along the line. Among the major accomplishments of the great Harry are: 1. All-Madison Square Garden first team; 2. Associated Press All-State first team; 3. Honorary captain of the All-State team; 4. Eastern All-Star team; 5. All-National Invitation Tournament (honorable mention); 6. Most valuable player Middle Atlantic Conference Tournament; 7. Lehigh Valley top scorer; 8. Inclusion on host of All-Opponent teams.

Chalked up in Badwin's corner are the following honors: 1. All-national Invitation Tournament first team; 2. Top scorer Middle Atlantic Conference Tournament; 3. Associated Press All-State second team; 4. Lehigh Valley second highest scorer; 5. Inclusion on host of All-Opponent teams.

Between the two of them, they really took up all in the line of honors that wasn't nailed down.

Odds and Ends

Lafayette has passed on to Muhlenberg the inside dope that the 1946 Leopard gridders will not whip the Mules by more than 35 points—a move out of the graciousness of their hearts. We'll add that Schwartzwalder and crew will have a fitting reply to the Eastern enthusiasts next fall.

... We hear that Mel Munson, member of 'Berg's 1943 tournament team is slated to go to Temple. The spring drills of the football team have ended, but the coaching staff is not forgetting football until the season rolls around. The squad will be kept in shape by frequent exercise drills.

three of the teams which defeated them last year, Swarthmore, Franklin and Marshall and Lehigh.

Helping to open Muhlenberg's season on Sept. 28th will be the Leopards of Lafayette, another bitter foe, especially so since the past basketball season.

Renewing relations in football with 'Berg this year are Bucknell, Albright, Gettysburg and Moravian. Delaware is a newcomer to the long list of Muhlenberg opponents.

The track schedule, just released, points to the fact that the harriers will be kept plenty busy this spring in hurdling their opponents. This year's squad will be out to better last year's record, which saw the Mules victors in but one meet—ironically, a meet with Lafayette.

The squad will journey to Philadelphia to open its season in the Penn Relays, in which the Mules finished fourth last season. Later in the course of the season the 'Berg trackmen will compete in the Middle Atlantic States Conference Track and Field Meet to be held in Lancaster. Last year the Mules unsuccessfully defended their title.

Alpha Psi Omega Plans Initiation

In its first initiation in a year's time, the Gamma Mu chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, will initiate six new members: Robert McDonough, Robert Oswald, James Reppert, John Reumann, Gerald Rogers, and John Rogers.

These men were unanimously elected to membership at a meeting held several weeks ago in the Phi Kappa Tau house. Harold Helfrich, sole undergraduate member of the fraternity, will officiate at the initiation. He will be assisted by the faculty brothers Dr. John D. M. Brown, Mr. Andrew Erskine, Mr. Kingsbury Badger, and Mr. Winfield Keck.

After the initiation, an election of officers will be held, followed by a discussion of a suitable play for the spring production.

Cagers Banquet

The banquet is being given by the College to honor the great team which represented Muhlenberg on the basketball courts of the Nation this year. Also to be feted are the coaching staff, headed by genial Lee Coker, and the managers, Jim Koppenhaver and Graham Rinehart.

Members of the banquet committee are: Dr. Victor Johnson, Dr. John Shankweiler, Paul B. Esser, Jr., Mike Weber and Harry "Scot" Wood.

Romance Language Frat Reconvenes

Highlighting the next meeting of the Phi Sigma Iota will be the presentation of a topic by Russell Everitt and the initiation of new members. The subject of Mr. Everitt's paper will be announced later. This meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Joseph Yarus in Emmaus.

At the last meeting of the Romance Language Fraternity, Mr. Walter Yarus delivered a paper on "Montesquieu and the Effect of his Philosophy on the American Constitution."

Mr. Walter Yarus, his wife, and Dr. Corbiere were appointed delegates to the Phi Sigma Iota convention which will be held April 18-19, 1946, at St. Louis, Missouri.

Mr. Alexander Corriere, the new faculty member in the Romance Language Department, was introduced to the group at this meeting which was held at the home of Russell Everitt. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Birthday Fete Council Announces For Dr. Tyson Two Major Dances

Dr. Levering Tyson, President of Muhlenberg College, on Tuesday, April 9th was feted at a small gathering of friends in the Administration Building on the occasion of his birthday.

Since his coming to Muhlenberg in 1937, Dr. Tyson has created a most enviable record and has won the respect and friendship of all the college family.

The entire student body and staff joined in the extension of best wishes to the President.

Council Announces Two Major Dances

An important disclosure by Student Council this week was that the first major dance of the semester will be held on May 3. The committee in charge of the affair is composed of the following members: Paul Gesregan, chairman and Robert Oswald, Richard Bergman and William Hillegass.

The location of the sport dance, not yet definite, will be announced in the near future. This is the first of the two dances which Student Council will sponsor this semester. The other dance will be the formal Graduation Ball which is one of the important social events of the year.

Student Council has decided that, since any immediate measures could only be temporary, it will be necessary to wait until the close of this semester before any action can be taken concerning the procuring of reception rooms for East Hall. During the summer it is expected that some suitable arrangements can be made for these rooms. However the working of a system whereby the telephone difficulties in East Hall can be remedied is now being undertaken

Hawk Wins 1st Prize In Krause Speech Contest

Ernest Hawk, speaking on the subject, "The Genius of Johann Sebastian Bach," yesterday won first prize in the Jeanie Kramer Krause Memorial Contest on the Influence of Music. The contest was staged before a student assembly at 11:30 A.M. in the Science Auditorium. Jack Reumann took second place, and the judges awarded Samuel Krouse third prize.

The contest, one of Muhlenberg's oratorical traditions, was judged by Attorney Harry M. Schoenly, Professor Herbert F. Gernert, and Mr. John K. Heyl. Their decision was based fifty per cent on content and fifty per cent on delivery. Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English Department, was in charge of the event and advised each man in the preparation of his speech.

The contest is limited to members of the Junior Class. All three contestants are pre-theological students. Hawk, who received $22.50 for first prize, is a native of Northampton. Active in campus affairs, he also sings in the Bach Choir of Bethlehem. A second prize of $13.50 went to Jack Reumann. Reumann's speech, the prediction of a great American Music, was entitled, "I Hear America Singing!" "The Ring of the Nieberlungen" was topic of L. Samuel Krouse, who was awarded $9.00. He stressed the importance of Wagner as a composer in this series of operas.

The three awards, totaling $45 in cash, are made possible by the income of the Jeanie Krause Memorial Fund, established by the bequest of the late George Derr Krause, Class of 1879, in memory of his first wife. Another oratorical contest is to be held during Commencement Week.

Mask And Dagger's Spring Production Scheduled For May

Last evening, Andrew H. Erskine, faculty director of the Mask and Dagger Club, conducted try-outs for this semester's production, "Shadow and Substance." Selections for the play, elected by the New York critics as the best play of 1938, will be announced in the near future.

The story revolves about a quarrel between the Canon of an Irish rectory and a school-master who has written a derogatory book on Catholicism. Bridget, the servant-girl is continually being confronted by visions, adding to the complexity of the quarrel.

Other important characters to be chosen are two Fathers who add a bit of comedy relief and the Canon's niece who delights in using his name for her own advantage. Minor roles are vested in an old shrewish maid, her ignorant nephew, and the Cooley's who have read the book but are definitely against it.

Scheduled to go into rehearsal on April 15, the play will be presented during the latter part of May.

Play Day, Picnic To Be Included In Festivities

Student Council President George Sweda announced that plans were completed this week for a day of sports and mirth to be held jointly with Cedar Crest Saturday, April 27, planned so that all students will be able to participate in one part of the program or another. The program is to include four sports events: tennis and volley ball, which events will take place on the Muhlenberg campus, and ping-pong and softball to be held on Cedar Crest campus.

Inter-Fraternity Council Sets Date For Ball

At a meeting at the Phi Kappa Tau chapter house last week the Inter-Fraternity Council elected the following officers for the coming term: president, Earl Bender, Phi Kappa Tau; secretary, Bruce Romig, Alpha Tau Omega; treasurer, Bob Kishbaugh, Lambda Chi Alpha.

George Abel, Walter Weller, Steve Sivcho, and Don Martin are other members of the council. The council welcomed Les Warger, President of Lambda Chi Alpha, who has returned to the campus after an absence of about a month, during which time he underwent an appendectomy at the Allentown Hospital.

The Inter-Fraternity Council made tentative plans for a formal dance to be held on May 25, either at the Lehigh Country Club, or in the Starlight Room of the Hotel Traylor. This formal dance would be a revival of the gala Inter-Fraternity Ball of the past. The Inter-Fraternity Ball has been an elaborate affair among the three national social fraternities on the campus, so that its revival will be anticipated.

Debaters Meet Brothers College

In an effort to make its activity available to more students, the Forensic Council has scheduled debates with the Brothers College of Drew University for the student body assembly on April 25 at 11:30 A. M. in place of the evening debate which was previously announced.

At that time, Jack Reumann and Bill Young will present the negative side of the universal military training question, while the debaters from the Brothers College will expound the affirmative viewpoint.

Recently six students, Frank Falcone, Herbert Garber, Frank Guiliano, Don Miller, John Millinger and Dick Rau worked out the details for the Spring Intramural Debate Tournament. The debates will be presented on Monday and Wednesday evenings during May. In consideration of the possibility that perhaps some students who are interested in this intramural tournament were unable to attend the meeting, the group decided to keep the registration open until Tuesday morning, April 16 at 11:30 A.M. At that time they will meet again in the West Hall Auditorium to complete arrangements for the tournament. Anyone still wishing to enter should attend this meeting or send a representative.

Starting at 2:00 p.m., students from both colleges will assemble on Muhlenberg's campus for the first two events. Upon the completion of these there will be a trek to Cedar Crest's campus whereupon the other sports activities will be concluded.

At twilight there is to be a picnic in Cedar Grove to which students of both colleges are most cordially invited. Arrangements are now being completed for all those men who eat in the College Commons to have a box lunch prepared for them. Commuting students and those who do not eat in Commons will supply their own food.

The day will be culminated by a sports dance sponsored by the Muhlenberg Student Council on the third floor in the Library. To get underway at 8:00, the dance will last until 11:00. Recordings of your favorite dance bands will be featured.

In order that final arrangements may be completed as soon as possible, all students wishing to participate in the sports day are requested to sign up on the "student assembly bulletin board" in the Administration Building.

Hartzell Supervises 'Berg Improvement Plans For Campus

Alvin W. Hartzell, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, stated in an interview early this week that the extensive improvements now taking place on the campus, as part of the long-range improvement program of the college will continue during the spring.

A new, hard-surfaced parking space, to be constructed west of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity House, will be capable of accommodating about 110 automobiles. The present parking lot in the rear of the Administration Building which can hold 44 cars will then be reserved for the administrative personnel and disabled G.I. veterans. The small parking area in the rear of the Science Building is to be eliminated and replaced by a roadway and a large area of lawn.

The present roadway from the Administration Building, past East Hall, to 23rd Street will be also eliminated and replaced by an 8-foot macadam walk. As in former years, the front of East Hall will again be lined with shrubbery. All deliveries to East Hall will be made by means of a short paved section of road below G Hall stemming at right angles from 23rd Street.

The Mall in front of West Hall will be beautified by the planting of a row of dogwood trees on either side of the building. The terraces will be covered with shrub-

V-12 To Be Included In Ciarla Publication

September Publishing Date Set For 'Berg Year Book

Acting upon the recommendation of year-book editors and advisers, the Student Council this week unanimously voted that the Ciarla should be published hereafter in September. The change in the publication date will enable the Muhlenberg annual to be one of the few in the country that will include spring sports and graduation exercises. The action of the Council also cleared the way for inclusion of the present V-12 unit in the book. Individual pictures of each sailor will be contained in the book, and members of the Unit will be able to purchase a copy of the Ciarla. The price will be announced later. In September, copies are to be mailed to these men as well as graduated seniors.

A Ciarla Office will be set up on the third floor of the Administration Building, the staff also announced. Satisfying a long standing need, the office, located under the tower, will provide space for all yearbook work. Moreover, a complete file will be set up of all yearbook, WEEKLY, and Alumni cuts. All of these are to be properly filed and will be available to all the college publications. Creation of the office and cut-room was brought about through the cooperation of Mr. Ned Keiter and Mr. Alvin Hartzell, Business Manager and Superintendent of Buildings respectively, in the Business Office.

All the men in the V-12 at Muhlenberg were recently photographed. These individual pictures will be run, together with a complete history of all the Navy and Marine units that trained on the Muhlenberg campus during the past three years. Thus, the next edition of the Ciarla will cover the complete story of Muhlenberg's service in training men for the United States government. James W. Gross, Business Manager of the publication, will be in charge of taking orders from men in the unit for the year book.

Although publication of the yearbook in September will mean that students will not receive a copy at graduation but will have to wait until the following fall, the advantages of the plan far outweigh this one precedent. A yearbook ordinarily attempts to tell the story of a senior's last year in college. However, if the book is published in June, all spring sports and graduation, the climax of a college life must be omitted. In order to have a record of these happenings, a senior must purchase next year's book, and even then often, coverage is inadequate. The switch to the fall publication date will enable future Ciarlas to include graduations and end logically with the end of the semester.

This year especially the change is opportune. The present staff was not elected by the Student Council until November, whereas work usually begins in September. In spite of hard work, the staff has been unable to make up the lost two months. The change to the September publication date will remedy this situation. In addition, in June the engravers and printers are rushed with getting out high school yearbooks. By printing the Ciarla for September distribution, printers and other workers will be able to put more time in on it.

Editorial - - -

"We have an interval and then our place knows us no more." Thus said Walter Pater, 19th Century English writer, as he described that period of time which man spends on the earth. But Pater did not stop with just these few words. He went on to say, "Some spend this interval in listlessness, some in high passions, but the wisest in art and song."

Perhaps you may disagree with Walter Pater's choice concerning the best way for one to spend his interval. But even if you do not particularly show his enthusiasm for art and song, you would not want to be included among those who spend their interval in listlessness. That this is true is, we believe, evidenced by the fact that you are now enhancing your life by a college education.

But, and this is the crux of the whole matter, it is perfectly possible for even a college graduate to fall into the category of the listless, if his idea is merely to "get by" on his grades, and take little or no interest in college activities. If you doubt the truth of such a statement, look at the leaders of today. Trace their records, not only of their present activities, but beyond them, back to the activities of their college days. And without an exception you will find that the men and women, who today are our guides in every walk of life, are those who proved themselves able leaders during their days at college.

Now more than ever, is the opportunity presented to Muhlenberg students to manifest their ambitions and their talents in any number of extra-curricular activities. Again, never in the school's history has there been a more capable student council to further student's interests. Does it not follow then, that the activities offered here at 'Berg should gain the support of every student on the campus? The only answer must be in the affirmative!

Let us all then start immediately to take a more active part in student activities, and by so doing insure ourselves not only of a degree at the end of the eight semesters, but of a well-rounded education.

The Awful Truth . . .

by Mike Rogers

Greetings and salutes, buddies; must be the spring air that brings all the guys like Van Combs out into the open and with an ice cream cone no less . . . Paul Markavage undoubtedly has the best set-up in town. Not only has he a lovely place to live, but a veeery nice daughter to help him with his homework, "I say homework, that is" . . .

Among the visitors to Allentown over the past week-end was Marino Agostinelli, the old "Irishman" of the V-12 era. "Gus" came to 'Berg right from the U.S.S. Bunker Hill and was one of the better students here, passing Naval Org with a BEEG fat "A". The Jersey flash contemplating return to school in the fall . . . also among those present were Bob Leary, last year's center fielder for the Mules . . .

Speaking of baseball, this year's edition of the 'Berg nine looks like a sure fire winner. Lotsa good material, plenty hustle and the boys should really go to town. We open in Easton tomorrow against Lafayette and how about making the trek over there? The guys may be good but they gotta have that support to make the grade . . .

Couple of the oooold school boys, Dean and Doran thrashing it out among themselves. Cuties don't phase 'em and the only topic of conversation is the advantage of either being married or engaged. (That will cost you guys) . . .

Popular man about the city, Pete Gorgone is well liked because he always loses on the pin ball machine. The niteries stay open and wait for the guy who can't even make the grade when the game is for low man to pay . . .

Fresh dope on coming "M" club show is 4.0. Joe Podany expecting 2 alumni producers up shortly and the production will be under way. Lotsa luck Joe, and it's a cinch you can count on the entire student body for backing.

Personal note to those involved; the traffic has been rather heavy around the vicinity of Tenth and Washington. Some say the pooooolice have investigated the disturbance, and the neighbors are complaining.

To those who beefed about last week's feature on Ken Conrad; 'sfunny that Ken himself never made a kick, but maybe that's because he's a real guy and can take a joke, even when it's on himself. Some of you short circuits better put some time in at the college store and watch Conrad in action, take some tips on how to be a live wire, and also how to rate as one of the best guys on the campus.

On Listening To The Classics . .

by Eugene Harmony

Sigmund Spaeth, the eminent music critic, in an article on music appreciation relates this amusing anecdote which serves as a good introduction of this subject I wish to discuss with you.

An obscure poet who had had no experience in listening to a symphony was asked to compose a poem on his impressions of a symphony. The poet gathered some books which would give him some information about the instruments that comprise a symphony orchestra. The product of his investigation is contained in the following lines:

"The violinist drew the horsehair over the catgut,

The oboe player bit on a piece of cornstalk and blew through a wooden tube."

There are people who think of a symphony in this way, but they are few in number. The majority of listeners can be placed in three categories. Class one is composed of the "heart-listeners." These persons believe that music to be good must cause cold chills to pass up and down their spines or must cause goose pimples to form on their skin. The second class of listeners we may call "foot-beaters." These persons love nothing better than a symphonic composition that has a well-defined rhythm pattern so that they are able to keep time with their feet. The third class we can call the emotional listeners. These persons love to weep when they hear a sombre composition or laugh aloud when they hear a humorous symphony.

I like to compare a symphony to our own college chapel with its high-arched roof, buttresses, vari-colored glass windows and wealth of sculpture and wood-carving. The high-arched roof can be likened to the sweeping strains of the violins, the buttresses to the percussion instruments, the stained glass windows to the interwoven motifs of the music.

Concerning the actual hearing of a symphony, there are several methods that one may employ. Some like to sit with the score before them and follow the thematic development; others like to comprehend the medium of the resultant tones; while still others like to recline in comfortable chairs and freeing their minds from all problems, let the music fill their souls with the vibrant strains as the composer had intended.

If you are doubtful as to the symphonies that will serve as a trial for these various methods, may I suggest a few. Beethoven's Fifth Symphony in C Minor, containing the now familiar theme of Fate knocking at the door, will appeal to everyone. Perhaps you want some cheerful music—listen to the Jupiter Symphony of Mozart or the Symphony No. 99 of Haydn. Or you may like some music, that is characteristically sad and pensive—listen to the Sixth Symphony the "Pathétique" of Tchaikowsky. But the supreme combination of all of these aforementioned attributes and several others can be found in the Symphony No. 1 by Johannes Brahms.

Phi Sigma Iota

Meeting at the home of Joseph Yarus in Emmaus, the Phi Sigma Iota, honorary romance languages fraternity took Mr. Alex Corriere, faculty member, Harrison Moyer, Maurice Horn, Gerald Clymer and Stanley Edieken into their brotherhood in the initiation ceremony.

Afterwards, brother Russell Everett delivered a paper on Paul Verlaine, a French poet of the late nineteenth century. (Verlaine is the depraved genius who inspired Claude Debussy's writing of "Claire de Lune").

Dr. Horn Speaks

This week, Dr. Edward T. Horn, brother of the Dean of the College, addressed two student groups, the Pre-Theological Club and the Alpha Kappa Alpha honorary philosophical fraternity.

A recent addition to the Department of Religion, Dr. Horn, served for thirty years as a missionary in Japan and head of the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Tokyo. He had previously attended Muhlenberg, Yale and Mt. Airy.

At the Pre-Theo meeting, Dr. Horn told of the work of the Christian Church in Japan indicating that by examples in good works through teachers and preachers, the heathen are won to Christ.

The Alpha Kappa Alpha group were the audience for Dr. Horn's views on Cultural Japanese Philosophy including many phases of Shinto.

Alpha Psi Omega

The Gamma Mu chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity initiated on Monday, April 8th the following men: Robert McDonough, Robert Oswald, James Reppert, John Reumann, Gerald Rogers and John Rogers.

Harold Helfrich, who before the initiation was the only undergraduate member of the fraternity, officiated at the ceremony and was assisted by faculty brothers Dr. John D. M. Brown, Mr. Andrew H. Erskine, Mr. Kingsbury Badger, and Mr. Winfield Keck.

After the initiation, an election of officers was held. Harold Helfrich was elected to the office of president or director; Gerald Rogers was elected vice-president or stage manager and Robert Oswald was elected to the position of secretary-treasurer or business manager.

Eta Sigma Phi

On Tuesday evening, ten men were initiated into the Alpha Rho chapter of the Eta Sigma Phi, honorary classical language fraternity. Dean Horn headed the group of officers which was comprised of brothers Sam Krouse, present president, John Robenolt, Richard Bergman, John Schwalm, John Reumann and Craig Dorward.

The initiates included Ralph Boyer, William Dennis, John Walters, Ted Getz, Eugene Harmony, John Lesko, Robert Albright, Glenn Reichley, and Luke Batdorf.

Student Opinion

During the war one of the many student body activities that was neglected was the organization of each Class (Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior). The process of organization is a little more difficult than it seems to be on the surface, mainly because of insufficient interest on the part of the students.

George Sweda pointed out that many of the students are in between two classes (between Soph and Jr. etc.) and they are not quite sure which class they are in. He also said that last semester they tried to organize the classes, but so little interest was shown that they couldn't even have an election of class officers.

Paul Gesregan thought it would be better to wait until the fall term when the fellows will be better settled in one class or another. Robert Oswald said he thinks it is a good idea and that we need it, but it would work out better in the fall term.

Sam Krouse is of the opinion that it is needed to unify the student body. It would lead to better school spirit and a better feeling of friendship between the students. Ted Getz said he is for it. "That is one of the things that made the good old days so good." Howard Haring thought it would be a good way to iron out a lot of problems that pertain to your particular class and it would lead to a better school spirit.

by John Wagner, Alumni Secretary

Greetings. This is the first of a series of weekly chats with you about a number of topics which I hope will prove both interesting and valuable. The Alumni Association is a vital part of Muhlenberg and all that it stands for, and as Alumni Secretary, I feel that you should know something about this organization, what it does for you, the college, and what it will do for you when you become Alumni. So, for the next several months, I propose to have, right here in this same corner, weekly, a chat with you about the work that the Alumni are doing, their problems, your part in them, and other topics which might be of interest to both. I hope that you will form the habit of reading this little corner, weekly, and that, if at any time, you want to "shoot the breeze" on any problem, you will drop into the office and talk it over with me. You will always be welcome.

Don't forget that a copy of the current issue of the Alumni Magazine is waiting for you on the counter in the main office of the Administration Building.

Track-Field Meet Inaugurates Campus Intra-Mural Program

Thursday was a real field day for the frosh as they rode spike shod over the opposition of the upperclassmen, Navy and fraternities in the track meet held as the opener of the intra-mural athletic program. The outcome of the quadrangular meet, the first of a series of intra-mural events scheduled, was in doubt until the very last event. The Navy rallied by taking a first in the 880 relay, broad jump and high jump, but the freshmen of West Hall by following through in placing consistently in all events maintained their lead.

The final count gave the frosh 47 points. The Navy collected 41½, the fraternities 35½ and the East Hall crew 33.

Some fine performances were turned in on the track, the most noteworthy being Robertson's capturing three firsts, leading the field in both hurdle events and the pole vault. He also placed second in the high jump to amass a total of 18 points for his team.

Another stunt that caused the timers to shake their watches and scratch their heads in doubt was Sikorski's nonchalant running of a 10.1 hundred. Said Sikorski also won the 440 in the capable time of 56.3 to make "Bub" Barker's face light up like a tilted pin ball machine.

While some of the times were not phenomenal, they were, nevertheless, impressive in that it was the first time this season that some of the men had seen action. To jump into a sweatsuit, limber-up and reel off a 24.7 in the 220, as Al Rubbert did, or turn in a 10.6 in the pole vault (again Robertson) is no mean feat.

An exciting event from the spectators viewpoint was the hard-fought mile. Slim Somerville set a grueling pace and held the lead at the three-quarters mark when he began to tie-up. Schleuge of the Navy made his bid at the near turn. Somerville tried but couldn't hold him as Schleuge put on a final kick that roused the stands. His time was 5:03.1.

ACCENT ON... SPORTS

By Art Peters

Season Opener Tomorrow

It won't be long before the 1946 baseball season will engulf the Muhlenberg sports scene with its full fury. Tomorrow the Lough nine travels to Easton to meet Lafayette, ancient rival of the Cardinal and Grey in all sports endeavors.

Charlie Gelbert, former "big league" player and now coach at Lafayette, has a pretty fair ball club according to reports from fans who saw the Leopards play on Saturday. The Eastonians, however, did not look as good as they did in pre-season practice sessions. In beating East Stroudsburg 2-1 the Leopards were not too impressive in the hitting department. Incidentally, the 'Berg squad will see some familiar faces tomorrow when they meet the Lafayette outfit—the team is studded with boys who played on the basketball team during the past season.

On the Muhlenberg side of the fence, the pitching staff appears experienced and capable, and the hitting should be above average. The only drawback at the moment is the fact that the club has sustained a hoard of injuries which will weaken the team in the earlier games, particularly in the catching department and at third base. To Frank Lough and his 1946 baseball nine we say "good luck" in the opener.

Intra-murals Begin

With the intra-mural track meet held yesterday under the direction of Major Schwartzwalder and track mentor Barker, the opening gun in the intra-mural athletic program was fired.

Although the program got under way too late to incorporate basketball, there is quite a bright future

'BERG DIAMOND CREW TO MEET LEOPARDS

EFFRAT SPEAKS AT CAGE DINNER

Veteran Metropolitan sports scribe Lou Effrat of the New York Times was the principal speaker at the testimonial banquet held last night at the Elks, honoring the basketball team which carried the name of Muhlenberg to new heights during the past season. The Gotham newspaperman talked informally of his associations with basketball as staged in Madison Square Garden and told of his contacts with the Muhlenberg basketball teams which have appeared in New York during the past three years.

Effrat, president of the Metropolitan Basketball Writers' Association, was introduced by Jack Gross, who served as toastmaster.

Among other notables who were introduced were Coaches Lee Coker, Floyd Schwartzwalder, "Bud" Barker and Frank Lough, Athletic Director Gurney Afflerbach and referee Mike Weber. In addition a host of sports writers from Eastern Pennsylvania and coaches from surrounding colleges were on hand.

Other guests of the College were the members of the State Championship Allentown High School basketball team and the runners up for the State Catholic Championship, the Central Catholic High squad of Allentown. Also present as guests were a group of athletes who will enroll at Muhlenberg in the near future and who are promising basketball performers.

In the course of the evening high tribute was paid to the Muhlenberg team which fought a long hard battle to the National Invitational.

1946 Mule Nine Opens Season With Lafayette In Fisher Field Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at Fisher Field in Easton, Muhlenberg's baseball nine will inaugurate its 1946 season meeting the highly-touted Leopards from Lafayette. It will be the first time in several years that these bitter rivals have faced each other on the diamond, and a good, hard-fought baseball game should be in the offing with great interest aroused on the part of rooters of both schools. Lafayette already has one game under its belt, having eked out a 2-1 decision over East Stroudsburg Teachers last Saturday.

CAGE CAPTAIN HONORED

JIM DORAN

Future Foes Show Wares

Four teams which Muhlenberg will meet on the baseball diamond this season saw action last Saturday in games which ushered in the 1946 collegiate baseball campaign in the East.

In a game played in Easton, Coach Charlie Gelbert's Lafayette Leopards slipped through with a meager 2 to 1 win over a determined East Stroudsburg Teachers College team. Bill Ash, Lafayette basketball star, had two for two in the hitting department to spark the Leopards.

The Mules open their season against Lafayette tomorrow in Easton and later engage the Leopards at home on May 1.

Princeton University's Tigers opened up their season with a 7 to 4 victory over the Lehigh Engineers in a tussle played at Princeton. The Tigers collected twelve hits from Lehigh hurler Bill Greenamoyer who went the entire route for the Bethlehem crew. Rudy Clemen gave up two hits during the five innings he was on the mound for Princeton, and walked off the winning pitcher.

The Mules will tangle with Lehigh at Bethlehem on April 24 and May 8. The Princeton nine will play host to Muhlenberg at Princeton on May 29.

The Ursinus Bears fell by the wayside in a game played at Annapolis as they went down in a 7-4 defeat dishd out by a powerful Navy outfit. Highlight of the afternoon for the Middies was a home run climaxing a three run rally in the fifth by Dick Duden of basketball and football fame.

Muhlenberg meets the Ursinus nine at Muhlenberg on June 7.

Coach Frank Lough, Mule mentor, is not quite settled on his starting line-up, as bad weather has cancelled many practice sessions. For this reason, he hasn't been able to get a good look at any of the talent in the club, so tomorrow may find many changes in the line-up throughout the game. Injuries have already started to take their toll of some of the men on whom the coach was depending. Out of action in the opener will be Lokus, a first-rate catcher, who has several broken ribs; Walt Busch, fire-ball pitcher, has a sprained ankle as a result of a fall down West Hall's steps; Rinehart, shifty outfielder, is sidelined with torn ligaments incurred when he stepped in a hole on the playing field.

However, the coach has released a probable starting line-up, which features plenty of heavy hitters and some dependable pitching. Either Bibighaus or Doran will be at first base; at second will be either Sammer, Hericle, or Halkis; Schwab will be at short-stop; either Staudinger, Koplin or Dean will be at third. In the outfield, either Becker or Sacks will be in right; Henry will be in center; and either Stein or Mazzaca will be in left. Starting as catcher will be either Fredericci or Starnier, and the starting pitcher will probably be Myers, with Kindred, Baldwin and Dean ready to come in when necessary.

Muhlenberg	Lafayette
C... Fredericci	Izarek
P... Myers	Allard
1b... Bibighaus	Ash
2b... Sammer	Cont'i
ss... Schwab	Vill'ti
3b... Staudinger	Stanzak
lf... Stein	Kuti
cf... Henry	Milne
rf... Becker	Reed

The newly constructed bulletin board now standing in the lobby of the Administration Building has been obtained by the Student Council through the courtesy of Paul Schroy for the purpose of announcing the numerous meetings of the different organizations on the campus. Mr. Schroy, the newly appointed art director for the student body, is responsible for the painting of the signs for this board.

Two linden trees were planted on either side of the statue of John Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, which stands in front of the library, in order to complete the large semicircle of trees there. Four elm trees were planted on the west side of the Science Building and two elm trees were planted on the west side of the Commons.

Tops in the pole vault event is Mal Robertson who has been clearing the bar at well over 10 feet. Mal and Andrew Brown of the Navy unit are also leading high jump candidates. Brown and Prentice Beers, another football player, will be broad jump contenders.

Four men, George Sweatlock, an ex GI, Dick Hale, Carman Sbor-done, and Vern Miller, all of whom have had football experience, will participate in the weight events—discus, shot put, and javelin.

The track season will open April 27 in Philadelphia when the Mules participate in the Penn Relays. Following this, the only home meet of the season will be held May 4, when 'Berg opposes Gettysburg and Lehigh in a triangular meet.

Rec Room Opened By Lambda Chi

With the meeting of Tuesday, January 9th, the brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha reconvened for the first time this semester in the basement of their fraternity house.

For the past several weeks, meetings have been taking place in the Haas room of the library, while extensive alterations were being made on the basement.

Among improvements to the basement are a new ceiling and refinishing of the walls and floors. Further beautification was brought about by the return from storage of much of the fraternity's select furniture.

President Les Warger, in commenting on the new improvements announced that plans are now under way to reopen the entire house late in June.

No Weekly Next Week

Due to the Easter recess the WEEKLY will not be published next week. The WEEKLY organization wishes to extend its best wishes to the faculty and student body for an enjoyable Easter vacation. Publication will be resumed the following week.

Chapel Visitor RUSTY

Most of my reading and learning has taught me that dogs are unable to reason, cannot think. But Chapel Service the other morning made me wonder just how true those teachings are. When Dr. Doberstein opened the service, Rusty, the Navy mascot, could be found sitting in Chapel with the rest of us, his head bowed as if in prayer. As the Chaplain emphasized each point, Rusty nodded his head as though he were in full agreement with everything that was said. The Doctor interrupted his sermon briefly and Rusty started to leave, but when he heard Dr. Doberstein's voice he ran back to take his position so as not to miss anything. At the end of the service, he gave out with a short bark—seeming to say Amen, and rushed to be the first one out of the Chapel.

Weather Curtails Net Team's Hopes

With the recent change for the better in the weather, 'Berg's netmen have finally received their chance to get in a bit of pre-season practice. The past performance of the weatherman has developed some enmity on the part of Coach Shankweiler and his tennis team, for the un-Springlike weather of the past two weeks has furnished little opportunity for practice.

Despite the fact that the fellows have been terribly handicapped it appears that 'Berg has some real talent with which to work. Bill Klink, former Allentown High star, has been looking good in the recent practice, and Walt Weller and Bob Ranken, the two returnees from 'Berg's '42 undefeated team, are living up to all expectations. It appears now that the team will consist of a majority of ex-servicemen with some help from the V-5 unit.

The past week has been devoted almost exclusively to the elimination play-offs at the Oakmont Tennis Club, 21st and Allen Sts. Drill on doubles is to begin this coming week, with the men learning the tactics and technique of playing in pairs.

The first scheduled match of the season, to be played at Lafayette on April 27th, leaves little time for whipping a team into form, particularly since the Easter vacation comes in between. However, Coach Shankweiler hopes to develop, through intense practice, a smooth-working team from the material available.

tion Tournament. Praise was also directed toward Coach Lee Coker and his able assistants, and the basketball managers.

Recipients of gifts were the team, the coaches and Gurney Afflerbach.

The banquet, attended by many students and alumni, was sponsored by the Athletic Council and was arranged under the direction of a committee comprised of Jack Gross, Dr. Victor Johnson, Dr. John Shankweiler, Paul B. Esser, Jr., Mike Weber, and Harry "Scot-ty" Wood.

ACCENT ON SPORTS

for intra-murals in prospect. We know that the students are eager to organize baseball teams, both "hard" ball and softball. There has also been some suggestion that some informal intra-mural tennis competition be included in the program. And as the track season progresses more interest will be stimulated in that direction. So all in all we feel that the students will back up the program.

Odds and Ends

Informants whispered in our ear the other day that Dick Whiting, former Lower Merion cage star who played on 'Berg's 1944 tournament team, will definitely be back in a Cardinal and Grey jersey next fall. Dick played for Duke this past season, having been stationed there in a Navy unit. . . . More on the rumor side is the report that Hank Baietti, one of the most terrific players ever to represent Muhlenberg on the court, will also be on hand come next September. . . . to which we add, if so, a good deal, McNeal.

Alumni Producers Open Work On M Club Show

Rehearsals Headed By Nels Graham And Norm Morris

The M Club show, Muhlenberg's howling hilarious, contribution to slap-stick and sophisticated humor, will be presented in a brand new, postwar edition next month, Joe Podany, president of the club, announced this week. Although the exact date has not been set as yet, the variety show is to be unveiled sometime in the latter part of May. Meanwhile, try-outs will be held next Tuesday evening, April 30, at 8:00 o'clock in the Science Auditorium.

Producing the show this year, which is as yet unnamed, will be the same team responsible for the M Club's hits of several years ago, "Jigsaw" in 1941 and "Gay Nineties" in 1940. Two former students, Nelson Graham, '40 and Norman Morris '42, have returned to the campus and will be in charge of this year's extravaganza. Both are former football stars, and both served in the army. Morris has been discharged after having been stationed in Washington, D. C., and Nelson is on terminal leave, having returned from the Pacific Theater.

Under the leadership of these two producers another rousing M Club hit is in store. The reviews that this group have put on in the past have always packed in large audiences and provided gales of laughter. The M Club is ordinarily made up of all those students who have won their varsity letters in some sport. However, in their annual play, the athletes employ their theatrical talents and present one of the most terrific chorus lines in the country.

Special emphasis is placed on the fact that any student can try out for the production. The cast is not limited to members of the M Club alone, and all students are urged to try out next week.

18 New Pledges Accept ATO Bids

At a pledging ceremony in the Alpha Tau Omega House two weeks ago, eighteen new pledges were added to the fraternity roll.

The new fledglings are Leon Loch, Claude Laudenslager, John Quinn, Richard Manchester, John McGrath, Kenneth Fellows, John Sweeney, William Miers, John Pituch, John Lush, Frank Cannon, Richard Mattern, Lloyd Eslinger, James Levitt, Donald Miller, Charles Knauss, Gordon Daggy, and Anthony Mazzacca. Official pledge training began at this meeting under the direction of the pledge master, Bruce Romig.

The fraternity is planning an extensive social program which will be inaugurated by the Spring House Party to be held at the fraternity house on May 10, 11, and 12.

Class Of '96 Plans Reunion

Alderman Joseph C. Slough, prominent resident of Allentown, announced completion of plans for the 50th anniversary reunion of the class of 1896. A luncheon will be held at 1:30 p.m., on June 24 at the Elks Home on South 8th Street.

Although some of the class will not be able to attend, a large portion will be on hand to carry on. It is expected a gala time will be had by all. The remaining members will have much to talk about, "the Old Days" being the topic of discussion.

Spring Production Male Cast Chosen

Andrew H. Erskine, faculty director of the Mask and Dagger Club's "Shadow and Substance," disclosed the selection of the male characters to perform in this semester's production which will be enacted in the Science Auditorium on May 23 and 24. The female selections will be announced later. "Shadow and Substance" was evaluated by the New York critics as the best play of 1938.

Francis Dermot O'Flingsley, a local schoolmaster who has written a book "I Am Sir Oracle" which derides the Catholic Church, is portrayed by Harold Helfrich. Helfrich is a returned G.I. veteran who was stationed in the far Eastern theatre for the past two years. Helfrich reentered college in the March semester and he is president of the Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatic fraternity. He previously characterized the leads in the Mask and Dagger productions "Arms and the Man" and "Romeo and Juliet."

The Very Reverend Thomas Canon Scerit is depicted by Gerald Rogers, sophomore. The Canon has charge of the local Irish Rectory and he dominates his subordinates with an "iron hand." This is the third Mask and Dagger performance for Rogers since he participated in "East Lynne" and "The Rope." Rogers is also vice president of the Alpha Psi Omega.

The role of Father Corr who is one of the local curates at the rectory is filled by Samuel Krouse, a junior. Krouse was a member of the stage crew which handled the "behind the scenes" work for "East Lynne."

John Walters, a freshman, will appear as Father Cirwin, the other curate, who was a football player in his youth.

Phi Alpha Theta Reactivated At 'Berg

Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, was revived April 15 at a meeting held at the home of Dr. J. E. Swain at 7:30 p.m. Several new members, Mr. Karl F. J. Wittrich, instructor of economics, John Myers, John Reumann, and Phil Mitterling, were added in an initiation ceremony.

President Walter Weller then opened the business meeting. Phil Mitterling was elected secretary-treasurer and plans laid for the next meeting to be held May 2 in the A.T.O. house. John Myers and Phil Mitterling will make a report on the recent UNO model assembly held at Lafayette College.

After the business meeting refreshments were served, at which time an informal discussion on world current affairs was held.

Play Day Dance Switched From Library To West Hall

Meeting at 2:00 p.m. tomorrow afternoon on the Muhlenberg campus, students from Cedar Crest College and 'Berg will participate in an afternoon of sports and games, an out-door picnic, and a dance in the evening, the Hill-to-Hill Hop. The event, the first of its kind to be held in the history of the two colleges, has been arranged by the student councils of the schools, after having been suggested by the Weekly and Cressiad, the newspapers of the two colleges.

Thoreau Subject Of Badger Talk

Last evening members of the National Philosophical Fraternity heard Mr. Kingsbury Badger of the English department deliver an interesting address on Henry David Thoreau, outstanding American writer.

MR. KINGSBURY BADGER

Mr. Badger, well known outside the college family through articles appearing in the New England Quarterly and other publications, has long been interested in Thoreau, and through the years has compiled a wealth of material about this great writer. As a consequence he was able to present a challenging talk in which he explained what Thoreau means to the college student of today. Upon completion of the address, a vigorous discussion followed with all those present taking part.

Conscription Issue Discussed; 'Berg Debaters Meet Drew

In the first dual-college debate to be held on the local campus in several semesters, Muhlenberg debaters yesterday faced representatives of Brothers' College, Drew University, in a non-decision meet. Topic for the debate was conscription, "Resolved: the Congress of the United States Should Enact Legislation Requiring a Year of Military Training for all Able Bodied Male Citizens." The Mule orators presented the negative side of the case, while the affirmative viewpoint was handled by the representatives from Drew.

Paul Gesregan, president of the Forensic council, acted as chairman. The debate was staged in the formal style with each side giving two formal speeches of ten minutes duration and two rebuttals, each five minutes in length. Representing Muhlenberg were William Young and Jack Reumann.

In presenting its affirmative case, the speakers from Drew emphasized the benefits that would result from the adoption of permanent peace-time military conscription, such as betterment of public health, vocational training, training of a great, potential, or-

The program will begin with sports events in the afternoon, including tennis and volleyball at Muhlenberg and ping-pong and soft ball at Cedar Crest. A complete schedule for these games, including place and time, will be found on pages two and four of the Weekly.

The committee wishes to remind any student whose name does not appear on the schedule, that participation in any events may still be arranged.

At twilight a picnic will be held in Cedar Grove. Students of both schools are cordially invited, and soft drinks will be served. For Muhlenberg students who ordinarily eat in the Commons box lunches will be prepared. In this connection, all students, civilian and navy, are reminded that their names must be submitted to Miss Mulcaster before Friday evening, so that their lunches will be prepared. These lunches will be distributed by the committee at the grove. Other students, including those who commute and those who live or eat off the campus, are to supply their own lunches.

One important change has been made in the plans for the dance in the evening. Originally scheduled for the Library, the Hop is now to take place in the Recreation Room of West Hall. Starting at 8:00, the dance will last until 11:00 and will feature recordings of America's best bands. Strictly on the informal side, the aim of the sports dance is for students to get acquainted.

The committee representing Muhlenberg that was responsible for arranging the program included George Sweda, William Hilleganized reserve, and the restraint this move would have on the rest of the world. The affirmative also argued that compulsory military training would help make the United States secure.

The first speaker for the negative, Reumann, said that adoption of conscription by America would show a direct lack of faith in the United Nations Organization and that the Atomic Age had made massed armies obsolete. In reviewing future defense needs he showed that conscription nowhere fits into the picture.

Bill Young, the other speaker, pointed out in his speech that conscription would really sap the vital energies of the nation into comparatively useless paths from industries and watchfulness. What is really needed, he concluded, is a professional army of one million well-trained men, not ten million just roughly trained.

Following this debate it was announced that next Thursday evening Muhlenberg will meet Ursinus College in a debate at Collegeville. The subject will be conscription, and Bill Richards and Jack Reumann are scheduled to represent Muhlenberg in an Oregon style debate.

Government Can Offer More Education For All

Thousands of ex-GI's are enjoying college educations today. Many would never have had the opportunity without government assistance. We feel this is one of the finest things ever done by any government for its veterans. But why limit this wonderful opportunity of education to a few? Why not give all Americans the chance to get a college education? With the spectre of unemployment again looming on the horizon, education for all would be lowering the number of employables. No one will deny the value to the country of education of its citizens.

Certain limitations should be provided:

1. The present college set-up should be retained. The government should have no control over them. Students should retain the right of selection. Colleges should retain the right of restriction.
2. The government should not pay for room and board (except as a reward to veterans). Students who desire an education can earn that.
3. Only men who have proved in high school that they are capable of making the grade in college should be given government assistance.
4. A limit of $500 per year for tuition and supplies appears to be reasonable.

It is our opinion that the arguments raised against similar proposals are not valid. If it is not socialistic to pay for high school courses, then it should not be socialistic to pay for college courses. When a government can spend billions to kill, it can afford millions to educate. Until the colleges expand to take care of the added influx of students, the accelerated program can be continued. Students should be allowed to attend only two of the three sessions. One-third more students could be accommodated in this manner without any increase in the present facilities.

... The Awful Truth ...

By Mike Rogers

The recent vacation was most successful from the standpoint of rest, relaxation, and rowdiness. The bunny brought to Allentown as a welcome Easter gift, Mr. and Mrs. Don Peters. Just back from the "Whiskey City", Chicago, and settling in A'town... Bob Fratscher in from Easton and heading back for a stay in September...

Scoop from sports world is that Muhlenberg traded Cedar Crest two second basemen for a vereee pretty co-ed. She graced one of the English classes and no one had their mind on the work... Tennis team breaks out tomorrow with their first crack at the opposition as they hit Lafayette...

"M" club show rounding into reality on the double. Had the pleasure of meeting the two producers, Nels Graham, and Norm Morris. Both fellows very enthusiastic about the show and after batting the breeze with them for a spell, we cast our vote for them also. Lotsa luck fellas and don't hesitate to call on the entire student body for support in the coming show...

Movement on foot for the reestablishing of the old "Jollification Day" which is a part of Muhlenberg tradition. NO details have been forthcoming to your reporter, but several persons have mentioned the fact that it wouldn't be a bad deal to get the bandwagon moving. Give us your ideas about the set-up, you who know what Jollification Day is, and we'll see what goes... Tomorrow makes with the 'Berg-Crest Play Day and all promises to make for a real gala time. A great big orchid to George Sweda and his staff for their part in the arrangements.

American Literature In Music

By Eugene Harmony

An evolution of the achievements of American creative artists in the fields of literature and music would reveal a marked disparity in favor of literature. On the other hand, it appears that these two are, interestingly enough, correlated. I choose the native compositions in the larger forms—opera, oratorio, symphonic poems or orchestral fantasies, because as Edward MacDowell once said, the value of a poem as a suggestion for instrumental music is greater than its value as the text for a song wherein syllables are generally distorted.

Actual counterparts among American poets and American composers are not numerous, but between Walt Whitman and Henry F. Gilbert there is a close kinship of nature and talent. With one or two exceptions, Gilbert's works are all inspired by American folk-tunes or by American literature.

Whitman's poetry contains much that is easily translated into music. The hours, like those spent by Gilbert listening to the sounds in nature, are reflected in the pulsing, surging rhythm of his verse. His love of music is constantly evident in his writing as in "Democratic Vistas": Then music, the combiner, nothing more spiritual, nothing more sensuous, a god, yet completely human, advances, prevails, holds highest place; supplying in certain wants and quarters what nothing else could supply.

Among our contemporary composers, also, Whitman is a favorite poet. Both Roy Harris and William Schuman have found in his works a treasure trove of materials for their scores. The effect of Whitman's verses on Schuman is illustrated in his eight-part choral setting of "Pioneers" and in his cantata, "A Free Song" based on lines from "Drum Taps". Harris's "American Creed" has for its second part a double fugue, in which the first subject is formed on Whitman's sentence, "The Modern Man I Sing". Harris also uses Whitman's writing in his two most striking works, "A Song for Occupations" and "Symphony for Voices." The later composition is divided into two parts, the first and second of which follow lines from "Sea-Drift", and the third from "Inscription". (Part I has a rhythmic accompaniment for male voices that suggests the surging of the sea that Whitman listened to in his boyhood walks on Long Island. Part III, a triple fugue, is based on three lines, the last of which Harris used in his "American Creed". This fact bears out the truth of MacDowell's statement that many times a line of poetry may supply thought enough for pages of a musical score.

Doubtless the dispute among composers and critics of music about the importance of "program music" will continue. Meanwhile some men will write and others will read masterpieces of literature; musicians will hear the stories in terms of flutes, violins, brass, and percussion instruments, and the rest of us will read and listen, rejoicing that these have been done. It may be said then, that what our American composers have drawn from the works of our American literature is sufficient in quantity to prove to us that complete separation of orchestral scores and printed words is not possible; sufficient in quality to prove to the dissenters that the literature is an important source of inspiration to the composer; sufficient in beauty to give us many happy hours in the concert hall and to reverify for us literary works that we have read and then forgotten. Very likely the greatest works of this type have yet to be written, among them the truly great American opera. With the wealth of dramatic incident that is in the pages of our American literature, we await the future hopefully.

By John Wagner, Alumni Secretary

This week I'd like to tell you about the Alumni Magazine. Every student is entitled to a copy of the Alumni Magazine, and copies are placed on the desk in the main office where they can be secured for the asking. The Magazine is published six times a year and contains information which is of interest to alumni and students alike. A review of the March issue would show the following articles:

Muhlenberg Enrollment Hits New Peak; Tribute to Oscar F. Bernheim; Field House Fund; The President's Page; Tribute to Mr. J. Myron Shimer, Trustee; A Recap on the Basketball Season; Spring Sports; Articles from Sports Writers on the Tournament; Meet the New Faculty; Spring Football Practice; Mail from the Front; Flashes from the Classes.

I know that many of you will find much of interest in reading the Magazine, and I strongly urge you to get your copy. The May issue will be out in another three weeks, so look for it. The Magazine is sent, free of charge, to all alumni and will be sent to you upon your graduation from college or when you leave college for other fields. Form the habit of reading it now and you will want to continue when you leave college.

BARRAGE OF 'BERG HITTING OVERCOMES ENGINEERS

Stein's Home Run With Two On Sparks Five-Run Mule Rally

Registering its second victory in three games, the Mules put on an exhibition of hitting on Wednesday in Taylor Stadium in Bethlehem which snowed under the Engineers of Lehigh to the tune of 15 to 4.

Instrumental in the 'Berg victory were 12 base hits by the Frank Lough crew, one being a home run by Al Stein with two aboard, and the fine pitching of Walt Busch.

Busch went the route for the Mules, holding the Engineers for four runs on ten scattered hits.

Stein's home run in the sixth highlighted a five-run rally. Hagey of Lehigh had slammed one of Busch's offerings for a round-trip in the third.

ACCENT ON... SPORTS

The Mules were scheduled to participate in a triangular track meet on April 20 with RUTGERS and FORDHAM to be held at New Brunswick, but withdrew because the Easter recess interfered with practice sessions. . . PAUL KAR-OBEINICK is really firing perfect strikes to second base from behind the plate. In the MORAVIAN game, the 'Berg catcher picked off two runners with throws to AL SAEMMER at second. . . The hitting of AL STEIN has been a bit on the sensational side. In the game against MORAVIAN he won the game for the Mules with a homer in the eighth. In the LEHIGH tilt he clouted one out of the park with two aboard. . .

BEN CARNEVALE whose UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA basketball team this year won the Eastern NCAA basketball title by defeating NEW YORK UNIVERSITY and OHIO STATE in Madison Square Garden will be head cage coach at NAVY next year. . . What with DICK WHITING, HANK BAIETTI and DICK MCGEE, former NOTRE DAME star, on hand when the basketball season comes around, Muhlenberg stocks should be selling sky high. . . LEO MARTINI has gone the way of all flesh. The basketball star of the past season is now a GI. . . TOM SNYDER, co-captain of the 1945-46 wrestling team, is now TOM SNYDER, U.S. ARMY. . . BOB KLOTZ, another member of the 'Berg matmen of the past season, preceded him in switching to the army. . . Three MUHLENBERG teams will see action tomorrow—the baseball team will engage MORAVIAN in Bethlehem, the tennis crew will meet LAFAYETTE here, while Mule trackmen participate in the PENN RELAYS in Philadelphia. . . LAFAYETTE'S victory over the ARMY baseball team this week establishes the Leopards as a first-rate outfit.

Spring Sports Boom As Teams See Action

Teams will represent Muhlenberg in three sports in contests to be held this week throughout the East.

Tomorrow will find representatives of the Muhlenberg track team competing in the Penn Relays in Philadelphia. Also on tomorrow's agenda will be a baseball game between Frank Lough's Mules and the Greyhounds of Moravian to be played at Bethlehem and a tennis match between the Shankweiler netmen and Lafayette to be held at the Oakmont Tennis Club in Allentown.

Next Wednesday will find the baseball team meeting the Leopards of Lafayette here at Muhlenberg and the tennis crew facing Swarthmore at Swarthmore.

In baseball, Lafayette holds an 11 to 3 victory over the Mules, while the 'Berg nine has previously defeated Moravian 2 to 1.

Homer By Al Stein Sinks Moravian 2-1

A home run by Al Stein, slugging 'Berg outfielder, in the eighth inning shattered a 1 to 1 deadlock and proved to be the deciding factor in a 2 to 1 Muhlenberg decision over Moravian in a well-played contest staged at Muhlenberg on April 17th. The second game of the season for the Frank Lough nine, the Mules came through with a brilliant victory, their first of the year.

Cliff Kindred, former Allentown High School hurling ace, went the first seven innings for 'Berg and gave up only four hits. With the score knotted at 1 to 1 Kindred was removed in favor of a pinch hitter. Myers came in for the Mules in the eighth and gave up one hit in the remaining innings.

With the bases void of runners, Al Stein, who had punched out a double earlier, came up in the eighth and clouted a circuit blow over right fielder Kraus' head.

'Berg Drops Opener To Lafayette, 11-3

Collecting 16 solid hits from the pitching offerings of John Myers and Red Baldwin, the Maroon of Lafayette handed Muhlenberg an 11 to 3 setback in the Cardinal and Grey's opening game of the current campaign on April 13th.

With a sizable crowd on hand in Easton's Fisher Field, Charlie Gelbert's Leopards, combining a single by Villanti, a bunt by Contini, a free pass to Reed and a long fly to center by Stanczak, took a one run advantage in the first frame.

A two-base slam, a single and a Muhlenberg error in the second inning added two more tallies in the Lafayette scoring column.

After collecting a run in the fourth, the Mules came back in the fifth with two runs to deadlock the game 3 to 3. The two clubs battled on even terms until the seventh when Lafayette scored twice on a double, bunt and Mule error.

Swinging the wood with power extraordinary in the eighth, the Leopards hammered out two singles, two doubles, a triple and a home run sending six Lafayette base runners across the plate.

Bob Allard went all the way for the Eastonians, allowing the Mules but five hits, all singles. Commie Villanti, Leopard powerhouse, hit safely in five of the six trips he made to the plate.

MUHLENBERG WEEKLY

"Abreast of the Modern March of Journalism"

Vol. LXV

Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., May 3, 1946

No. 8

The "Weekly" .. NAVY TO SPONSOR DANCE TONIGHT WHY???

We are of the opinion that the prime function of a newspaper is to provide its readers with interesting news. We are also of the opinion, however, and more than a few of you will agree with us, that the Muhlenberg WEEKLY has failed to fulfill this first duty.

When we assumed our office at the beginning of the semester, our stated platform was to reorganize and revitalize the school publication. Unfortunately, however, most of our efforts in this direction have been completely hampered because of the lack of interest by the administration, the faculty, and the students. As a result of this lack of cooperation, we have been unable to carry out our platform, and the WEEKLY continues, with few improvements, having been effected since March 1.

Mere statements, however, mean little unless backed up with facts.

In the first place, we find that of the more than twenty organizations on the campus, less than five have felt it necessary to keep the WEEKLY constantly posted on their social activities. Yet, more than a few times, have many of those directing the activities of these organizations complained when publicity is not forthcoming from the paper.

Secondly, from the three social fraternities active on the campus, information, except in rare instances, has only been supplied after repeated attempts by the staff to procure same.

In the third place, not once, but several times have events taken place on the campus, about which the WEEKLY could only discuss as post-write material. And often these events were of primary importance, and could have reached the WEEKLY much earlier.

Item number four is in relation to those meetings which have and are taking place among the faculty in which issues definitely concerning the student body are decided upon, but not forwarded to the WEEKLY, unless in the most indirect fashion.

Complaint number five concerns those outside functions or meetings which members of the administration or faculty have attended, with the WEEKLY learning about such visits only after they have been made.

In the sixth place we cannot but feel slighted when information comes from the school, through various and sundry channels, and finds its way to outside papers, despite the fact that our staff members even after repeated attempts have returned from their quests for news empty handed.

Again, we cannot let go unnoticed the fact that even though it has been our every effort to give our best in publicizing every sports event, concerning our respective teams, on or off the campus, not one complimentary ticket has been provided for the staff to any game held away from the college. Nor was any invitation extended to one of us when a recent social function was held, even though that event too, had excellent coverage by us.

But enough! Let the above suffice! For certainly, it becomes more than apparent that our complaints are justified.

What is to be done about this deplorable situation? Well, in our opinion the remedy is indeed a very simple one. We definitely feel that every single member of the college family should decide whether or not we should have a defunct school paper or a good one. If the decision is for a good paper, then such decision must be accompanied with action, a concerted effort on the part of everyone to supply the WEEKLY with current news.

Let it not be supposed that we are asking for detailed, well written stories. We have a competent staff to write, all we need is the information to write about.

We suggest that every functioning organization on the campus, faculty and undergraduate, should have one of its members to act as publicity agents, supplying the staff with the activities of their several organizations.

We are willing to wager that everyone knows that the WEEKLY office is located on the second floor of the Administration building. And some member of the staff is there practically every period of the five school days. We are also willing to bet that everyone knows we go to press on Wednesday evenings. It is your duty then, to see that pertinent information reaches our office before press time.

We offer as a last suggestion that unless the WEEKLY be recognized as an integral part of the college, as an organ for the dissemination of the interesting news, the WEEKLY be disbanded.

THE STAFF

'Berg To Be Host For Lehigh Valley Debaters May 16

For its final debate of the 1945-46 season, the Lehigh Valley Intercollegiate Debating League will discuss the question, "Resolved, that government price controls shall be renewed for one year as of June 16." This debate will be held at Muhlenberg College, May 16, at 8 p.m. in the West Hall auditorium.

Representatives from Moravian College for Women will join Muhlenberg on the negative side, while debaters from Lehigh and Cedar Crest College will defend the affirmative. The Oregon style will be used, which means that no decision will be made. Paul Gesregan, president of the Forensic Council, will be the chairman for the debate.

Immediately preceding the debate, the executive committee of the league will meet to discuss debating activities for the forthcoming 1946-47 season. Miss Jerry Mitchell, of Cedar Crest College, the league president, will preside.

In a debate held Thursday evening May 2, at Ursinus College with the Women's Debate Club, Muhlenberg College was represented by Bill Richards and Jack Reumann, who presented the affirmative side of the question "Should we have compulsory Military Training." The Oregon style of debating was used.

"M" Club Farce Scheduled For Production June 6 to 8

"Time Out," the forthcoming M Club production, is hitting a dazzling pace in being readied for production. A tentative date for the show has been set for June 6, 7, and 8. Many of the skits and scenes have been cast already, but co-producers Nelson Graham '40 and Norman Morris '42 have emphasized that some parts are still open. Announcement of future tryout dates will be made on the bulletin board.

Rehearsals have already begun, for the ten acts of the review. Heading the cast are members of this year's Mule basketball squad, including Joe Podany, Al Rubbert, Harry and Ed Donovan, Van Combs, and Red Baldwin. Other parts in the show have been filled by club members as well as others in the student body. The remaining acts are to be cast at later dates after further try-outs.

Some of the scenes already show that the M Club has a new hit on its hands. Such acts as the ones entitled "Flask and Stagger," "The Shooting of Dan McGraw," the school-room scene (see your professors as we see them), "Glee Club," and "A Night in the Harem" point to one of the best M Club productions in history. Music is to be provided by Jim Gross and his Orchestra.

Among the other students already assigned parts in the production are Bill Hepburn, Herb Gernet, Ed Sikorski, Carl Reimer, George Bibighaus, Dick Hale, Craig Dorward, Jim Doran, Ted Getz, Mike Rogers, Len Ellis, and George Sweda. In charge of the entire production are two former Muhlenberg athletes, who have recently returned from the service. Between them they were responsible for such past hits as "Jigsaw" and "Gay Nineties." Morris was recently discharged after having been stationed in Washington, D. C. Just returned from the Pacific theater, Graham is now on terminal leave.

New West Hall Gymnasium To Be Scene Of Juke Box Jump

The Navy is staging an informal dance in the West Hall Gym tonight at 8:30. All Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest students are invited and urged to attend. Music will be provided by America's best bands in the modern juke box manner.

Following the very successful Muhlenberg-Crest dance last week, there was considerable pressure to see that more such affairs would be held.

When approached, President Tyson extended his full approval to a program of weekly dances and took measures to see that the gym would be available. The Student Council authorized the Navy to hold the first such affair. Expenses are to be shared by the Navy and Student Council.

George Sweda stated that in order to make weekly affairs possible, students must volunteer to help prepare the gym. At the time of publication, chaperones have not yet been invited, but the dances will be chaperoned. It is hoped that Cedar Crest girls will attend and take as active a part as they did last week. Members of the faculty are urged to come with their wives and friends and join in the fun.

Ciarla To Get New Offices In Ad Bldg.

Although final renovations have not as yet been made in the rooms, the Ciarla is already occupying its office space on the third floor of the Administration Building. The office of the college yearbook is located directly under the tower, above the WEEKLY office. Large work-tables have been installed, and further facilities are expected to be added in the near future. In addition, the Public Relations Office of the college, the Ciarla, and the WEEKLY have established a joint cut room, near the office, where all engravings are catalogued and stored. Cuts may be removed only by the Public Relations staff or by the editors of the two publications, but these cuts will be available for all college publications.

All students who wish to work on either the business or editorial staffs of the Ciarla are requested to see Jack Reumann, the editor, or James W. Gross, business manager of the book, immediately. Two months of intensive work are still ahead.

Mask & Dagger Spring Offering Takes Shape

With regular rehearsals continuing, "Shadow and Substance," the spring production of the Mask and Dagger Club is beginning to take shape under the aegis of director Andrew H. Erskine. The play, a New York prize-winner several years ago, is a dramatic story of conflict in a small Irish parish. This week final casting for the female roles in the show were made public. All the girls in "Shadow and Substance" are natives of Allentown with much theatrical experience.

Bridget, the young servant girl who is always seeing visions, will be played by Ruth Steedle, a girl from Allentown High School. She has recently appeared in the Civic Little Theater production of "Cry Havoc." Two other girls who also appeared in "Cry Havoc" will also take part in the Mask and Dagger production. They are Eleanor Sabo and Dorothy Oyer. Miss Sabo, who will be cast as Miss Zemima Cooney, has appeared in "The Voice of the Turtle" at Central Catholic High School in town. Rosie Violet, will be played by Miss Oyer, also from Allentown High. Ann Hurdell is cast as Thomacinna Con-cannon. She has been in "Snafu" at the Civic Little Theater, where she has also had experience in technical work in producing.

Muhlenberg students in the cast include Harold Helfrich, Gerald Rogers, Sam Krouse, and John Walters. The play is the story of a conflict between a priest and the schoolmaster of a local parochial school. The latter, a rational radical, has, under an assumed name, written a book deriding the Catholic Church in Ireland. When the people of the parish demand that the book be burned, the canon, a conservative man, discovers just who the real author of the book is. Around the quarrel of the two the plot revolves, and in this conflict and the charm of its Irish setting lie the power and charm of "Shadow and Substance."

Student Council Postpones "Sport Dance" To May 11

The student council wishes to announce that the informal "Sport Dance" previously scheduled for Friday, May 3, 1946, has been postponed until Saturday, May 11, 1946.

You may dance from 9:00 p.m. until midnight at this informal "Sport Dance." Dancing will be to the music of Harry Romig's orchestra, at the Rainbow Room, Central Park.

President George Sweda also wishes to announce the plans for the formal "Graduation Ball". It will be held at Castle Garden, Dorney Park, on Thursday evening, May 20, 1946. The committee composed of George Sweda, Paul Gesregan and William Hille-gass, have not selected the orchestra at present. The decorations are the duties of Anthony Annec-charico, Richard Bergman and Oscar Baldwin. Joseph Podany, W. Robert Oswald and Foster Blair are on the program committee.

The Student Council wishes to express its gratitude to those responsible for making the "Play Day" dance so successful. The splendid success on this occasion has led to the probability of many more such dances.

Jollification Day

Once again it's spring, and with the warmth and sunshine, flowers and leaves are bursting forth. Flowering fruit trees, magnolias, weeping willows, and of course, green grass and golden dandelions. These last two are the ones I want to write about, because to them we owe that wonderful spring holiday, Jollification Day.

Back in the days when people first started to cultivate lawns, they discovered that they were plagued with swarms of dandelions that choked the grass and consequently killed the lawn. They decided to do something about this and added it to their list of chores. They soon found, however, that this was not a mere task to be done, but had all the makings of a festive day, so they called all their neighbors together and told them about Jollification Day. At first the neighbors were somewhat hesitant, but they finally assented and the plans were made for the first Jollification Day.

And what an opening it was: Early in the morning, as the sun was just penetrating the morning mist, the young lads and lassies (The first was held in England) went out and started the weeding. All morning they worked, with occasional time-outs for story-telling and visits to the large punch-bowl under the trees. About noon the job was completed. Together, all the parents had provided a bountiful lunch and the whole town turned out. What merry-

.. Ye Awful Truth ..

After all that violent exercise on the football field, and the complete commotion at the pinball machine, Pete Gorgone still tore the three buttons off of his jacket when putting it on. Maybe it was the extended vacation the little feller had . . . Cancellation of the Berg-Crest play day tossed cold water on some warm plans. But the dance did go over "with a bang" . . .

Over the week-end Lucas and Miller couldn't stay away from the Superior, that chow is strictly 4.0, isn't it guys? . . . Dean and Doran at it again, the boys are almost insufferable, (I'll call that a typographical error) . . .

HATE TO SEE YOU GO DEPT. Joe Staudinger shoves off for his trick with Uncle Sam. One of the best fellas on the campus and certainly one of the outstanding men on the diamond, court, and gridiron, Joe will be missed by all. Now don't go, and get rejected after all those orchids, Josie . . .

Get hot and get on the bandwagon youse guys, for it's time in, for the new "M" Club show "TIME OUT". Cast getting readied, script all set and undoubtedly the outstanding attraction of the coming season will be the show. Details will be published soon. By the way, any man who has earned a letter here at 'Berg is automatically a member of the club, so come in and lend a hand. And anyone, even tho not a letterman, will be more than welcome to pitch in. All hands had better get hot, or we won't have a pot to pitch in. . .

Dick Keiper up from Bethlehem couple days ago. Dick is giving out for that little steel plant over that way and doing right well. Some of you might recall Dick as the fellow who enlisted with the swabbies same time Don Peters (also ex Mule) did. After hitting boots and radio school together, the boys split with Peters going to Iceland and Dick to Casablanca. Then after many sea stories, both guys turn up at Muhlenberg on the same day for the same purpose, V-12 . . .

Plug for Mask and Dagger production, rounding into shape and going to be an all right show. We're wondering what goes if one of THOSE kind of acts from the "M" Club job gets mixed in with some of the higher type stuff that Mr. Erskine is putting forth? Heaven help the dignity of "Shadow and Substance" . . .

Sport Dance originally scheduled for May 3rd has been put off for the time being. Will get worked in this month though. In the meantime the spring formal has been tentatively set for June 21st, with the council pulling the string for a BEEG name band . . .

Track meet at Muhlenberg tomorrow, get up off "yo big fat rusty dusty", and come watch the thin clads go.

.. JAM SESSION ..

By George Pappas

Stan Kenton and his "Be-Bop" music took Allentown by storm several weeks ago. Allentonians witnessed for the first time a new progressive style of music—"BeBop a la Kenton"—a new experiment in swing. Stan Kenton, along with Woody Herman, has chucked out the old style of swing which has predominated the country since 1935. The unbridled and off-chord ensembles which Kenton plays were received with thunderous ovation in the Allentown Armory.

Stan and the orchestra played many of their new record releases. Among them Shoo Fly Pie, Just a Sittin' and a Rockin', Painted Rhythm, Tampico, and Stardust. Among the sidemen in the Kenton Krew, Vido Musso ranks highest. Vido is playing a finer, cleaner, and more inspired tenor sax. He has improved greatly since his days with the old Goodman band of 1936. Vido performed wonderfully on Body and Soul, and on an eight minute show of saxology. June Christy, a new discovery, not only has looks, but a refreshing voice.

I go for "BeBop" in a big way, but during the performance I noticed a lack of intonation and "good taste". All in all, Stan Kenton did a good job, and is heading for the top in popular approval with his new music.

Gray Gordon, featuring Tick-tock Rhythm is at the Pelham Heath Inn in New York . . . Shep Fields opened at Palisades Park in Jersey during Easter week-end . . . Eddie Duchin is out of the Navy, and is forming a new band . . . Charlie Barnet is playing good sax at the 400 Restaurant in New York . . . Jo Jones, just out of the Army after three years service, has rejoined the Count Basie rhythm section as drummer . . . The King Cole Trio will make another picture, and Capitol Records will put out their second album soon . . . Since Victor no longer has Artie Shaw under contract, it is releasing many Shaw records still on the shelf. Wait for Summertime to be released . . . Vaughn Monroe at Dailey's Meadowbrook . . . Art London back with Benny Goodman as vocalist. He is now billed as Art Lond, his correct name . . . Two Hearts Are Better Than One by Frankie is a very nice ballad . . . Dinah Shore is at her best on The Gypsy . . . Benny Goodman sings again on All The Cats Join In, a swing tune with a riff lyric. Watch for Benny and the band in a new Walt Disney production.

NEW RELEASES—Highest rating record of the week, in my opinion, is Time On My Hands starring a beautiful vibraphone solo by Red Norvo . . . A sweet jump number is I'm Nobody's Sweetheart by pianist Johnny Guarnieri who is backed by drummer Cozy Cole . . . The number three spot goes to Stan Kenton's Painted Rhythm . . . And down the list in order of preference go Come Closer To Me by Bob Eberle and Carmen Cavallero, Give Me a Little Kiss, by Gene Krupa, Toonerville Trolley by Raymond Scott, The House of Blue Lights by Ella Mae Morse, and Hootie

Lambda Chi Alpha

At the close of the recent rushing season, the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity pledged three faculty men and nineteen undergraduates. Those pledged from the faculty are: Dr. Elmer K. Kilmer, Dr. Ralph Wood, and Mr. Kingsbury M. Badger; students pledged include Ferdinand Heller, Morris Houck, Jr., Donald Stevens, William Lybrand, Vincent Newhart, Richard Miller, William Clemson, Paul Rabuck, Robert Turton, Frank Giuliano, Aloysius Saemmer, David Hackett, William Raines, James Knerr, Edward Blair, John Wickert, John Melinger, Frank DeLong, Jr., and Richard Shepherd.

Plans are now being made for a house party to be held in conjunction with the Interfraternity Ball on May 25th. Joe Baker, heads the committee in charge of entertainment and decoration.

On Thursday evening, May 2, the brothers and pledges will play a softball game. From the "stars" produced in this contest, Don Martin, the team captain, will pick a team to play in the intra-mural league which opens Monday, May 6.

Chuck Dougherty, national travelling secretary of Lambda Chi Alpha, social fraternity, was present at the Muhlenberg chapter's last meeting held Tuesday, April 30.

At the meeting plans were formulated for a hay ride Friday night, May 17, for the pledges. A committee was named to take charge; plans call for a party at Trinkle's.

Bill Young was elected as an official delegate to the National Lambda Chi Alpha Convention to be held in Toronto, Canada, in August. Russ Kirk will accompany him as alternate delegate and possibly Pern Anthony will also go.

Plans were made for an afternoon party to precede the Interfraternity Ball. In the past these parties have been very popular with the brothers.

Ye Awful Truth About Ye Awful Truth

Exposed at last, the column and its originator. After many months of careful research, key hole peeping and other various underhanded methods, this scribe has accumulated a vast amount of shady and sultry data concerning Marshall "Mike" Rogers and his delightfully demented brainchild, "Ye Awful Truth"!

Mike, sometimes called Miami Mike, has acquired a storehouse of unofficial information through very ingenious methods. For gossip, he will give anything, (well almost anything); to little children he gives peppermint sticks, to men he gives cigars, and to women --- (the light was out I didn't see a thing).

Rogers, mentally and physically presents a stirring figure. Physically he is a cross between Hercules and knute, with strong shapely ear lobes and a broad and rather low slung chest. Mentally he compares to any typical case of dementia praecox. 'Tis no hearsay that Marshall has none other than pink silk pants gracing his "body beautiful". Quote Mr. Rogers, "ooh they feel sooo soft too" unquote. However he is really not the type of fellow you may think he is. He is definitely attracted to women, young and old, white or black!

In the type of journalism Rogers engages in it is sometimes necessary to operate incognito. In such a case Marshall dons a goatee, top hat and bobby socks and goes by the commanding title of Lt. Lambert, vice squad, A-town police. (victims of the misrepresentation take note).

Mike, through his aggressive ingenuity, has worked his way up to assistant thigh slapper and body rubber with the college athletic dept. Scotty "Rubdown" Renwick says of Rogers, "Never in the history of College Athletics has so few owed so little to so much."

Marshall is active socially also, being a member of I Fetta Thigh Fraternity and currently one of its most active members. Any evening in the week Mike may be found at the "house" (9th and Hamilton) drinking milk and discussing Shelley and Keats.

Take heed, dear reader, next time think before you act! Muhlenberg's Winchell may be watching and waiting to get the goods on you. Rogers pulls no punches with his victims. (And I understand some victims have pulled none with him) However being inspired by Fearless Fodsick he knows not what fear is, he will stop at nothing. If you are caught

.. Alumni Memo ..

By John Wagner, Alumni Secretary

Large numbers of men are, today, taking advantage of the G.I. Bill of Rights to achieve a college education. Many of you here at Muhlenberg are veterans. Perhaps, you, in your search for an education, have not realized the important part the college will forever play in your life. I'd like to have you think about this—

In the eyes of the community, YOU are a MUHLENBERG COLLEGE man. The College is mentioned in your home town papers while you are a student. When you become engaged, married, and each time you achieve success in your profession, your association with the College will be mentioned. It will undoubtedly be mentioned sometime in your obituary. The Alumni Office will have a complete record of your life. In this permanent biographical folder bearing your name, will be carefully preserved every newspaper clipping, every picture, every mention of you that can be gathered out of books, manuscripts, from classmates, families and other sources. YOUR COLLEGE IS SOMETHING TO TIE TO IN A WORLD IN WHICH ONLY THE LARGER VALUES REMAIN CONSTANT.

Something to think about, isn't it?

MULES DOWN LEOPARDS; N.Y.U. FOE TODAY

Kindred Holds Eastonians To Six Safeties; Henry, Stein Homer To Spark Muhlenberg

While the strong right arm of Cliff Kindred cast a magic spell over the bats of Lafayette, Muhlenberg, aided by two home runs, scored a 6-2 victory over the Leopards on Muhlenberg Field on Wednesday. Kindred, in racking up his first collegiate victory, scattered six hits and whiffed six batsmen over the nine inning route, being in trouble only in the sixth and eighth innings. Schenke, who failed to go the route, was the losing pitcher.

In the sixth inning the Eastonians scored one run on a walk and two fielder's choices. Villante, second baseman for the Leopards, walked. On an attempted force play at second Villante beat Kindred's throw to Schwob. Milne hit a grounder to 'Berg's Saemmer at second, who scooped it up and threw to Schwob at second for one out; Schwob relayed the ball to first, but not in time for the double play, one run scoring. Lafayette's other run was scored on a fluke home run by Villante when his first inning line drive took a strange hop over Art Stein's head and was scored as a home run as Stein did not touch the ball.

Art Stein smashed out a home run in the third inning with one mate aboard to aid in the Mule victory. The circuit clout was Art's second hit and gave him his third and fourth runs batted in for the afternoon. In the first inning Stein stepped to the plate with two men on the base paths and, with a slashing single through the mound, drove his teammates in.

Frank Henry also parked out a long fly to left field which fell within the foul-line and was good enough to be a home run. Henry and Stein each accounted for two hits, while Schwob and Staudinger had one apiece. Paul Karobeinick split a finger in the fourth inning and had to be relieved by Lucas.

The victory was the third in four starts for the Mules under the tutelage of coach Frank Lough. Lafayette, previous victor over the Mules, Colgate, Army, and Moravian, lost its second game of the season in being rudely set back by the Mules.

Swarthmore Sinks Netmen

By Paul Elson

Swarthmore, Pa.—In its first match of the current season, Muhlenberg's tennis team dropped a 7 to 2 decision to the Swarthmore College netmen here last Wednesday. It was the veteran Swarthmore squad's fourth match of the year and its second victory, the Philadelphia suburbans having previously beaten Johns Hopkins and lost to Navy and Princeton.

Swarthmore won five of the six singles contests and two of the three doubles events. Walt Weller, number two man of the 'Berg team, won his singles match and then teamed up with Bob Ranken in doubles and went on to win again.

The results of the various matches were as follows:

Singles—Morrie Bodenger, Swarthmore, defeated Bob Cerney, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 6-3; Walt Weller, Muhlenberg, defeated Ed Ernst, Swarthmore, 6-4, 6-2; Howie Frankel, Swarthmore, defeated Bill Klink, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 6-4; Bill Ramsay, Swarthmore, defeated Bob Ranken, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 9-7; Bob Orton, Swarthmore, defeated Howard Haring, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 6-0; Dave Kinn, Swarthmore, defeated Ernest Hoh, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles—Bodenger and Ernst, Swarthmore, defeated Cerney and Klink, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-3; Weller and Ranken, Muhlenberg, defeated Frankel and Ramsay, Swarthmore, 7-9, 6-4, 6-1; Orton and Quint, Swarthmore, defeated Hank Moyer and Warren Bross, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 0-6, 6-1.

The Muhlenberg tennis team will meet Haverford next Wednesday at the Oakmont Tennis Club, 21st and Allen Sts., Allentown, the 'Berg crew making its initial home appearance of the season.

The match with Lafayette, rained out last Saturday, has been postponed indefinitely.

Staudinger Paces Muhlenberg Batters

A field day for the Mule batters in the Lehigh game, and some well-bunched hitting in the Lafayette game boosted several Muhlenberg batting averages and lifted the team average to .218 during the past week. Thus far this season there have been 133 official trips to the plate and in 29 of these, Mule batters have hit safely.

Joe Staudinger, stellar right fielder who left on Thursday for the Army, boasted the team's best batting average, a mark of .416. Joe has been a consistent clutch-hitter as well as a good fielder.

Art Stein, the home run king, is cruising along with a .388 average, seven hits in eighteen times at bat. Of the other regulars, Eddie Schwob has the next highest batting mark, .263. Ed has been at bat more times officially than any other player, and has had five safeties.

Junior Varsity Football Planned

Gurney F. Afflerbach, announced on Monday that plans are being formulated to have Muhlenberg represented by a Junior Varsity football team this fall. The team will compete against similar teams from the Middle Atlantic States Conference.

Composed of those boys who fail to make the varsity squad, the JV's will be coached by Floyd Schwartzwalder and his assistants, Bud Barker and Hoss Lough, the same coaching staff which will lead Muhlenberg's varsity Cardinal and Gray. The schedule has not as yet been completed, but it will most probably include such teams as Franklin and Marshall, Ursinus, Lafayette, and Rutgers.

Track Team Opens Here Tomorrow

By Ted Getz

Philadelphia, Pa.—Gettysburg, Bucknell and Lehigh will help Muhlenberg inaugurate its home track season tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock in the first regulation meet of the year of Middle Atlantic States Conference competition. The meet will be the first of the campaign for all four teams, excluding the appearance of a few of the collegiate performers in the Penn Relays here last weekend.

Although Muhlenberg failed to set the world on fire in the Middle Atlantic mile relay competition in the Relays last Friday, the 'Berg harriers came back on Saturday, running in Mason-Dixon mile relay competition, to cop fourth place among colleges of their class, bettering their previous time by two seconds. On Friday the Mules finished fifth. In the second day's competition the Barker-tutored team whipped two of the aggregations which had placed ahead of them on Friday.

Coach "Bud" Barker will field a squad of fast men tomorrow when Muhlenberg goes into action in Allentown. Among the boys slated to perform will be Al Rubbert, Herb Gernert, Ed Sikorski and Slim Summerville, the foursome which carried the Cardinal and Gray colors in the Penn Relays.

In the weights department, Muhlenberg will be ably represented tomorrow by Brodziewicz, Hale, Miller, Keefe, Naill and Sbordone. These men will vie for honors in the discus throw, javelin throw and shot put. Fluck, Naill, Robertson, Sikorski, Rubbert and Hale will handle the broad jump, high jump, pole vault and hurdles. The various dash events will be run by Sikorski, Gernert, and Rubbert. Summerville, Dennis and Schluee will run the middle distances. The mile and two mile will be run by Schluee, Summerville, Waelchli and Frantz.

By events, the meet, as far as Muhlenberg is concerned, will line up as follows:

220 yards—Sikorski, Gernert.
440 yards—Rubert, Gernert.
880 yds.—Summerville, Schluee.
Mile—Schluee, Summerville.
2 mile—Frantz, Waelchli.
Hurdles (high and low)—Fluck, Robertson.
Pole vault—Robertson, Naill.
Broad jump—Sikorski, Rubbert, Robertson, Hale.
High jump—Naill.
Discus—Hale, Miller, Brodziewicz.
Javelin—Miller, Keefe, Brodziewicz.
Shot put—Brodziewicz, Hale, Sbordone.

The late Lou Gehrig of the Yankees hit four home runs in one game during the 1932 season. Chuck Klein of the Phillies equalled Gehrig's record in 1936.

Busch To Hurl For 'Berg Nine

Muhlenberg's baseball team, victor in three of its four starts thus far this season, will meet the Violets of New York University on Muhlenberg Field this afternoon at 3:45 o'clock.

Walt Busch, with a record of one victory and no losses, will hurl for the Mule nine. Busch handed the Engineers of Lehigh University a 15-4 defeat last week in Bethlehem.

Paul Lucas, who relieved Paul Karobeinick in Wednesday's game when the Mule catcher suffered a split finger in the fourth inning, will probably catch for Muhlenberg. Lucas tore a fingernail in the Lafayette contest but finished out the game for the 'Berg diamond crew.

In the event that his pulled leg muscle is sufficiently healed, Tuss Becker will take over in right field, replacing Joe Staudinger, who left for the service yesterday. If Becker is unable to see action, Sacks will get the call.

The remainder of the line-up will be the same as that which started the Lafayette game.

On Saturday the baseball team will face the Bullets of Gettysburg College at Gettysburg. The batteries for this game have not as yet been announced.

PLAY DAY SPORTS EVENTS CANCELLED

The sports events scheduled for last Saturday's Play Day between 'Berg and Cedar Crest which were not held due to inclement weather, have been cancelled. The games were to begin early in the afternoon with volleyball and tennis on the Muhlenberg campus, and were to conclude with softball and ping pong at Crest.

The biggest score ever recorded in the major leagues went into the books on June 28, 1871, when the Philadelphia Athletics squeezed out a 49 to 33 victory over Troy. Both the A's and Troy were then playing in the National Association, forerunner of the National League. The game lasted 4 hours and 30 minutes.

Deans Discussed Temporary College

Deans Robert C. Horn and Harry A. Benfer traveled to Indian-town Gap Military Reservation, Friday, April 27, to discuss tentative plans with numerous other administrators of colleges and universities for a temporary college to be established on the recently abandoned military camp.

This temporary college would be established for the purpose of accommodating the thousands of high school students who will graduate in June, 1946, and will not be able to find a college that still has vacancies. The students would use the barracks already there; the other facilities of the military establishment would also be utilized. Plans of this sort are being attempted in various parts of the country. It is very likely that these plans will substantially alleviate the overcrowded conditions existing in almost all of the colleges and universities of the nation.

Aviation Assumes Place In College

In view of the increasing importance of aeronautics in transportation, the students of Lehigh University feel that the ability to pilot a plane is becoming as important as the ability to drive an automobile. An Aviation Club has been organized on their campus.

A long-term loan was granted by the University so that several "cub" planes can be purchased. Any student of the university is eligible if he can pass the required physical examination. Each student is expected to pay $50.00 on joining the organization, but $40.00 will eventually be refunded. Flying lessons are given by qualified C.A.A. student instructors. Each lesson will cost about $3.00 instead of the usual $8.00 or $10.00. The local airport will take care of the maintenance of the airplanes through the $10.00 entrance fee. It is planned that all instructors will be students, and preferably seniors. As these seniors graduate new students will be prepared to take their places and thereby the plan will perpetuate itself.

Brunswick presents Johnny Dodds, title of another album in the "Collectors' Series." The King of New Orleans' clarinetists plays with Louie Armstrong on four rare re-issues. The records include Weary Blues and After You've Gone . . . Capitol is releasing a collection of four albums entitled The History of Jazz—singly as The "Solid" South, The Golden Era, Then Came Swing, and This Modern Age. The artists are not all jazz greats, but the men are of high calibre, and the albums collectively offer a very good History of Jazz . . . The editors of Esquire Jazz Yearbooks have finally gotten their all-star artists together to compile an album. It is entitled Leonard Feather's Esquire All-Americans. The individual records are Long Long Journey, a blues featuring Duke Ellington and Louis Armstrong, recording together for the first time in their careers as jazz greats. Snafu features Armstrong and Billy Strayhorn, the Duke's arranger, composer, and protege. making, what laughter! Afterwards came an amateur variety show which, according to my sources, was rather amateurish, well liked. Then came various sorts of games of strength and skill. Towards sundown the festivities were over and in the gathering gloom the boys and girls shouted over and over again, "We must do this next year."

Thus the tradition of Jollification Day grew, until it had spread over all the English-speaking world. We of Muhlenberg, accepted the tradition but found it impossible to continue during the war years. Now, once again, with the war over, the time for Jollification Day is here. Will we revive the tradition or not? I hope we do!

Christian Association To Be Reorganized

The Muhlenberg Christian Association planning committee gathered at the home of Dr. John W. Doberstein on Friday, April 26, at 8:00 p.m. This was the second in a series of meetings for the purpose of reorganizing the Christian Association.

There aren't any definite plans formulated. This term is to serve as an experimental period during which the committee will seek to correlate its material in preparation for the fall term. The group isn't limited in membership. All interested persons are invited to join the committee in its discussions. Contact either Ray May in East Hall or Franklin Sherman in West Hall.

Illuminated Art To Enhance Chapel

The Muhlenberg Chapel has received from Captain William Evan Lewis of Bethlehem what is now one of its greatest art treasures, illumination. Two are altar cards, and the third is a larger illumination of marthex prayer.

These illuminations can be seen, at present, in the Muhlenberg library. Later they will be placed in the chapel. The two altar cards, containing a college litany and the words of institution, a part of the communion liturgy, will be placed on the retable of the altar. The larger illumination of a prayer will be displayed in the Narthex.

Captain Lewis contends that these illuminations are not works of art, as they contain no original conceptions, or self-expression. Nevertheless, they convey all the wild, barbaric beauty of the 14th century monks, for whom this was the only outlet of their feelings and emotions. An illumination is the artistic, colorful decorations, found on medieval manuscripts and documents of the church.

Captain Lewis has produced many excellent, beautiful illuminations since 1925, when he began this hobby. These illuminations must be seen to imagine the patience and skill required. Research material is difficult to obtain, as printed reproductions of a good quality are exceedingly scarce.

Captain Lewis's hobby preserves this ancient art for us.

Student Council Holds Sport Dance Tomorrow

Come on chillun, let's dance! If you haven't lined up that favorite chick, let's go. You have only twenty-four hours left. The hop in the Rainbow Room at Central Park promises to be one of the gayest affairs of the social season. You will want to be there.

Arrangements for this informal dance, requested at a student body meeting, have been completed by the student council committee: Paul Gesregan, Bob Oswald, Dick Bergman and Bill Hillegass. Any civilian student and his date will be admitted upon presentation of his registration (white) card. An admission of one-dollar will be charged Naval trainees. The registration or the one-dollar admission will admit you and your date, to the ever popular Rainbow Room, where you can dance from nine to twelve p.m. Harry Romig, his orchestra, and leading local entertainers will provide the rhythms.

Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. James E. Swain, Professor and Mrs. Truman L. Koehler, and Coach and Mrs. Floyd B. Schwartzwalder. A general invitation has been extended to all members of the faculty.

Naval trainees desiring further information may consult C. Jay Smith Barracks C-118. Tickets may be procured from him. If necessary, tickets may also be purchased at the door.

For those with severe transportation difficulties, a street car marked "Bethlehem-Minsi Trail" leaves Eighth and Hamilton Streets. It only takes a few minutes to arrive at Central Park.

Noted Tenor Scheduled For Next Assembly

The assembly program committee has been very fortunate to obtain the services of Mr. Paul Krueger for Thursday, May 16.

Mr. Krueger is well known for his leading tenor roles in the Philadelphia Opera Co., for his radio appearances, and for his singing at church and synagogue services. He has performed in La Boheme, Faust, Carmen, Il Tabarro and many others.

Some students have difficulty in getting one degree. Mr. Krueger has the unique experience of earning bachelor degrees from three institutions of learning—two of these in music and one in art. Besides his training in this country, he attended school in China.

There he engaged in the first basketball game ever to be played in that country. Previously he had been voted all-state Nebraska halfback.

During the war he was employed by a defense plant in addition to many singing engagements.

Usually, Mr. Krueger is accompanied by his wife.

Constitution Up For Revision As Student Committee Meets

Plans have been begun to prepare a new Student Body Constitution. The Post-War Planning Committee, which was appointed last semester by the Student Council has made arrangements for a meeting to be held on Tuesday afternoon, May 14. The committee is to consider the provisions of a new Student Body Constitution which will go into effect with the Fall Term.

Since May 6, 1943 the Student Body has been governed by a Temporary Constitution, now known as the War Constitution, when the previous set of student rules and regulations was found inadequate to cover all possible conditions created by a war time student body. Our Temporary Constitution provided among other things, for participation of naval trainees in student government, and for the old Constitution to become effective at the beginning of the regular college year following the withdrawal of naval students from College.

The Post-War Planning Committee composed of chairman William Richards, John Myers, George Sweda, Bruce Romig, John Reumann, Phil Mitterling, Walter Weller, and John Rogers is to be assisted by a faculty committee consisting of Dr. Doberstein, chairman, Dr. Swain and Mr. Davidson.

Castle Garden Site For Graduation Ball Thursday, June 20

Much work is being done in preparation for the formal Graduation Ball, Thursday, June 20, 1946 at Castle Garden, Council disclosed in an interview.

Negotiations have been carried on with several large "name" bands, but as yet there has been no success because the bands seem to be filled for that particular week-day evening. The procuring of a "name" band is in line with the usual policy of the Student Council which in former years has engaged such nationally famous bands as that of Tommy Dorsey. Tentative arrangements are now going on with an important band. The orchestra committee is composed of George Sweda, Paul Gesregan and William Hillegass.

Since the Graduation Ball is at the end of examination week it will be a fitting conclusion to a busy academic year.

Anthony Anneccharico, Richard Bergman and Oscar Baldwin who form the decoration committee have decided that the principal colors for the decorative scheme will be the college colors, cardinal and gray.

W. Robert Oswald will head the publicity committee. Joseph Podany, W. Robert Oswald and Foster Blair comprise the program committee which will handle tickets, invitations and the individual dance programs. Special written invitations will be sent to all faculty members and administrative personnel. Refreshments will be on sale at the dance.

Students Offered New Streamlined Courses

Peak Of 'Berg Enrollment Expected To Reach 900 In Fall

Announcement was forthcoming this week that with the beginning of the September semester, enrollment, for the first time in the history of the college, is expected to exceed 900 students.

Summer School, Exam Dates Set

Mr. Benfer, Registrar, announced the faculty decision concerning test week and summer school. Final exams will be given the week of June 14 to June 20.

Summer school will be held from July 1 until August 24. Running for eight weeks, the courses will carry full credits. The present plan to make up for the shorter course is to schedule a five day week with classes lasting an hour and ten minutes.

Students will be permitted to schedule three classes not to exceed ten credit hours. When the courses to be given have been approved, they will be posted.

Registration will take place between June 22 and July 1. Among the 500 expected to register will be about 50 to 60 women. This will include those taking summer extension courses in education.

Very few new freshman will be accepted, Mr. Benfer said, because Muhlenberg will have to save room for those returning in the fall.

A plan is being sought to make it possible for those not attending summer school to claim their rooms in the fall.

Simultaneously revealed was the disclosure that faculty approval of a greatly revised curriculum has also been given. The new curriculum will become effective in September.

Foremost among the curriculum changes will be the introduction of a new two-year composite course prepared by Dr. James Edgar Swain, head of the department of Social Sciences. With the social sciences as a core, the composite course to embrace all that material now included in the present History of World Civilization, American History and American Government Courses. Another important feature is that the course will be given five periods a week, with five credits being given for each semester's work.

In this connection it was also disclosed that beginning with the September term, the first two years' work of modern languages will be given five periods a week also. It is to be noted, however, that three credits will be continued to be given per semester for modern languages. The extra two class-room hours will serve as laboratory periods, whereby students will have better opportunity to speak the language. This will also permit instructors to give less outside work to students.

Regarding physical education, it

Cold Facts . . .

While the people of certain fortunate countries like the United States, Canada, and Australia face grave and urgent questions concerning when they will get cars, radios, and new homes—not to mention jewelry, watches, and fur coats—500,000,000 people, about one fourth of the entire population of the earth, are faced with starvation and impending death. From the native villagers of India and China come reports that they are only eating one meal every two days. Truly we will face one of the greatest tragedies in the history of the world, unless those nations who have more than they need, help to feed the billion and a quarter starving people, and to save from death some 200,000,000.

Already the various nations, including the United States, are contributing food supplies, but they are far short of what is needed to avert the calamity.

If the American people collectively get wholeheartedly in back of the famine relief campaign, the United States alone can yield tremendous powers for good. For example, if we Americans eat only what we need to maintain healthy bodies, we can save 100,000,000 lives. If we step up our production, another 100,000,000 lives can be saved. If we save the food we now throw into our garbage cans we can save 100,000,000 more human beings from famine.

As for the college student, he has a definite place in this great humanitarian enterprise, as has been clearly shown by the example of Penn State, Oberlin, and many other colleges, from whose campuses come reports of organizations and dormitory students assisting individual families or villages. These students in their spare moments collect clothing, food, solicit funds, and gather reading material.

We at Muhlenberg could organize a drive for clothing, books, and food. All of us have some old things tucked away which we never use and this gives us a big opportunity to give them to a worthwhile purpose.

Second, the various campus organizations could help individual families.

Third, students individually can offer their services to the local group behind Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace's national drive to obtain contributions of food to start May 12. This drive is to collect contributions of canned foodstuffs rather than money, and we, Muhlenberg, should get 100% behind it when the green light is given.

Four, we can support the current campaign by the Jews of America to raise $100,000,000. The Jews as a nation have suffered more than any other group in Europe, and we can certainly show our admiration and gratitude for their resistance to tyranny by helping them to help themselves.

And lastly you can play a decisive part by supporting your government in the spirit as well as the letter of the law. Accept inconvenience and petty hardships cheerfully; remember the reasons for the regulations.

.. The Awful Truth ..

First off the reel are those old BEEG FAT onions to the "high-school" Harrys who insist on pouring salt into the sugar bowl and other bright tricks along those lines in the Commons. Some of you guys ought to file applications to Raub Junior High or maybe the grammar school closest to your home. You really are cute, like blind men without canes . . .

Social event of the coming week-end is the ATO house party. This will put into swing the social season and all hands are in the proverbial dither. Rainbow Room will have the Mules to contend with on Saturday as the Sport Dance comes in focus . . .

Undoubtedly the top man in the social whirl these days is Paul Karobeineick. With all the gals in town battling to make time with the luminary of the diamond, (he's the catcher with the beeg voice), Paul has to carry his bat around to beat the women off with; no nasty thoughts . . . Gorgone going all out for that "leette wan" he thinks is so nice$$$$. . .

SCREAM OF THE WEEK—Archie Gardner of Duffy's Tavern fame will have to move over and make room for Van "We got terrific pizza" Combs. The flash of the blue grass country is on the ball with the knife and fork, and business has flourished at Volpe's since he's there. Not only do you get the chow, but a floor show as well . . .

Arnold gets the orchid of the week. The young femme from Cedar Crest took the guy to a dance and then on his suggestion to some refreshment, she took him to Howard Johnson's for a MILK SHAKE. Any guy who rates that way with the gals is O.K. . . .

Most dejected guy on campus is D-O-R-A-N, that's pronounced like Renfrew of the Mounties. In the publicity for the "M" Club show all the basketeers got nice write ups about their parts in the show. Added to the list and at the bottom was the name of no less a personage than Jim Doran as also one of the boys in the show. Now I ask you, is that fair after all that stellar play on the court and especially the play on the diamond?? Well he did get a walk in the first Lehigh game . . .

Ensign Dave Tyson makes with the letter to Gross. Old "Knucklehead" has the situation well in hand and asks to be remembered to all the gang. Hoping to make it home shortly but apparently things aren't too tough, Davee didn't gripe a bit . . .

Congrats in order for Miss Butz of our library. She takes that long walk down that looong aisle on Decoration Day. Many, many, happy happies.

... Time Out ...

By Gordon Daggy

After climbing through a few windows and greasing a few palms, this Weekly reporter gained access to a very enlightening and entertaining "M" club rehearsal Wednesday night.

If I hadn't seen it with my own eyes, I never would have believed it. There they were! The greatest collection of talent ever assembled on a college campus. Personages present included, "Diz" Dean, "Doghouse" Doran, "La Pizza" Combs, "Hips" Baldwin, Brothers Donovan Three, "Rhythm" Rubbert, "Sexey" Stein, Bibighaus ("the Body"), "Gertie" Getz, "Punchy" Borel, and last but not least "Miami" Mike Rogers.

Things really got rolling following the grand entrance of those two illustrious playwrights Graham and Morris. Jim "Fingers" Gross, who is in charge of the ivories, gave out with some rhythmic renditions, while the chorus swung into its dance. Dancing Diz Dean with the "laughing face" led this bevey of beauties through their leg lifting paces. The girls really looked good! Not only is the talent exceptional but the instruction is professional. Mrs. Jean Fried of "Tars and Spars" fame really has the boys hopping. All eyes were on Mrs. Fried when she offered instruction. Attentive cooperation such as this exemplifies the attitude of the whole cast.

A few minutes intermission were authorized while the press photographer presided. At the command from Graham, "O.K. boys take off your pants," the pants came off. What a sight! What a variety of shorts! All colors from table tennis tan to basketball brown. Donovan (Harry) and Bibighaus clad in Fireman red briefs, while Dean sported his Kuu I po (Hawaiian for Hubba Hubba) trunks. And this confusion, however, the photographer managed to secure some good shots.

Tis truly going to be a bang up show. Broadway is small time stuff compared to the "M" club extravaganza. "Time Out" is already a success with expectations of a year's run in New York after leaving Allentown. Watch Winchell's column for his comment and above all, DON'T MISS "TIME OUT."

Meet New German Prof.

Dr. Ralph C. Wood

Dr. Ralph C. Wood, well-known authority on the Pennsylvania Germans, has recently assumed duties at Muhlenberg College as assistant professor of German. Coming here from Penn State, where he served as associate professor of German and Norwegian, Dr. Wood brings to Muhlenberg the fruits of a life spent in hard work and study.

DR. RALPH C. WOOD

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, Dr. Wood attended the University of Cincinnati and graduated with his B.A. and M.Ed. degrees in 1927. While in college, he played in a jazz band and thus earned his expenses. His parents were of German ancestry, and living as he did in the "over the Rhine" region of Ohio, he early showed an interest in the Germans and their culture. This "over the Rhine" region is a fairly large community composed of German and Pennsylvania German settlers.

After graduation, Dr. Wood taught for a while in the Cincinnati schools. After this he started working on the staff of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, where he received the journalistic experience he was presently to use as the editor of the Norwood, Ohio, News. Coming east in 1932, he took his Ph.D. at Cornell under a teaching scholarship. His thesis was in German and on the subject, "The German Stage in Cincinnati."

From Cornell, Dr. Wood went to Princeton, where he edited and had published the book "The Pennsylvania Germans." Dr. Reichard, of our college faculty, contributed one of the articles in the book.

During the war, he was called to serve as a teacher at Lehigh for the ASTP training program. When that broke up, he took to writing for the Bethlehem Globe Times, covering the municipal activities. During the years, he has also written a number of articles and papers, among them a novellette which he had published in Germany. He also is a regular contributor to the Germanic Review.

Dr. Wood is married and has a number of children, including an adopted son. He is living now in Orefield on a farm and expects to settle there permanently. He is quite linguistically inclined, having a knowledge of high and low German, Pennsylvania German, and Norwegian.

He takes a keen interest in music of all kinds, especially eighteenth century composers. He plays the flute and piano, and has organized a quartet at the Coplay Mannerchor, a singing society comprised largely of Austrians.

Der Deutsche Verein Initiates New Men

Der Deutsche Verein meeting and initiation took place Monday night in the West Hall recreation room. The regular initiation ritual was performed, Vorsitzender Jack Reumann presiding. Among those present were Dr. Barba and Dr. Wood. Those initiated were: Leon T. Loch, Albin Gapsch, Raymond Scholl, Norman Hoffman, Howard Haring, Donald T. Miller, Charles Krauss, Robert Remmel, Walter Keim, Paul Elson, Theodore Getz, Adolph Wegener, and John Lesko.

The next meeting, May 20, will consist of a lecture on German Architecture, to be delivered by Dr. Barba.

The final meeting in June, will be an Ausflug for all members. This traditional spring event will include sports and a picnic. Time and place details will be released later.

Math Professor Speaks To A.K.A.

Professor Truman L. Koehler was the guest speaker of the National Philosophical Fraternity on Thursday evening, May 9. The bi-monthly meeting was held at the home of Dr. Russell W. Stine.

Professor Koehler is well known in the college family. He is the assistant Professor in the Mathematics Department, and in addition, is secretary of the faculty.

The large number of Brothers present enjoyed Professor Koehler's address, entitled "Mathematical Truth".

... Alumni Memo ...

By John Wagner, Alumni Secretary

There is a saying, "If you want a thing done, give it to a busy man". That is always true, for I find that in Alumni work, if I want something done by a special committee or an individual, I can always count on certain individuals who, even though they are busy with their own affairs, will do a job for their college and GET IT DONE.

Many students are missing much of the priceless contributions of college life because "they are too busy". Sure, I know you are married, and perhaps there is a toddler claiming your attention when you return home at night. Then, you say, your studies take all of your time and you cannot take on any extra curricular activities. Take it from me, you can't afford not to participate in something outside of classroom work—dramatics, the Ciarla, the Weekly, scholastic societies and fraternities, athletics, be they varsity or intra-mural. It is a simple matter of budgeting—yes, budget your time, your energy, and you'll be amazed at the amount of time you have for participation in some phase of college life other than class room work. You veterans remember how much we used to crowd into twenty-four hours. It can be done. You owe it to yourself to get the most out of college. DO IT!

Fifteen Colleges To Compete In Annual Classic At F-M

Ten Muhlenberg trackmen will compete along with representatives of fourteen other Eastern colleges for top honors in the Middle Atlantic States Conference Track and Field Meet in Lancaster tomorrow afternoon. The annual track classic is being held this year on the Franklin and Marshall campus in honor of that institution's athletic director, Charles W. Mayser, who is retiring after many years of faithful service.

The meet is scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p.m., the Mule track crew leaving the local campus at 9 a.m.

Muhlenberg this year will look to the Middle Atlantic crown with eager eyes, for in 1943 and 1944 'Berg track teams won the much sought after honor. Last year high honors in the conference went to Swarthmore, the Mules taking fourth place.

The Middle Atlantic States Conference has recently become an affiliate of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, with headquarters in New York City. Muhlenberg's Gurney Afflerbach last week was again re-elected president of the Middle Atlantic States Conference at a meeting of the organization in Philadelphia.

Colleges who will send representatives to Lancaster for tomorrow's meet are Albright, Bucknell, Delaware, Drexel, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Haverford, Juniata, Lafayette, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, Rutgers, St. Joseph's, Swarthmore and Ursinus.

Dickinson, Lebanon Valley, P.M.C. and Washington College will not be represented this year. Next year the meet will be held at the University of Delaware.

Moravian Whipped Again By Mules, 8-5

Smothering a ninth inning rally in its early stages, Coach Frank Lough's Muhlenberg nine racked up their fourth victory in six starts on Tuesday as they turned back Moravian College 8 to 5 in Bethlehem.

Going into the final frame with a six-run deficit, the Moravian crew staged a determined rally, but winning pitcher John Myers settled down and put out the fire, but only after three runs had scored.

Earlier in the season, Myers defeated Moravian 2 to 1 in a game played on Muhlenberg Field.

The Mules got off to a flying start in the first inning when they touched Hilbert, the Moravian moundsman, for five runs. Saemmer started things off with a walk, advanced to second when Henry reached first on an error, and scored on a single by Schwob. Stein got on via a free pass, loading the bases. Karobeinick promptly singled, scoring Henry and Schwob, Stein moving to third. Bibighaus flied out, Stein coming in after the

By Art Peters

The big boy with the red hair and deep voice you've seen around is RED GRANER, a name MUHLENBERG sports fans will see in the news a plenty come next basketball season. The tall Allentownian played a year of varsity ball for TEMPLE UNIVERSITY before going into the service. Upon discharge last fall, he kept in shape by playing for the ALLENTOWN AMERICAN LEGION quintet, which was runner-up for the State Legion title.

JIM CAPEHART, a starter on the great MUHLENBERG cage team of the 1943 season, came back to the campus this week to talk over old times. At 'Berg as a Marine in the V-12 unit, Jim was just about the fastest and most cunning guard ever to stalk a basketball court in a CARDINAL AND GREY jersey. We understand Jim, whose wife is an ALLENTOWN girl, will be on hand next season, much to the delight of BUD BARKER.

Outfielder FRANK HENRY has been playing plenty of center field for COACH FRANK LOUGH in recent games. Frank has accepted chance after chance without a boot and has begun working up his batting average.

GURNEY AFFLERBACH has kept the wires hot during the past few weeks arranging a mighty attractive basketball schedule for next season. The battle plan for the 1947 campaign should be ready for release next week.

Mule Errors Give N.Y.U. 13-0 Victory

Aided by ten Muhlenberg errors, New York University routed the Mules 13 to 0 on Friday in a game played on Muhlenberg Field. The 'Berg nine, showing complete reversal of form, were able to collect but three hits off the offerings of Teasley, N.Y.U. hurler, while the New Yorkers belted Busch and Baldwin for 13 safeties.

"Diz" Dean and Al Saemmer each committed three errors to lead a parade of Muhlenberg miscues. Schwob, Karobeinick, Bibighaus and Busch also committed errors to spark the sloppy exhibition of fielding.

The looseness which the Mules demonstrated was all the more surprising in view of the fact that they had played 27 consecutive errorless innings prior to the N.Y.U. game. Not since opening day, when three errors were committed, had the Cardinal and Gray infield and outfield allowed a leak to spring through their stone wall defense.

Busch Repeats Earlier Victory As Engineers Succumb, 6-4

Hopping to Custer, Lehigh's southpaw hurler, for six runs in the second inning, Muhlenberg's Mules coasted along behind Walt Busch's expert hurling to a 6-4 win over Lehigh on Wednesday afternoon. The cold breezes seemed to keep Busch on his toes as he scattered Lehigh's six hits and only once was in serious trouble.

"Hoss" Lough's nine put together four hits and an error to push over six runs in the second inning, and this margin proved to be too much for the Engineers to overcome. Karobeinick started the ball rolling with a sharp single to center. After Bibighaus bounced out, the next five men got on base as Becker, Dean, and Busch singled, Saemmer got on on an error, and Henry was hit by a pitched ball. After this outburst, Custer settled down and held the Mules at bay, except when Bibighaus doubled in the third and Becker got on as a result of an error. However, two strikeouts took the wind out of the Mules' sails.

Except for the third inning, Walt Busch mastered the Lehigh batsmen. Walt gave up three singles and two walks in that inning as the Engineers threatened to tie the score, but Lehigh's attack stalled.

A possible big inning for Lehigh in the seventh was quelled in a hurry when the Mules' infield pulled off a fast double play. Again in the ninth Lehigh threatened, but Busch bore down and silenced Lehigh's bats.

Bisons Win Track Meet Here; 'Berg Takes Third Place

Sweeping through to take seven first-place wins, Bucknell University's track team amassed a total of 59½ points to take top honors in last Saturday's quadrangular track meet held on Muhlenberg's campus. Lehigh nosed out Muhlenberg for second place, scoring 42½ points to 'Berg's 42. Gettysburg tallied 11 counters to finish fourth.

A steady drizzle made the track soft, slowing up the field, and hampered the discus, pole vault, shot put and javelin competition.

Muhlenberg's top performer of the day was V. A. Miller, who won first place in the discus event with a heave of 121 feet 10 inches and in the javelin with a 156 foot throw. However, his fete of annexing two first places was duplicated by Syme of Bucknell, who took the 440 and 880, and Roberts, also of the Bison crew, who won the mile and two mile events.

In the mile, Muhlenberg's Schluee, after trailing in fourth place most of the way, put on a spurt of speed in the last lap and overtook Roberts of Bucknell on the last turn. The 'Berg runner went on to break the tape in 5:01.8 but was disqualified and awarded second place, being charged with elbowing his opponent.

Muhlenberg copped the 100 yard dash as Ed Sikorski, after two faulty starts, came from behind to beat out Bullock of Bucknell by inches.

Summary:

100-yard dash: Sikorski, Muhlenberg; Bullock, Bucknell; Stauffer, Gettysburg; Stevens, Lehigh. Time—10.4 sec.

220-yard dash: Hackbrunn, Bucknell; Rubbert, Muhlenberg; Stauffer, Gettysburg; Watkinson, Bucknell. Time—23.1 sec.

440-yard run: Syme, Bucknell; Douglas, Lehigh; Rubbert, Muhlenberg; Paroby, Lehigh. Time—55.8 sec.

880-yard run: Syme, Bucknell; Summerville, Muhlenberg; Snyder, Bucknell; Roberts, Bucknell. Time—2:12.4.

Mile: Roberts, Bucknell; Schluee, Muhlenberg; Summerville, Muhlenberg; Spilsburg, Lehigh. Time—5:01.8.

Two-mile: Roberts, Bucknell; Snyder, Bucknell; Frantz, Muhlenberg; Essen, Lehigh. Time—11:21.

High jump: Given, Lehigh; tie, Naill, Muhlenberg, Nimo, Lehigh.

Tennis Team Downs Haverford Crew, 7-2

Last Wednesday 'Berg's tennis team, in its second match of the season, swatted out a 7 to 2 victory over Haverford College at the Oakmont Tennis Club. The local netmen captured all of their individual contests and one of the three doubles events. The victory was the first out of two starts for Muhlenberg, the Mules having previously dropped a match to Swarthmore at Swarthmore.

The results of the matches are as follows:

Singles—Bob Cerney, Muhlenberg, defeated Dave Johnson, Haverford 6-1, 10-8; Walt Weller, Muhlenberg, defeated Chick Shields, Haverford 6-4, 7-5; Bill Klink, Muhlenberg, defeated Bob Clayton, Haverford 6-1, 4-6, 6-4;

Annual Alumni Reunion June 21-22

The annual Alumni gathering will be held on June 21 and 22. Opening the festivities will be a golf tournament at the Lehigh Country Club starting at 10:00 a.m. This will be followed by a reception in President Tyson's home from 3:00 to 5:00. Dinner will follow in the commons at six o'clock.

Various reunion parties are being held by different groups, but for those who have not yet made previous arrangements, a general alumni party will be held in the Hotel Traylor at nine o'clock.

Saturday's program includes the annual general alumni meeting at eleven after which the members will adjourn to the commons for lunch.

Though the details have not yet been announced, there will be a sports program during the evening.

The affair promises to be a big one. With most of the alumni home from the wars and the cares of state less important, everything points to a huge success.

Accident Fatal For Former Editor

Former editor of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY, and Muhlenberg graduate, Ensign John Schwenk, died as the result of an automobile accident in Yosemite National Park, California, on Sunday, April 29, 1946. He and some friends were on a brief holiday in the Sierras.

It is ironical that Ensign Schwenk, after serving in the amphibious operations at Siapan, Guam, Eniwetok, and Okinawa should be killed while home on leave.

While at college, Ensign Schwenk participated in many extra-curricular activities, and was an active member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

was stated that there will be three class hours a week for physical training, and that one credit per semester will be allowed for same.

It was pointed out that with both the increase in the student enrollment, and the revision of the curriculum, many additions will be necessitated toward increasing the administrative and faculty staffs. Announcements regarding same will be forthcoming in the near future.

Concerning housing shortages which problem promises to become more acute with the influx of more students, Business Manager Ned Keiter revealed that the Federal Housing Authority has approved allocation of 25 dwelling units and a dormitory unit housing 100 men. This is in addition to the units allocated earlier in the year to the college. Construction of these latter units is now underway on the former Navy Obstacle Course on the south side of Chew Street.

catch. The Mules' final tally came when Karobelnick scored on Sacks' single.

Moravian's McConlogue smashed out a booming home run in the second with none on base to set the score at 5 to 1.

The Bethlehem collegians came back in the last half of the sixth, after Muhlenberg had added two runs in the top half of the frame, to add a tally. The score then stood at 7 to 2.

After two scoreless innings, the Mules scored again in the ninth, boosting their lead to 8 to 2.

The Moravian fireworks started in the last inning when pinch-hitters Kraus walked and Kopko singled. Second baseman Calvo, lead-off man in the Moravian batting order, came up and belted out a home run.

Mule Nine Faces Bullets Today, F. M. Tomorrow

The long series of out-of-town baseball games will be continued this week-end as the Muhlenberg nine leaves on Friday on a two-day trip to Gettysburg and Lancaster. The Gettysburg game, originally scheduled for two weeks ago, renews relationships between these two friendly rivals. The game will start at five o'clock on Friday afternoon.

On Saturday, Coach Lough will take his squad and journey to Lancaster for an encounter with the Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall. The Mules have hopes of squaring accounts with this club, as the Dips, last year, administered two stinging defeats to the Mules. The Mules are not looking for an easy trip and should play heads-up ball during the jaunt.

Next Wednesday, "Hoss" Lough's charges will face a real test of their baseball powers as they journey to Philadelphia to face the Temple Owls. The Owls have been a spotty club, just as they were in basketball, but have managed to win a goodly number of their games. Their most recent test was one of local interest as they had to use every trick in the Publication Of New M Book Announced

For the first time since September, 1943, the incoming students next September will be issued an "M" Book.

The "M" Book, a small, compact pocket guide to all phases of campus life, in former years contained such essential information as the Freshman challenge, and college yells and songs. During the last three years it was suspended as a result of the general curtailment of civilian activities on the campus.

Work on this first post-war "M" book is being started now and will continue throughout the summer.

The co-editors of the book are Philip Mitterling and Richard Bergman. Mitterling will be in charge of the layout and printing of the book, while Bergman will take care of the business affairs. He will also serve as an assistant to Mitterling for the layout.

Associate editors are Bruce Romig, Howard Haring, Eugene Harmony, Russell Everitt, Richard Bieber and Gar Chomichle. The distribution will be managed by Anthony Marino.

Every incoming Freshman will receive a copy of the "M" book in September without charge, since it is included in the regular activities fee.

Inter-Frat Council Formal Ball May 25th At Americus Hotel

Another step toward the return to a pre-war level of social life on the Muhlenberg campus will be taken at the Americus Hotel on Saturday, May 25, where the Inter-Fraternity Ball will be held from nine to twelve o'clock. This dance, a formal, will be the first large post war inter-fraternity dance given by the Muhlenberg fraternities and is open to all members of any social fraternities on the campus, as well as to those Muhlenberg men who are members of social fraternities which do not have active chapters on the campus. For this latter group, the admission is two dollars a couple, at the door.

Opportunity For Foreign Traveling Offered Students

Do you want your summer vacation to include a free trip to Europe and $150 in cash when you return? You can at the same time be helping to relieve the acute food shortage in Europe. This opportunity will be open to wide-awake college men this summer.

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is now making regular shipments of livestock to Greece, Albania, Yugoslavia, Poland and Czechoslovakia. To handle and care for the cattle and horses that are sent, livestock attendants are needed on each ship in the proportion of one attendant to about every 30 animals.

By summer more than thirty UNRRA ships will be sailing monthly with over 900 attendants aboard. The long range goal is to deliver over 200,000 animals (mares and heifers) to Europe before the end of this year. The vessels vary in size and weight, including modern Victory ships, Liberty ships, and some old-timers built over 30 years ago. Sailings have generally been made from East Coast and Gulf ports extending from Portland, Maine to Houston with most ships leaving from Baltimore, Newport News and Houston.

Aboard ship the sea-going cowboy's program of duties runs something like this: Hit the deck at 6:00 when the first feeding of the livestock is done. Breakfast between 7:30 and 8:30. Watering is done after breakfast. Then cleaning and scraping out the stalls is begun, with the aisles being hosed down with salt water. Dinner between 11:30 and 12:30. In the afternoon cleaning is finished and hay and feed are hoisted up from the hold. Supper served between 5:30 and 6:30. Evenings are completely free for educational, social, and recreational activities.

The length of the trip varies with the ship, some ships having made the round trip in five weeks, others taking eight or nine weeks. The amount of time in Europe also varies. Some men have had as much as two weeks time, while others have had only three or four days. Opportunities for sight-seeing exist to some extent, depending on where the ship lands. Ships carrying cattle to Greece have occasionally stopped at Venice or Naples or a North African port, and men have been able to get shore leave. Some men have been able to get into the hinterland in Poland and, to a lesser extent, in Germany from Bremenhaven, where livestock destined for Czechoslovakia is landed.

All applications or inquiries should be directed to Mr. Benjamin G. Bushong, Brethren Relief Center, New Windsor, Maryland. Applicants should be prepared to provide social security number, birth certificate, and if between 16

"M" Club Tickets Ready For Sale

Joe Podany, President of the "M" Club, released tickets for the "M" Club show "Time Out" which will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 6, 7, and 8.

Tickets which sell at $1.00 apiece have been placed on sale at the following centrally located points: the Rosemark Drug Store, Kenny Konrad's Klassy Kollege Kommissary, Home Restaurant and the Witwer-Jones Sporting Goods Store. Tickets may also be obtained by contacting the athletic office of the college located on the first floor of the Administration Building. These tickets are on sale because this performance is not included under the activities fee.

Since the "M" club performances in the past have played to capacity crowds, it will be necessary for everyone to get their tickets early.

Written invitations will be extended to all members of the faculty and administration who are members of any social fraternities. The chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Keck, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Keller, and Dr. and Mrs. Victor L. Johnson.

The music for the occasion will be supplied by the orchestra of Jack Bohlen and his Canary Cavaliers. The dance has been arranged by the inter-fraternity council, under the presidency of Earl Bender, Phi Kappa Tau, who expressed the council's confidence of a successful and entertaining evening.

Unlike the last ball which was semi-formal, this one will be formal. The Americus Hotel has always been a popular site for college dances. Last term's Graduation Ball was held in the General Trexler Room of the Americus. While the Canary Cavaliers are new to Muhlenberg dancers, the orchestra is a popular one in Allentown circles.

Lambda Chi's To Reoccupy House During Summer Term

The Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity House, to be returned to the local Chapter in July. The building is currently being utilized as the Sick Bay of the Navy V-12 Unit. Recent alterations have converted the basement into a spacious and well-equipped lounge and recreation room.

After forty-eight months of continuous occupation as the college infirmary and Navy "sick bay", the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity house, located on 23rd Street directly across from the East Hall dormitories, will be returned for the use by members of the local chapter on or about July 1, 1946, president Les Warger disclosed this week.

Commandeered along with the ATO and PKT houses in the summer of 1942, when the housing problem for Navy trainees and civilian students became acute, the three-story building was transformed into one of the finest dispensaries in use in any governmental educational program.

The other two fraternity houses were returned in fall, 1944, but continued use of Lambda Chi Alpha's facilities was felt necessary by college authorities. Although seriously handicapped, Lambda Chi maintained a well-rounded program of activities and experienced steady growth during the war period.

The twenty-eight brothers and fifteen pledges who compose the present membership are eagerly anticipating the return of the traditional rush smokers and dances, house parties and alumni homecomings, to their own quarters. Leadership of the chapter is in the hands of officers Les Warger, Tony Annecharico, Richard Brown, and Paul Balze, and faculty members Truman Koehler, Edward Keiter, and Robert Behler.

The house contains a kitchen, lounge and recreation room in the basement, a reception room, sun porch, living room and dining hall on the first floor, rooms for study on the second story, and sleeping quarters for eighteen tenants on the "top deck". Built in 1929, it was purchased by Lambda Chi Alpha from the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity in 1940.

Muhlenberg Christian Association To Reconvene In West Hall Tonight

An informal panel discussion on "The Ex-G.I. Looks at Christianity and the Church" will be featured at the meeting of the reorganized Muhlenberg Christian Association to be held in West Hall Recreation Room this evening at 7:30 P. M., Richard Rushmore, newly elected president, announced this week.

Participants will be Walter Keim, freshman pre-theological student who saw action with the Navy in the Mediterranean and in the Pacific, serving part of the time as a chaplain's assistant; Lewis Moore, a sophomore town student who did similar work while stationed in England; and Hammond Rever, tall Baltimore lad who served with the Army in England, France, Belgium, and Germany.

All members of the college community who are sincerely interested in discussing, from a Christian viewpoint, the issues facing them as students and citizens today, are strongly urged to attend. It is expected that a lively discussion will ensue, which will be most profitable if men of all sorts of backgrounds will take part.

Last Friday evening, a group of thirteen students and two faculty members, Professors Truman Koehler and George H. Brandes, met at the home of the Chaplain. The question "How Christian is Muhlenberg College?" precipitated an interplay of ideas and experiences which led to consideration of many aspects of collegiate life.

The problem of rehabilitation and rebuilding of the churches in Germany was also discussed, and the group unanimously agreed that as the WEEKLY editorial of last Friday suggested, no American Christians can ignore the mandate to extend all possible aid to the starving, unclothed, and unsheltered millions of Europe. Various action projects which a student Christian Association would want to undertake were debated.

Veterans' Housing Units Arrive; To Be Erected Soon

Work has already been started on the site for the new veterans housing development here at Muhlenberg College. The actual construction will begin in about two weeks, and until that time workmen will be preparing the ground for the buildings which are expected to arrive at any time.

The plans call for three buildings which are termed "panelized," another way of saying pre-fabricated. Two of these will contain six four room apartments each, for married veterans and their families. The third will be a dormitory unit accommodating approximately sixty-two men.

The date for the occupancy of these buildings is uncertain, but Mr. Keiter, the business secretary of the college, expressed the hope that they will be completed before the summer session begins.

The final selection of the veterans who will occupy the new buildings will be determined by the FPMA requirement. It will be necessary for each potential occupant to make a formal application for residence there, on a special form. These forms have not yet been received by the school, but notice will be given when they arrive.

Next to the site for the buildings, the college is in the process of constructing a parking lot. This will help to relieve the congestion on the campus by providing space for eighty-five cars.

Here at Muhlenberg College, we are lacking what ought to be one of the most important organizations on the campus. We refer to the band. This organization is a must for all football days, college home days, and basketball games. Imagine pulling through the football season next fall with a winning team and not having a band to cheer the boys on. Imagine the stadium crowded with a Home Day crowd, quietly munching peanuts and exchanging light gossip with their friends, as the boys battle it out on the field.

At basketball games, too, a lively band adds tremendously to the enjoyment of the game. A good band is also one of the best advertisements a college can have. Before the war, 'Berg's band was noted for its concert presentations.

Enthusiasm for a band is not a new idea at 'Berg. For the past three semesters a group of interested students have been trying to put it over, but a lack of organization has stymied their efforts. However, let us not look backward. Only six weeks remain in this semester; then comes the summer term and football season is upon us.

If we want a band next fall we must act NOW, quickly and surely. We have the material. We have the band leader. We have the administration squarely behind us. It remains only for you to take the initiative.

Through Defeat Victory?

By Russ Everitt

The eyes of the world are focused upon the present peace conference in Paris because it is through this meeting that the political and economic patterns of the world are taking shape.

Many of us in this country are prone to look upon the conference with a rather dismayed and confused—if not outright pessimistic—attitude. In the communiques that are issued from the Luxembourg Palace, we find accounts of scathing verbal battles between the great democratic powers on one hand and Russia on the other.

Johns-Manville Offers Scholarship

The Finance Division of the Johns-Manville Corporation has sent Dean Horn a notice of its annual scholarships for coordinated college and business training. The plan is to correlate specific business training in Johns-Manville offices with the last two years of college work in such a way that at the end of the course a student will have had two years of college and a substantial business experience at no cost to him. Specifically, the program consists of a normal college week at Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Illinois, of which two days each week will be spent in the Johns-Manville sales office at Chicago or at the factory office at Waukegan, Illinois.

Applicants for these scholarships, who will be selected from certain areas in which the Johns-Manville Corp. has a sales district or factory office, must have had two years of college, with such basic subjects as would qualify them for entrance to the junior year at Lake Forest College. Since those selected will work during the summer in local offices of the corporation, applicants who live within commuting distance of a Johns-Manville office will be preferred.

The college course will be in Business Administration, and it will be necessary for the student to maintain a minimum standard, approximately a "B" average, in both college work and office training.

Since the conference began on April 25, the true issue—a German peace treaty—has been circumvented. True, the peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Roumania, and Bulgaria are important; but the one with Germany, the very core and foundation around which all treaties should be concluded, is totally lacking.

As Walter Lippman, eminent columnist and author, sees it, every statesman in Europe thinks another war is inevitable, wants another war, or desires to conclude the present one. The reason given for this is the contest of power between England and Russia for Germany. Both the British and Russian zones contain the life blood of Germany—the British with its ports and heavy industry of the Ruhr; the Russian with the Silesian industrial area. The position of the United States is that of a backseat driver. Both Russia and England are maneuvering for a probable war, and in that eventuality Germany would not only be the battlefield; she would also play an enormous part. Her remaining strength would be exploited, and her military might utilized. The outcome of this contest between England and Russia is bound to determine the destiny of the whole of Germany, of Europe, and of the world.

In all of this, one can see but one error—the division of Germany by the Allies. As long as this condition exists, all our plans for the re-education of Germany, the destruction of the German General Staff and the army, and the elimination of the means of rearmament, have all been abortive. We must seek to change the policy

One Foot In The Grove

By Art Peters

One of the most perplexing problems that pops up during the first few weeks of "enlightenment" of the young Frosh is the age-old question: What's the word with these Cedar Crest women? Is what I hear the straight dope or are those nasty names just the sounding off of some jilted wolves, like the rural Roger's who get "taken" at the county fair—the old "she done me wrong routine?"

Well, brethren, it's like the Senior will tell you, experience is the best teacher. There are two ways of looking at it. You can ignore the matter completely and resort to dating uneducated females or you can put on your "makes them wish they were dead" sport jacket, the one with the synthetic shoulders and built-in defroster, and direct your feet to the sunny side of the street.

If you are a red-blooded American, you'll say to yourself, "What can I lose that I can't work at the Commons and eventually get back," and adopt the latter plan.

After some smoothie, a Sophomore or someone of a higher caste, pulls some well-oiled strings arranging an A-Number One (Yankee Doodle) date for you, you put on your shoes and make with the feet to Curtis Hall, the local Rose-land.

Upon entering, the warden at the desk bellows, "And who might you be wanting, Sonny?" Racking your brain to remember the name you've been repeating in your mind for the last half hour, you scratch your size seven head and try and pronounce her name, after which the desk clerk, chewing gum, bobby sox and all, silently creeps into the deep recesses of the corridor.

Lighting a cigarette, you make for the lounge and with an air of nonchalance which reeks with class, you sprawl your carcass over the sofa provided. You puff masterfully, thinking "Ah, this is the life, just like the movies—big time, that's me."

After the customary fifteen minutes, in comes the . . . the . . . your date. You give with the toothy grin and think "hubba hubba, how many points does it take to get you?" Yah, the fur coat and blonde accessories—that's YOUR date.

Hitching a ride with the guy from East Hall with the car, you and your woman proceed exchanging introductory conversation—you're from Philly, she's from New Jersey, it shouldn't happen to a dog. She takes biology but hates cutting up frogs. You know a fellow from Newark, and that's in New Jersey. Ad infinitum.

Being a spender of considerable proportion, you go to the movies. After the newsreel and a few Fitzpatrick travelogues, you find two seats together, and you say all the things you said in the car all over again. After the show, you see the girl in the light again and decide to shoot the rest of your roll, suggesting that perhaps she is hungry. (Now wasn't that a silly question?) Soon you are face to face

Shadowing The Substance

By Gordon Daggy

Ah, now for the finer things in life. Being an ardent admirer of the Fine Arts, this Weekly rover subjected himself to the third act of the Mask and Dagger's forthcoming production, Shadow and Substance, last Monday nite. The Science Auditorium is excellent environment for "Shadows" and the "Substance" was provided by the cast.

Muhlenberg's fair campus will be blessed by a wee bit of Blarney on May 30 and 31 when the local talent will dominate the limelight.

Under the experienced direction of Mr. Andrew "Erstwhile" Erskine, (currently prominent in the English department) rehearsal got into full swing Monday night. Mr. Erskine, reclining leisurely, with pipe in hand, breathed directions at the cast. The cast, in turn, responded with almost professional enactment of their respective parts. Thus Act III was brought to life.

Although I am unfamiliar with the general plot involved, I became well acquainted with several of the characters. Father Corr as portrayed by George Bannon and Canon as portrayed by Gerald Rogers are truly of Shamrock Substance. Literally "a wearing of the green."

The cast is graced by the feminine touch in the form of Miss Ann Kreitz, Eleanor Sabo, Dorothy Oyer and Ann Hurdell all of whom connected with the Civic Little Theater. The play seems to be shaping up quite nicely.

Alumni Memo

By John Wagner, Alumni Secretary

I have just finished writing letter Number 87 which is going out to approximately 800 men in service. These letters have gone out to Muhlenberg men in the armed forces since the beginning of the war, and has carried bits of information about these men, their activities, and news of the campus and home, for the College is, and always will be, your collegiate home.

The Alumni are proud of their college and they want to be proud of you. To them, their collegiate home is a precious memory. To you, it is a living reality. Life in a home is what you make it. Treat your faculty, staff and fellow students as you would want to be treated by members of your own family. Life will be finer and fuller for everyone if all of us consider these facts.

College Adds Sociology Professor To Faculty; To Assume Position In July

Dr. Levering Tyson has announced the appointment of Dr. Morris S. Greth, Professor of Sociology, to the Muhlenberg faculty, as of the July 1, semester. Dr. Greth resigned last week from Albright College to return to Muhlenberg, his Alma Mater. He graduated in the class of 1922.

After graduating from Muhlenberg College, Dr. Greth continued his education at Mount Airy Lutheran Theological Seminary, where he received his bachelor of divinity degree. While attending the seminary, he also worked for his master of arts degree at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1930, the University of Pennsylvania granted him the degree of doctor of philosophy. Since this time, he has taken post-doctorate work, also at U. of P.

Dr. Greth's social attainments have also been many, including director of guidance and christian education institutes, chairman of organizations concerning community relations and religious education and membership in many sociological societies. He is also affiliated with many other local social or welfare societies in Reading. Another attainment was becoming principal of Alexandria High School, and the town's supervising principal.

Upon graduating from Mount Airy Lutheran Theological Seminary, Dr. Greth was ordained by the Ministerium of Pennsylvania, in 1925. For the following six years he was pastor at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, West Collingswood, New Jersey.

In 1930 Dr. Greth became a member of the Albright faculty, as professor of philosophy and sociology. There he became chairman of division of social studies.

DR. MORRIS S. GRETH

It is quite evident that Dr. Greth was apparently well liked, in view of the editorial published by the Albright campus newspaper, when his resignation was announced. They commended him as one of the best professors and finest persons ever associated with Albright College.

While a member of the Albright College faculty, Dr. Greth has had published many books on social problems, including those on crime, education, and permanent peace.

Weller Troth Highlights ATO House Party

The gala Friday night formal of the ATO house party was highlighted when Bob Kroll stepped to the microphone and announced the engagement of Christel N. Burley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Niemeyer of East Orange, N. J. to the fraternity's president, Walter W. Weller, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Weller also of East Orange.

The bride-elect was graduated from East Orange High School and the University of North Carolina. She is now employed by the Bar Association of New York City.

Weller was also graduated from East Orange High. He had attended Muhlenberg before he entered the Army Air forces in February, 1943; he served until October, 1945. Weller is a senior in the business course and is president of Phi Alpha Theta, honorary historical fraternity; he is active in the "M" club, Cardinal Key society and is a member of the varsity tennis team.

More than 125 guests, members, and alumni attended the annual spring formal at which Lou Anthony and his orchestra provided both dreamy music and some novel entertaining surprises. Saturday afternoon a picnic was held at Schroyer's Barn, Trexlertown, and in the evening an informal dance was held at the house.

An interesting note concerning the affair was the presence of 1st Lieutenant Arlene Chabott, who set a precedent by coming all the way from Daytona, Florida, just to be on hand for the house party. Lt. Chabott was the guest of Mike Fidorak.

Hassler Speaker At AKA Founders Day

The Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, held a joint Doggy Roast with the chapter at Cedar Crest College on Thursday, May 16 at 6:30 in Cedar Park. The event was held in conjunction with Founder's Day.

The following brothers from the Muhlenberg chapter presented a panel discussion on "The Philosophy of a Soldier": Paul R. Kramer, Frank DePierro, and Foster J. Blair. An enjoyable time was had by all.

An initiation will be held on May 23 in the Haas Room in the Library.

The Alumni of Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha had a banquet on Tuesday, May 14 at the American Hotel in Bethlehem. The speaker for the evening was Dean Hassler, who is Dean at Moravian College for Men. He is also head of their Science department. Dean Hassler spoke on new scientific ideas in the world today. His thesis was education as opposed to an annihilation. He said that education would solve the problem of today, although it will be a slow process. Dean Hassler stated that we need more money for education and research, not only in scientific fields, but in all fields including Philosophy and Sociology. Dean Hassler also pointed out that the place where we must start education is with ourselves—educate self wisely.

The highlights of the business meeting was the election of Paul Schlenker as president. The annual convention which was scheduled for May was postponed until fall, because of certain undisclosed difficulties.

Pre-Theos Hear Dr. Fry At Synod

Visiting the Synod of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania on Wednesday, May 15, held at Buckhill Falls, members of the John A. W. Haas Pre-Theological Club heard a stirring address by Dr. Franklin C. Fry, President of the United Lutheran Church in America. Speaking in the afternoon session, Dr. Fry emphasized the stakes of the church throughout the world and the part members of the Ministerium can and must play.

Club members from the college attended parts of the morning and afternoon sessions. Although portions of the meetings were closed sessions, students heard various committee reports in addition to Dr. Fry's address.

The morning and afternoon sessions were opened by devotions, under the direction of Dr. Seaman, the convention chaplain. The convention was behind schedule in considering its business. Among the various reports presented on Wednesday were those of the church homes at Topton, Ambler, Allentown, and the Mary J. Drexel Home. In the afternoon recognition was extended to chaplains who had served in the armed forces throughout the world.

Dr. Fry, in his address, pointed out the conditions that prevail throughout the European countries. Finland has lost her territories that contained most of her church orphanages, homes, and printing establishments. In Hungary many of the churches have been completely destroyed. Conditions in other foreign lands have been made clear in America in several reports.

"We are accustomed to think of three leading nations in the world." England considers herself to be a Christian nation; America professes Christianity, while Russia has openly opposed religion. Experts tell us England is on the decline and China is on the rise. "Within twenty-five years we may find ourselves faced for the first time with a situation wherein only one of the leading nations calls itself Christian."

China, however, Dr. Fry stated, offers amazing opportunities. Under the Christian leaders of the nation, great progress is possible. During the war missionaries had to leave their posts, and yet in their absence several churches became self-sustaining. Thus the church is faced not only with great duties but even greater opportunities.

After showing these conditions Dr. Fry discussed the duties of the ministerium in meeting the problem. In concluding the talk he asked that the church not only continue its growth but accelerate it, to keep pace with the increased demand of the day.

"Salesmanship Plus" Set For Wednesday Night In West Hall

Featuring some of the East's best salesmen and humorists, "Salesmanship Plus," a two hour comedy-instruction program, will be unveiled for the first time on Wednesday evening, May 22, at 8 o'clock, in Muhlenberg's West Hall Auditorium. All members of the student body, who are invited free of charge, are to check their opinion of the show on cards that will be provided. Partially evolved in college public speaking classes, "Salesmanship Plus" is being presented through the efforts of Mr. Robert P. Mills, Allentown business man. Featured speaker is Con McCole, Mayor of Wilkes-Barre.

Miss H. E. Clayton, Former WAC, Starts Duties as Dietician

Miss Anne Mulcaster, who left Muhlenberg campus last Wednesday, has been replaced by Miss Hannah E. Clayton. Miss Clayton, a native of Glenside, Pennsylvania, graduated from Drexel Institute of Technology in '38. After that, she held various positions until she enlisted in the Army in 1942.

Her Army duties consisted of preparing diets at the station hospital, Boston, Port of Embarkation, where she was chief dietician. She has been discharged recently, holding the rank of First Lieutenant. She had been on terminal leave since the beginning of the year.

Miss Anne Mulcaster, Muhlenberg Commons former dietician, has served since 1922. While under her management the commons had been greatly enlarged. She has been commended by the Navy department for her excellent work in feeding the Navy.

Forensic Tourney Nearing Finals

Frank Falcone and Frank Guiliana advanced to the final round of the Forensic Council Spring Intramural Debate Tournament by virtue of their victory over Don Miller and Jack Millinger last Monday evening. The judges, Dr. Russell W. Stine and Mr. C. W. Wottring, unanimously decided that Falcone and Guiliana refuted a strong affirmative argument.

Falcone and Guiliana will now meet the winner of this coming Monday night's semi-final round on Monday, May 27. In the semi-final round, scheduled for this Monday night, May 20, in the West Hall Auditorium, a team from the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity will encounter Fred Johnson and Jack Laughner, winners of the first debate. Dr. Victor L. Johnson and Mr. Kingsbury Badger will be the judges for this debate. The tournament question, "Resolved, The Congress of the United States should Enact Legislation Requiring one year of Military Training for all able-bodied male citizens," will be used with Johnson and Laughner presenting the affirmative case and the A.T.O. Fraternity presenting the negative side.

At the final debate of the 1945-46 season of the Lehigh Valley Intercollegiate Debating League, Thursday, May 16, Ernest Hoh sided with Lucille Eddinger of Moravian College for Women to present the negative side of the price control question against the representatives of Cedar Crest College and Lehigh University who advocated the continuation of price control. Paul Desegregan was the chairman of this debate which was run under the Oregon style. There was no decision. The debate ended the varsity debating activity of this season by the Muhlenberg Forensic Council.

"Salesmanship Plus" is part of a training course in the art of selling constructed under Mills' direction. A commercial venture, it offers a complete course in this field, either in a series of shows like this or a concentrated set of lectures. Because many of the instructors are nationally known salesmen and humorists, the production manages to mix fun with education in an amazing way.

In addition to four star salesmen, the program at West Hall will also include a movie. The purpose in presenting "Salesmanship Plus" is to have a try-out in front of a critical audience before the production takes to the road. Students will be asked to check their reaction to the show on printed cards: very good, good, average, fair, poor.

Heading the cast is one of America's top salesmen and humorists, Con McCole. One of the top ten life insurance salesmen in the United States for the past dozen years, he is known as "America's Number One Humorist." A nationally known figure, McCole is mayor of Wilkes-Barre, although not a politician. Recently he spoke at the banquet in Detroit honoring Bo MacMillan of Indiana as Football's "Coach of the Year." McCole also turned down an offer to appear in the Olsen and Johnson review, "Laffing Room Only," now playing in Philadelphia.

J. Carroll Cook will be another speaker on the program. A star football player while at Villanova, Cook has been a top salesmen in metal specialties.

Basing his talk on fifteen years' experience in salesmanship and sales training, Paul F. Dougherty will also take part in "Salesmanship Plus." During his career he has centered his work in the food field.

The creator of this training course, Robert P. Mills, is also to be on the program. Portions of the material were first presented and discussed in the course in Public Speaking, presented by Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the Committee Works On Constitution

The first meeting of the Post-War Planning Committee of the Student Body, held to revise the Student Body Constitution, took place in the Haas Room of the Library on Tuesday, May 14, at 1 o'clock. Chairman William Richards presented the recommendation of the faculty advisory committee, which consists of Dr. Doberstein, Dr. Swain, and Mr. Davidson, to the constitution committee.

Although only preliminary discussions were held at this meeting, actual work will take place tonight, at the home of committee member John Rogers.

The revision of the constitution will be completed before the end of the current semester. Any student who would like to suggest additions or changes in the constitution should see Chairman Richards or any committee member as soon as possible.

LOOK RECORD REVIEW

TOPS IN WAX—Tonsilectomy and Forgetful. Boyd Raeburn, the boy of the sensational band

now on the West Coast, has himself an instrumental holiday and a painless operation in Tonsilectomy. This side bears listening, it's a musician's musician type of recording, built around a "riff" reminiscent of Woody's "Goosey Gander." He features the band, there are few solos, all is handled in a relaxed and slow style and as modern as tomorrow! For the reverse, he has a vocal chorus by David Allyn, a competent singer who gives in a moderate and easy manner. Ben Pollack, the great Dixieland stylist and prexie of his own recording company, Jewel, turned out this winner. Your dealer can get this disc from Jewel's Hollywood plant.

VOCAL STANDOUT—Jo Stafford, who won most of the Nations vocal polls last year, adds the support of ork leader, Paul Weston, and turns out one of her best recording sessions. This time she produces a four 10-inch record album, titled, Songs By Jo Stafford and issued by Capitol. Four of the eight titles — Over The Rainbow, Yesterdays, Carry Me Back To Old Virginny and The Boy Next Door. Frank Sinatra's first album, also four plates, lists eight of the best tunes during the past ten years. Stordahl's orchestra, Columbia's release, and the title: The Voice Of Frank Sinatra.

COLLECTORS' JAZZ—On Blue Note: The Sheik Of Araby and Conversing In Blue. These sides feature Benny Morton's All Stars—the trombone of Benny Morton; Barney Bigard's clarinet, Ben Webster on tenor; Sammy Benskin, piano; Israel Crosby, bass; and Eddie Dougherty, drums. The first side is done in a fast tempo, strictly hot jazz, with practically every instrument participating in solos. On the reverse Webster and Bigard are featured in a Chicago Blues style.

DANCE DISCS — Wild Root and Atlanta, G. A. Woody Herman and the Herd make a frantic, emotional, and a very fine side named after their hair goo sponsors, which, by the way, proved to be one of their top "head" tunes for air shows and theatres. Wild Root drives hard through-out, and it features the tenor of "Flip" Phillips and tram of Bill Harris. The climax builds up to Pete Candoli's wild riffs in his upper trumpet register. On the reverse Woody sings, the band supports fully, although done in a moderate bounce tempo, and again Pete Candoli features, but in a Gillespie style improvisation (Columbia).

Woody Herman

Victor debuts the new Glenn Miller band with Tex Beneke in a production of two extra special records—Swing Low Sweet Chariot and I'm Headin' For California; and It Couldn't Be True and One More Tomorrow. Highlights: California is one of the last compositions that Glenn wrote, therefore valuable from a collector's viewpoint; Tex, supported by the Crew Chiefs, handles the vocals. On Swing Low, Tex's tenor sax is heard, and also a muted trumpet chorus. Couldn't Be True moves at a lively pace with Tex and the Crew handling the vocals. The last side effectively shows off the voice of Artie Malvin. These discs plainly show the Miller band still up at the top.

CONTEST NEWS!

School and College Dance Bands have been polishing up their grooviest riffs and trills to compete for the LOOK Amateur Swing Band trophies. Eliminations are being held NOW for the big Finals in New York, where Name-Band leaders and musicians will present special awards. THE MUHLENBERG WEEKLY

By Art Peters

MAJOR FLOYD SCHWARTZ-WALDER beamed with joy when CHESTER MAKOID checked in at the athletic office this week and disclosed that he will re-enter school in September. As a V-12 Navy student here during the 1944 grid season, cheerful Chester played a lot of touchdown-pass-catching end for 'Berg's football team. The SWEDESBURG, PA., native tips the scales at 210 pounds and is six feet two inches tall.

Roses of the Week—Our mythical hat goes off this week to SANDY ERSNER, varsity soccer performer at MUHLENBERG in recent campaigns. Sandy, who completed his undergraduate work in February and will be a member of the June graduate class, handed over one hundred dollars to MUHLENBERG as his pledge for the MUHLENBERG COLLEGE ALUMNI FIELD HOUSE FUND, the highest individual pledge in the recent student campaign. We know Sandy would object to our publicly airing his pledge, but we feel that it is emblematic of his devotion to MUHLENBERG and should be revealed so that students and alumni realize just how much interest an undergraduate can have in his alma mater.

COACH FRANK LOUGH and his diamond crew have taken to the road in a big way. After making their way to Swarthmore last Saturday, they came back and traveled to PENN STATE on Wednesday. This afternoon they will launch a two-day road trip, appearing at GETTYSBURG today and FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL tomorrow. Continuing their jaunts, next week they will perform at TEMPLE and BUCKNELL. The Mules will wind up this long away-game string on Wednesday, May 29th, when they go to PRINCETON. In playing seven away-games in a row the boys will be covering plenty of territory.

Letter of the Week—

"How about giving the men who are not on the tennis team a suitable place to bat around a few balls now and then. The all-weather court is excellent, but it is only one. Why not fix up the clay courts so that they can be used? It seems foolish to let these courts go un-used when there are so many men who would like to play tennis, but can't because of the lack of usable courts."

A Student

According to Director of Athletics Gurney Afferbach, the courts are now in the process of being put into good condition. Work on the courts has been held up because of the lack of rain in recent weeks, the dryness making smooth rolling of the clay surface impossible. Work is now going on, and the courts should be available in the very near future.

Penn State Nine Noses Out Muhlenberg, 2-1

The Nittany Lions of Penn State College on Wednesday bunched three hits off Muhlenberg hurler Cliff Kindred in the fifth inning of a game played at State College to score two runs and squeeze by with a close 2 to 1 decision over the Mules.

Yount of Penn State went the route, giving up but four hits. Kindred, also pitching excellent ball all the way, limited the Lions to five hits.

The Mules' tally came in the fourth frame when Al Stein got on with a walk, went to second as Becker went to first on an error by Kurowski, took third on an infield out and scored on a passed ball.

The only extra-base blow of the ball game was a double punched out by Mule first baseman Bibighaus.

The Mules played errorless ball and executed one double play, Dean to Bibighaus.

Many Top Teams To Meet 'Berg Wrestlers In '47

While the time of year when Muhlenberg wrestlers take to the mats is a far way off, nevertheless, interest in the sport of grunts and groans was somewhat renewed this week with the release of the schedule which the Cardinal and Grey matmen will undertake in 1947.

Bookings with eight schools, including sessions with such powerhouses as Navy, Lehigh, Temple, Lafayette and Brooklyn Poly, have been made. Also on the agenda for the Mule wrestlers will be the annual Middle Atlantic States Conference competition, which this year will be staged at Rutgers on March 7 and 8.

An inexperienced Muhlenberg team strove unsuccessfully through six matches last season, but a decided improvement is predicted for next year. Lehigh, Navy and Swarthmore were met last season and have again been included on the schedule.

The 1947 schedule is as follows:

Jan. 8—Lehigh	Home
Jan. 10—Swarthmore	Away
Jan. 17—Brooklyn Poly	Away
Jan. 25—Temple	Away
Feb. 1—Navy	Away
Feb. 8—Gettysburg	Home

RUTGERS CAPTURES MIDDLE ATLANTIC TRACK CROWN

By Herb Needleman

In the 34th annual meeting of the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Track and Field Championships at Franklin and Marshall's Williamson Field last Saturday, Rutgers University made a substantial bid toward permanent possession of the sterling silver championship trophy by outpointing Swarthmore, last years victor, and a field of 17 other colleges.

Swarthmore Speed-Baller Sinks Mules

Finding the speedball offerings of Swarthmore's Willis a bit too much in the early innings, Muhlenberg's baseball team last Saturday succumbed to the Philadelphia suburbans 10 to 6 in a contest staged at Swarthmore.

Getting off to a flying start, Swarthmore got three runs across in the first inning and added another in the second to take a 4 to 0 lead.

While the Mules touched Willis for a run in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, Swarthmore added another tally in both the fifth and sixth to maintain a 6 to 3 edge.

A Muhlenberg rally in the seventh tied the game at 6 to 6, but Swarthmore taking advantage of some loose Mule fielding, came back in their half of the frame and scored four runs.

Willis gave up seven hits, while Baldwin, Myers and Kindred collectively were touched for 14 safeties.

OLD RIVALS

Tomorrow Bud Barker's track squad will travel to Temple Stadium to meet the Owl thin-clads in a dual meet. The Mules who hope to be on the rebound after placing eighth in the Middle Atlantic States championship last Saturday, will attempt to revenge in part the defeat which Muhlenberg received at the hands of Temple on the basketball court last season.

Rain Halts Tennis Team's Activities

For the third straight Saturday, Muhlenberg's tennis team has had its weekend matches rained out. The week has now played only two contests of the first five scheduled, the first of which was dropped to Swarthmore and the second resulting in a victory over Haverford.

There is still a possibility that some of the matches which were rained out may be rescheduled. However, there have not yet been any new dates set.

Tomorrow the netmen are scheduled to travel to Baltimore for a match against Johns Hopkins, and on Wednesday the squad is to tangle with Lehigh in Bethlehem.

Greek Play Subject At Eta Sigma Phi

Last evening the Muhlenberg chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, National Classical Languages fraternity, met at the college. Feature of the meeting was a discussion of the forthcoming Greek play at Cedar Crest.

A brief business meeting was held with President Jack Reumann presiding.

Dr. Edward J. Fluck, of the Classical Languages Department, summarized the plot of the play, Euripides' "Electra," which students will see at Cedar Crest at the end of May. Following his presentation, brothers discussed the Greek drama in general, its scope and applications.

The chapter, in addition to attending the play at Cedar Crest, will meet next month. Place and time details will be announced later.

The company will pay all major expenses, including transportation to and from the college, but the student will have to defray his own personal expenses. For this reason, it is preferable that the applicant's financial circumstances would permit the continuance of his college education if he had not received their scholarship.

Any student who accepts one of these scholarships commits himself to at least four years with the Johns-Manville Corp., 2 at college, and 2 at his home office.

Upon interviewing Mr. Erskine, his only comment was, "The most serious difficulty involved in the production of this play is the discouraging job of instructing Dutchmen to speak with Irish accents." I sincerely hope the cast no offense will take, after all, this is Ahllentoon. Is das nict or something.

"Shadow and Substance" will be enjoyed by all, young and old, fat and thin.

The Mules' pitching is good and the hitting is improving so that they, minus their sloppy technique as shown against N.Y.U. and Swarthmore, should be a hard club to beat from here on out.

Rushmore, freshman pre-dental student from Scranton, Pa., who served thirteen months in the Mediterranean theatre with the Army Forces, was elected president, and Richard Bieber, sophomore pre-theological student from Mt. Penn, Pa., who is well known as an attendant in the Carnegie Record Library, was chosen secretary-treasurer. Both Mr. Rushmore and Mr. Bieber have had invaluable experience in working with church groups of young people.

The officers emphasized that co-operation of a large number of students is essential to the success of Christian activities on the campus. "Undoubtedly, many of you feel a need for Christian fellowship here," said Mr. Rushmore. "Come out to the meetings; nothing that you say will be held against you!"

now existing, which allows peremptory nationalism to run the gamut, or the nation that has thrice run this gamut will rise again and outstrip all powers. We must dissolve all zones, and set up one unified command of all controlling powers.

Not until this situation is settled can any peace treaty be concluded. If the foreign ministers had come to the conference with a feeling that progress was being made by their respective countries within Germany toward the eventual conclusion of a peace treaty with that country; then I think, all this rangling could have been reduced to a minimum.

The toxin of January, 1919, is sounding. Either it is heeded, or Germany's defeat may be her victory again.

SPRING PLAY THURSDAY & FRIDAY

Huge Clothing Drive Set For June 3rd-14th

Worlds Needy To Benefit As Dr. Tyson Endorses Campaign

An intensive campaign to collect used clothing to be sent to the suffering peoples of Europe will be staged on the campus of Muhlenberg College from June 3 to June 14, it was announced this week by a committee of the Muhlenberg Christian Association.

An enthusiastic group of ten workers met last Friday night to lay plans for a drive that, it is hoped, will reach into the trunks wardrobes, and closets of every member of the Muhlenberg community.

Huge quantities, of shoes, shirts, suits, underclothes, gloves, overcoats, blankets and other warm garments must be gathered here immediately if millions of stricken French, Belgian, Norwegian, and German men, women, and children are not to perish from cold and disease next winter.

The committee is confident that few students will have to be convinced of the necessity and worth of this project, especially not those ex-servicemen who have actually witnessed and can testify to the desperation of the situation in Europe.

DR. LEVERING TYSON, PRESIDENT OF THE COLLEGE, SAID IN A SPECIAL INTERVIEW, "I SHOULD LIKE TO COMMEND MOST HEARTILY THE DRIVE TO COLLECT USED CLOTHING WHICH THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION PLANS TO CONDUCT ON OUR CAMPUS. AS CHRISTIANS AND AS AMERICANS, WE HAVE A TREMENDOUS RESPONSIBILITY TO FULFILL, FOR THE NEED FOR FOOD, CLOTHING, AND SHELTER IN EUROPE IS TRULY APPALLING. I ASSURE YOU THAT THE COLLEGE WILL BACK THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE DRIVE TO THE UTMOST. I HOPE THAT EVERY STUDENT AND FACULTY MEMBER WILL TAKE THIS APPEAL AS A PERSONAL CHALLENGE. LET US PROVE THAT WE HERE AT MUHLENBERG REALLY CARE FOR OUR SUFFERING BROTHERS."

Although it is true that most students who live in dormitories or fraternity houses have here only sufficient clothing for daily use, the three week-ends remaining

Fraternity Ball Saturday Night

Final arrangements have been made for the Inter-Fraternity Council formal ball to be held at the Americus Hotel on Saturday, May 25.

This highlight of inter-fraternity social life is expected to attract a large crowd. Members of any social fraternity are invited to attend. Those members of social fraternities not represented on this campus should get their tickets at the door.

Jack Bohlen and his orchestra will provide music from 9 to midnight. The dance will be chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Keck, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Keller, and Dr. and Mrs. Victor L. Johnson.

Outing Date Set By German Club

At the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Deutscher Verein on Monday, May 20, President Jack Reumann revealed that the annual Ausflug will take place on June 3. The Ausflug, traditional picnic and outing of the German Club, will be held in one of Allentown's city parks in the afternoon and evening of that day. Softball and other games, a German song-fest, and a weenie-roast will feature the occasion.

Dr. Preston A. Barba presented an enlightening and enjoyable lecture on the architecture of Germany in the middle ages, renaissance, and modern periods. His talk was accompanied by slides, both colored and black and white. Dr. Barba showed how the Romanesque style of architecture, popular in the middle ages, gave way to the Gothic, Baroque, and Rococo.

M.C.A. Postpones Panel Discussion

The panel discussion on the subject "The Ex-G.I. Looks at Christianity and the Church" has been postponed until next Wednesday's meeting of the Muhlenberg Christian Association. Walter Keim, Lewis Moore, and Hammond Revere will participate; all students and faculty members are cordially invited.

In the meeting held Friday evening last the West Hall Auditorium, newly elected President Richard Rushmore pointing out to all Christians, declared, "This is your organization, Christians of Muhlenberg College! It is designed to meet your needs, and it needs your help in planning a worthwhile program and in rendering effective Christian service on the campus. The M. C. A. is by no means for pre-theological students alone. The organization asks you to GIVE IT A TRY!"

Co-producers' Morris And Graham Shape "Time Out" Farce

Under the leadership of Morris and Graham, the "M" Club extravaganza goes into its final stage of perfection. Such scenes as the shooting of Dangerous Dan McGrew, with Craig (the Prince) Dorward drinking his rum with the best of them, and Phil (Bay Window) Mitterling as Lou, need only the final costumes to give them the finishing touches.

George (Shake it) Sweda proves himself to be the best Hubba Hubba dancer in the Harem, as he displays his hip-shaking talent before the high and mighty Rajah, Diz Dean.

Tuss (Tarzen) Becker shows off his physical powers in the famous strong man act. His protruding stomach (excuse us Tuss) Chest should give the ladies quite a thrill. Don't forget your girdle, Tuss!

The music of Jim Gross on the ivories, and Charlie (Harry James) Markley on the Trumpet (by the way, their last appearance in the east) furnish the necessary music, or what have you, for the production.

Students are reminded to purchase their tickets early if they expect to gain admission to the production. There will be no reproduction of the show. Tickets can be purchased at the athletic office, Kenny Konrad's Klassy Kollege Kommissary, or the Rosemark.

Forensic Finals Monday Night

Fred Johnson and Jack Laughner advanced to the final round of the Forensic Council Spring Intramural Debate Tournament. Having defeated the strong A.T.O. team of Wallace Worth and Ed Sullivan, they must now meet Frank Falcone and Frank Guilianna to decide the tournament winners.

This battle of wits is to take place Monday evening, May 27, at 7:30 in the West Hall auditorium. Dr. John Brown and Dr. James Swain will judge the debate.

The question: "Resolved, that the Congress of the United States Should Enact Legislation Requiring One Year of Military Training for all able bodied male Citizens", will be used. Johnson and Laughner will present the affirmative case. Falcone and Guilianna will attempt to refute their arguments.

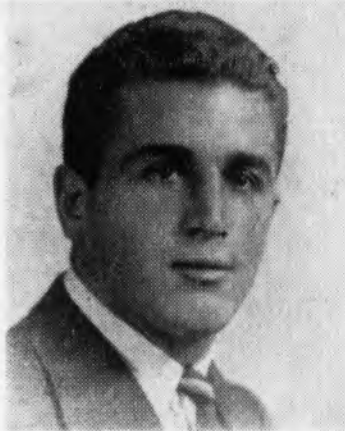

The doors will be open to all. There will be no charge. Students and faculty members are especially urged to attend.

Last Monday's verbal fisticuffs was the second victory for Johnson and Laughner. They had previously defeated Herbert Garber and Dick Rau. Sullivan and Worth, who had drawn a bye in the first round, gave the winners an interesting and tough battle. The competition was so keen, the judges, Dr. Johnson and Mr. Badger, were forced to make a very close decision.

Following the debate, Mr. Philip Bollier, coach of debate, conducted a brief debate clinic for the benefit of the evening's participants.

Cast Ready To Present "Shadow and Substance"

Putting the finishing touches to their Spring production during final rehearsals this coming week, the Mask and Dagger Club cast of "Shadow and Substance" is eagerly awaiting their Thursday night opening. Curtain time is 8:15 in the College Little Theater in the Science Building, and the play will be repeated on Friday evening at the same time. Admission is free to all students by presentation of their activities card at the door. Additional tickets for guests may be purchased at the door for sixty cents.

NORMAN MORRIS
Co-Producer of "Time Out"

All reports indicate an engaging evening's entertainment. At previous Mask and Dagger offerings the Friday evening audience has usually been the larger of the two. Students have been requested to aid in alleviating this situation by attending the Thursday night performance.

An excellent cast has been assembled to give the famous Irish play. Originally presented in London, "Shadow and Substance" took New York by storm when first given there several years ago and won numerous prizes. Briefly, the plot concerns a small town in Ireland where the local school-master has written a book condemning the Catholic church. The people of the village demand the burning of the book, and the Canon learns who the real author is. Although their differences are settled only after disastrous consequences, there is much humor throughout the play.

Heading the cast are several Mask and Dagger veterans. Gerald Rogers, a pre-theological student, will be seen as the Canon. A returned war veteran, who has been in many previous college plays, Harold Helfrich, is cast in the role of the schoolmaster. Female parts in the play are being filled by girls who were seen in the Civic Little Theater version of "Cry Havoc." Ann Kreitz is Brigid, the servant girl who sees visions. Other girls in the play are Eleanor Sabo, Dorothy Oyer, and Ann Hurdell.

Minor male castings include George Bannon as Father Corr, John Walters as Father Kirwan, Ernest H. Wallender as the hum-

Surrender Pictures For Assembly Hour

The program committee in accordance with its policy of bringing only the best in the way of entertainment has succeeded in scheduling Lieut. Commander Robert Morris for Memorial Day.

Lieut. Commander Robert Morris was attached to the British Pacific Fleet Combat Forces. They were then operating with the United States Pacific Fleet. Serving under Vice Admiral Sir H. Bernard Rawlings, he was responsible for communications.

He will present technicolor movies picturing the detailed proceedings of the signing of the peace treaty with Japan. The program should last about one hour.

Navy Sponsors Dance As V-12 Unit Shoves Off

Marking the end of a three year Navy Training program at Muhlenberg College, the Navy V-12 unit will sponsor a semi-formal Graduation Ball at Castle Gardens, Wednesday evening, June 12. Bud Rader and his Orchestra will provide the dance music. Admission is free.

The preparations for the dance are being carried on under the supervision of Lieutenant Commander T. T. Abel. The dance committee is headed by A/S Clarence Smith. Refreshments will be on sale inside at the dance. A special transportation committee is trying to secure the services of an Allentown bus company to provide extra transportation for that night.

This will be the last Navy dance at Muhlenberg, since the V-12 program will come to an end at the college with the close of this semester. In July of 1943 the Navy came on board at 'Berg. During and since the end of the war several thousand sailors and Marines received their training on the local campus. Some were awarded certificates upon finishing their work, while other blue jackets completed enough credits to be awarded a degree. Throughout the period many successful dances were held, and this last Ball promises to be no exception, according to the Committee.

Castle Gardens, located at Dorney Park, has always been a popular place for a dance, and this year's formal Graduation Ball will also take place there. The odd date, a Wednesday night, is made necessary by the pressure of activities and events as the semester draws to a close and the fact that final examinations begin on June 14. Bud Rader, whose orchestra will supply the music, is an old Muhlenberg favorite and will give smooth, dreamy music. Admission for all members of the Unit and all civilian students and their dates will be free.

At the beginning of this semester a student drive with the purpose of soliciting student aid in the building of the proposed Muhlenberg Field House, got under way.

During the campaign, the committee under whose guidance the drive was conducted, made a sincere effort to reach every student on the campus. And after approximately two months the campaign came to a close.

Just recently, word reached us that after final tabulations had been made, an amount of less than $700 was obtained. A breakdown of this sum further revealed that of the more than 550 students now enrolled, less than 100 students made any contribution whatsoever. Certainly this is not in the tradition of Muhlenberg.

But mere lament will get us nowhere. What we must have is action! And that can only be had by everyone who has not yet contributed his share toward the greatest field house in the state, to do so immediately. Indeed, there is still time. Nor does it matter whether your contribution is large or small. All contributions will be gladly accepted.

For any who are interested, and we certainly hope there will be many, pledge cards may be secured in the WEEKLY office, anytime until the close of the semester.

While no specific goal has been set, certainly we can get at least $1000. Surely we can count on you!

All In A Sailor's Life

By Johnson and Johnson

When we hit Allentown we really hit the lines. As far as we could see, Allentown was all right, but we didn't see it again for two weeks. In the meantime we were shown around Muhlenberg. Our first sight of Muhlenberg was the sick bay and more lines. We then formed in lines called platoons. Later, when we were reading over the station orders, many fellows were wondering about that tattoo at 2225, and worrying about when 2225 was. One of the fellows was trying to find what the difference between the head and the bulk-head was. He soon found out.

When we were issued our uniforms, they really fit in a big way. For instance, one of the fellows tried his on, and we didn't see him again for two days. Classes began and the third deck of B house pooled their resources and subscribed for a Greek correspondence course to find out what the profs were saying. As time went on, we were even able to take some notes. Current rumor has it that fourteen fellows have already written to Mr. Anthony. We were now realizing that in order to get grades, hard, diligent work was required. The professors were very helpful in acclimating us to college life, and soon we began to feel the spirit of Muhlenberg working within us. We were working for something, and Muhlenberg was behind us.

Then we received our first leave in Allentown, and you could tell those swabbies a mile off. One had just saluted a policeman, and another while standing in the square was trying to find out where Hamilton Street was. But the people were very considerate and obliging. Everyone tried to acquaint you with the town as best he could. When chow-time came, everyone was trying to find his way back to Muhlenberg and the stories really began to flow. One fellow said he was invited to dinner by a beautiful blonde whose little brother wanted to learn how to fly. All in all, we were "old salts" now. We had landed at Allentown and bases were being established.

The Philadelphia Story - - -

By Herb Needleman

Ever since the day I did tricks with my toggle-switch knee for the Ziegfelds of Ye Olde Draft Board, thereby earning the right to mix the colors of my pants and jackets, and enlisted—oops—enrolled in the sacred halls of learning of which you, lucky reader, are now a member, all I've heard concerning the other sex (There is one fellow) has been "Cedar Crest—Cedar Crest", just like the Atchison, Topeka, and Bromo Seltzer.

Just last week I'm rushing up to my mailbox, taking out the WEEKLY, opening to the second page hoping to get the latest dope on Japanese Cultural History, when I'm finding (horror!) An article advising the frosh on dating the femmes from over where the smoke stack grows. Now fellows, that ain't the Mack Plant; that's (awed whisper) Cedar Crest.

After extensive research on the subject, I can let you caballeros in on the straight dope. Here's the word: There are other women. Take Philly for instance.

Philadelphia is a historic city. It got its start way back in old England when King-----? found himself with an excess profits tax bill too big to write a check for. Being a generous slob, and having already hocked his royal crown for an Adams Hat, he gave audience to one Bill Penn and deeded to him Sylvania.

—But to get on with the subject at hand. Philadelphia is now a sprawling metropolis, rising like a grey ghost out of the plains of Southwest Pennsylvania. And it is there we find the Pot of Gold; in part an abundance of pots—which is the subject at hand.

To illustrate my point, take the case of a young gate, in search of romance, who has a date with the imported stuff, as Kenny would call it, that a buddy-buddy dug up for him. Boarding the only sixty mile roller coaster in the states, our hero hotbeats it to Phillie and steps out of the 69th St. station just as the sun's setting, feeling like two hot discs in Harlem.

Hailing a cab, our boy rides a la comfort towards his gal's house. They soon reach their destination—which lessens the bulge in Joe's hip-pocket—and he steps out into the hastening dark.

Slipping his shoulders back into place, and spit polishing his fraternity pin for the last time, he wades through the ash-cans up to his date's front door. Our hero knocks and slowly the door opens. (To be continued next week)

On Sources Of Hymns

By Eugene Harmony

Many of the most familiar themes from the great symphonies, oratorios, and operas, in addition to being beautiful in themselves, serve also as sources for many of our most familiar hymns that are common property of all denominations of the Christian church.

Most of you know the great Christian hymn, "Joy to the World," but how many of you know from what it is taken? The first strain is from the chorus, "Lift Up Your Heads" in the "Messiah," while the second strain is an adaptation of the tenor solo, "Comfort Ye My People" from the same oratorio by Handel.

From the final movement of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony is taken the musical setting for the hymn, "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee," which is itself an adaptation of the "Ode to Joy" by Dr. Henry Van Slyke, former professor of English Literature at Princeton University.

Another hymn is a combination of the author of the "Spectator" essays, Joseph Addison, and the composer of the "Surprise Symphony" and the "Creation," Joseph Haydn. The hymn is known by its first line, "The spacious firmament on high," the title of a poem which Addison wrote as a paraphrase of Psalm 19:1-6: "The heavens declare the glory of God." The music is a setting of the chorus from the "Creation," "The Heavens Are Telling."

The hymn tune, Canonbury, "Lord, Speak to me that I may speak," is an arrangement of "Nachtstück for Violin" by Robert Schumann. The words are from the pen of Francis Havergal, who when he wrote them was thinking of Deuteronomy 6:6-7: "These words, which I command thee this day; shall be upon thy heart."

Felix Mendelssohn, composer of the famous "Songs without Words," arranged one of these songs, "Consolation," so that it could be used as the setting for a psalm. In later years a great American poet, John Greenleaf Whittier, wrote a set of lyrics, using as his theme Isaiah 30:15, "For thus said the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel, in returning and rest shall ye be saved, in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength." The hymn is "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind."

"Forgive our feverish ways, Reclothe us in our rightful mind; In purer lives thy service find, In deeper reverence, praise."

... The Awful Truth ...

By Mike Rogers

Opening of Dorney Park was the big event of recent times, and the "Mules" were out in full array. Notable among them was Al Saemmer checking the amusements, or wasn't she amusing-Al???? The Auto races attracted many notables, and I use the term lightly as Morris, Sweda, Gorgone and Podany were about . . .

Note the tonsorial artistry displayed by the fashion plate Jim Gross; whatta clippin' . . . And speaking of clippin' you should have seen "Domestic" Glace clip minutes off the driving time around the Allentown Hospital. She said she had to stay in that night and the guy that he saw her on yon corner . . . Rain or shine, snow or sleet, the mail must go thru, and so Steve Sivcho is never at a loss without his trusty sun specs. They do add that continental flavor . . .

Among the visitors was Bill Burr and gal from Jersey. Wensel was in the V-12 unit here after bangin' around the old Atlantic for quite a spell . . . Wally Hunter making with the pen and telling how he will be back in July for the "Slumber" session . . . Dick Geissler talking the situation over with Haps and that can mean but one thing. Dick was around with Mary Lou Schlechter, now what can that mean????

Several inquiries about the mail room set-up in the Ad building have come our way. Seems to be awfully crowded around those parts and we must admit that we have been guilty of the offense along with almost every one else on campus. But we do think it time that something be done to right the matter, and pronto!!! Ought to be all right to go in and get the mail, but those guys who sit around and moon over the sweet-nothings that the frau writes, and keep the other Joes from getting into the room, nix, nix. Too many in the room at one time and lotsa time if you have a letter, you can't tell after all the guys have been thru the pile a few times. Now whatsa matter and how can we fix??? Give us a few ideas of yours and we'll see what can be done . . .

Inter Frat brawl on tap for tomorrow night should be a real affair. The lovely ladies will all be on hand and their dates will all be on borrowed time and cash. Tip will be on the look-see for Paul Markavage and his date that nice Roncolato lady, (that is worth look-seeing for you who haven't noticed). Also note Gordon Daggy and frau, nice team. If Joe Podany shows at the dance there is definitely something wrong with my information or is that a polite way of putting it Joe?? Wee birdie buzzed in with long tale about Mike Fidorack taking that "very sweet" gal, Bernice (Continued on Page Four)

Shadowing The Substance

By Gordon Daggy

'Twas a warm spring night
And all through the house
Nat a patron was snoring
Not even a louse.

The cast was all ready
For weeks been rehearsing
Their lines which they learned
Under direction of Erskine.

The curtain was drawn
The lights turned down low,
Silence; till someone cried
ON WITH THE SHOW!

My story ends here
I'll tell you no more,
See the play, dear reader,
And see what's in store.

By Art Peters

"Rain, rain go away—come back some other day, but not on another Saturday" might well be the sentiments of tennis coach JOHN SHANKWEILER. For the past four Saturdays the net mentor and his charges have been ready to go into action, and for the past four Saturdays the rains have frustrated their efforts.

Thus far the boys have vied with SWARTHMORE, HAVERFORD, and LEHIGH—all three matches were played on Wednesday dates.

The match with LAFAYETTE, rained-out on Saturday, April 27, has been re-scheduled for Saturday, June 8. GURNEY AFFLERBACH is attempting to re-schedule the DREXEL TECH and JOHNS HOPKINS contests, which were also washed-out.

VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY will again appear at ROCKNE HALL next year when the basketball season rolls around. Among the other top outfits to meet the MULES at ROCKNE HALL will be LONG ISLAND UNIVERSITY and TEMPLE. The MUHLENBERG cagers will also see action in MADISON SQUARE GARDEN and PHILADELPHIA'S CONVENTION HALL on doubleheader cards. They will also be among the teams to meet the UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA in the PENN PALESTRA in the Quaker City.

Release of the basketball schedule is being held up until the few remaining open dates are filled. GURNEY AFFLERBACH is making an effort to bring still another national favorite to the local court next year.

When BUD BARKER takes his cage prospects to ROCKNE HALL for spring drills, scheduled for June 10 to 15, a trio of ALLENTONIANS, DICK MCGEE, RED GRANER and KEN MOYER, will put their cage skills on display. A few years back, MCGEE was the sensation of Eastern Catholic basketball circles. Playing for CENTRAL CATHOLIC of ALLENTOWN he was an all-time high scorer for the local high school and was chosen most valuable player in several post-season Catholic tournaments. He also boasts a year of varsity experience with NOTRE DAME UNIVERSITY.

ALPHA TAU'S, EAST HALL LEAD IN INTRA-MURAL PLAY

Activity in the Intra-mural Softball League was resumed on Tuesday with the Navy Red nine walloping the victory-starved Navy Yellows, 11 to 5. Yellow errors and fourteen solid hits gave the Reds an easy victory.

In the other contest of the day, the high-flying A.T.O. squad trounced the Navy Whites 4 to 1. Three-time-winner Jim Leavitt gave up but five hits for the victors. The Whites had previously been riding on top of the league with an unbeaten record.

On Wednesday, Lambda Chi Alpha broke into the win column with a decisive 15 to 9 victory over the Navy Blue aggregation. The Lambda Chi's belted out fifteen safeties to upset the Blues, then in second place.

Rounding out Wednesday's schedule, East Hall nosed out West Hall 4 to 2 to extend its winning streak to three games. Although the Frosh outthit the East Hall team, their hits were well scattered. West Hall managed to put one run across in the last inning, but good pitching by Larry Delp and classy fielding squelched the potential rally.

On Thursday undefeated A.T.O. kept their record unmarred as they downed Lambda Chi 9 to 3. Leavitt was credited with victory number four.

The Navy Blues downed Phi Kappa Tau 13 to 10 in the other contest.

Games played Thursday of last week, whose scores did not reach the sports desk in time to be included in last week's WEEKLY, ended with East Hall defeating Lambda Chi, 17 to 4, and A.T.O. slashing Navy Blue, 15 to 5.

Late Inning Rally Nets Temple Win Over Mules

A big eighth inning, which saw Temple score five runs and break a 2 to 2 tie, was too much for Muhlenberg's Mules as they went down to their fifth loss of the season in Philadelphia on Wednesday. Once again it was too much faulty fielding on the part of the Mules, who now have five wins and a like number of defeats. Walt Busch went the route for the Mules and allowed ten hits, while his teammates collected seven, but errored six times.

'Breaks' May Give 'Berg M.A.S. Crown

By Sam Krouse

Probably the most important baseball struggle of the season is in store for Muhlenberg's nine when they travel to Lewisburg tomorrow to engage Bucknell's Bisons in a Middle Atlantic States League tussle, the outcome of which will just about wrap up the conference championship for either Muhlenberg, Bucknell, or Lafayette.

Even though the two teams do not meet again this year, Lafayette and the Mules are the two chief contenders for the crown. Each has lost but two games, and the Mules have won five and the Leopards have four wins in league competition. This game with Bucknell, a team that has lost only one league game, is a must for the Mules. Should Muhlenberg win it, they will have a better chance of emerging as champions than Lafayette, as the Leopards have more games to yet play. In fact, they engage Lehigh three more times this year, and should the Engineers win at least one of the tilts, the Mules would come out on top.

Coach Lough hasn't decided on a starting pitcher for tomorrow's game, but he'll be starting his best hurler, as he is especially anxious to win the championship this year. It would be a great credit to Lough to win the title in his first year at Muhlenberg.

"Hoss" is quite impressed and well-pleased with the playing of most of the boys on the club. He points out that "Diz" Dean, third baseman, is the most improved ball player on the squad. Saemmer at second base and Karobeinick, who has been catching since Lucas was hurt, are also bright spots in the Mule's infield. It is Pecking at each other for one run at a time in two of the early innings, the teams came into the last half of the eighth on an even keel, but before that half inning was over, the Owls had scored five runs to sew up the game. Rzepski started off with a triple, but Busch got the next two men out and it looked as if the Mules would get out of danger. But three hits, a walk, and three Mules' errors followed five runs came across the plate.

Busch Hurls Good Ball

Walt Busch pitched exceptional ball up to the eighth, scattering seven hits and stopping several Temple threats. His opponent, Papreves, did an equally good job against the Mules. His effectiveness showed up quite well in the ninth inning when the Mules made a bid to knot the score. A hit, an error, and fielder's choice put men on second and third, but Papreves bore down and got the next two men out.

Mules Score in 4th and 7th

The Mules got their two runs in the fourth and seventh innings. In the fourth, Henry opened with a single and scored when Bibighaus singled. Lucas was safe on an error, and Bibighaus went to third, but with only one out, the Owl's hurler pitched himself out of another hole. The Mules' final run came in the seventh on a passed ball which scored Schwob.

until the close of the drive will allow them to secure many articles at home. Commuting students can cover a wide area, even gathering clothing from friends and neighbors; indeed, the success or failure of the project will rest in their hands.

The urgency of the need is so very great, committee members suggested, that we should be expected not only to give those old trousers, jackets, hats, or coats that we no longer want, but actually to sacrifice something that we feel we really need.

Boxes will be placed in the lobby of the Administration Building, in the East Hall arcade, and in the foyer of West Hall. College trucks will transport the clothing to the warehouse of Lutheran World Relief, Inc., in Easton, Pa., from which it will be sent directly to Europe, to be used, of course, for relief of needy persons, regardless of creed.

Posters will be placed in prominent places throughout the college, an assembly program may be sponsored, and every effort will be made to contact personally a large number of students. For further information see any of the following committee members:

Engineers Drop Mules 9-0 In Tennis Match

Going to the Bethlehem Municipal Tennis Courts on Wednesday with a fifty-fifty record of one win and one loss, the Muhlenberg tennis team had their hopes of getting on to the black side of the ledger soundly shattered as they were handed a 9 to 0 trouncing by the netmen of Lehigh University.

The Engineers, playing a fire horse brand of tennis, romped victoriously through the entire card for a clean sweep. Thus far this season the Bethlehem crew has come out on top in five of its six matches, the lone defeat suffered at the hands of Bainbridge Navy.

Lehigh will meet the Shankweiler-tutored netmen again this campaign when the two teams grapple on June 5th at Oakmont Tennis Courts of this city.

The next match of the season for the Mules will be a contest with Bucknell at Lewisburg on Saturday, June 1.

Results:

Singles—Ed Mayer, Lehigh, defeated Bob Cerney, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 6-3; Ray Stauffer, Lehigh, defeated Walt Weller, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4; Bob Arnold, Lehigh, defeated Bill Klink, Muhlenberg, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1; Jack Mellinger, Lehigh, defeated Bob Ranken, Muhlenberg, 6-4, 6-3; John DeHuff, Lehigh, defeated Howard Haring, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-1; Bob Deyer, Lehigh, defeated Ernest Hoh, Muhlenberg, 6-0, 6-3.

Doubles—Mayer and Mellinger, Lehigh, defeated Cerney and Klink, Muhlenberg, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3; Stauffer and Arnold, Lehigh, defeated Weller and Ranken, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-1; DeHuff and Deyer, Lehigh, defeated Hank Moyer and Warren Bross, Muhlenberg, 6-4, 6-2.

expected that Lucas will soon return to his duties behind the plate, and Karobeinick will resume his former place in the infield. Old stand-bys like Becker, Bibighaus, and Stein are always there to give hitting strength to the club.

Muhlenberg's Mules are really tackling tough opponents on the baseball diamond these days. Not satisfied with playing Temple and Bucknell this week, the Mules will journey to Princeton next Wednesday to match odds with the high-flying Tigers. The Nassau boys are throwing out their chests, as last weekend they turned in a double win over highly-touted Cornell, and both games were shut-out wins at that. Princeton's hurlers were very impressive as one pitched a no-hitter and the other scattered three Cornell singles.

With the improved play of the Mules impressing everyone recently, this game should be of great interest to all and should be an excellent display of good baseball. "Hoss" Lough's team should make the going tough for the Tigers.

three seconds better than Temple's Hingston's winning time on Saturday.

Next week presents the last chance for the Mules to break into the winner's column, when they will travel to Easton to meet two strong clubs in Lafayette and Haverford. 'Berg will have to be in top form to take this meet, as both opponents made good showings in the Middle Atlantic Championships.

M.C.A. Will Show Film, "The Good Fight" In Assembly On Thursday

Monday, June 3, will mark the beginning of a concerted drive by the Muhlenberg Christian Association for the collection of used clothing to be sent to the destitute peoples of Europe.

Great quantities of clothing of all kinds, particularly shoes, must be collected in this country immediately in order to keep millions of stricken European men, women, and children from succumbing from cold and disease during the next winter.

Realizing that most of the students who live on the campus have here only enough clothing for their everyday use, the Clothing Drive Committee of the M.C.A. emphasized the fact that this weekend is the time for these students to collect as much clothing as they can at their homes.

Several steps have been taken to call further attention of the student body to the desperate needs of the people of Europe and to the value and necessity of the clothing drive. Posters have been placed in the Administration Building, West and East Halls, the Science Building, the library, and in the fraternity houses. Chaplain Doberstein announced the forthcoming drive in the chapel this week, with a plea for cooperation from the students and faculty. Also, in the assembly program on Thursday, Dr. Shankweiler will project the sound film, The Good Fight. This film, whose title is

Final Navy Dance Wednesday, June 12

To wind up a three year Navy Training program on the Muhlenberg campus, the Navy V-12 unit will sponsor a semi-formal Graduation Ball at Castle Gardens, Dorney Park, on Wednesday evening, June 12. The music for the dance will be provided by Bud Rader and his Orchestra. All civilian students of the college and all members of the Unit will be admitted free of charge.

Lieutenant Commander T. T. Abel is supervising preparations for the dance, and the committee for the dance is headed by A/S Clarence Smith. Refreshments will be on sale inside the dance.

Since the V-12 program will close at Muhlenberg at the end of this semester, this will be the last Navy dance held here.

The Navy has been on the campus since July 7, 1943. During the war, and since the end of hostilities, the local unit has trained several thousand marines and sailors, some of whom were given certi-

Shep Field's Orchestra To Play At Graduation Ball

Shep Fields, popular creator of "New Music," will bring his nationally famous band to Castle Garden for the Muhlenberg College Graduation Ball on Thursday evening, June 20, Paul Gesregan, Chairman of the Student Council Dance Committee, announced this week. Fields, who rose to musical fame by means of "Rippling Rhythm," is fronting a band that is tops in smooth dance music. Admission to the dance, which is formal, will be free to all students and all members of the Navy Unit. Price for other couples, including Alumni and friends, will be two dollars. Presented by the Music Corporation of America, the new Shep Fields Orchestra has within the past few years achieved nation-wide fame, playing at the various important hotels and theaters and night-clubs in the leading cities.

SHEP FIELDS

Billed as "the only band of its kind in the world," the Fields combination consists of nine saxophones and woodwinds with the usual rhythm section, piano, drums, and bass. At first it was considered a daring experiment to eliminate trumpets and trombones, but the overwhelming success of Shep Fields and his New Music has justified the move and given American dance music something thrillingly new.

In spite of the unique instrumentation, the Fields aggregation plays with terrific drive and presents startling color and blends, which are not possible with standard instrumentation. Fields has estimated that there are 3000 possible combinations possible with his new orchestra, as against several hundred in the usual dance band set-up.

The engagement of Shep Fields for the Graduation Ball follows a Muhlenberg tradition that aimed to secure the best nationally known bands for the event. In the past, such orchestras as those of Harry James and Tommy Dorsey have played at the Graduation Balls. During the war Vaughn

Shadow And Substance Scores Hit On Opening

GERALD ROGERS

Last night marked the opening of the latest Mask and Dagger club production, "Shadow and Substance." The auditorium of the Muhlenberg Science Building was well filled with many who enjoyed the efforts of the players.

The play was first produced at the Abbey Theatre in Dublin, Ireland in 1937. It deals with the doctrines of the Catholic Church as upheld by the dignified and unbending Canon who meets opposition in the person of Dermot O'Flingsley, the young free-thinking schoolmaster and writer of books ridiculing the Catholic Church. The play reaches its climax in the final act when Brigid, the Canon's maid is killed in a riot stirred up by the two priests, Father Kirwan and Father Corr, played by John Walters and George Bannon respectively.

Since the action takes place in a small Irish village, it was necessary for the characters to speak with an Irish brogue, which they did with much skill.

The performance was highlighted by the acting of Gerald Rogers as the Canon and of Harold Helfrich who plays the part of O'Flingsley the schoolmaster. Anna Kreitz does an excellent job as Brigid, the sweet but not too brilliant little maid with the vision.

Nominations For Student Council Seats June 4

On Tuesday, June 4, at 11:30 a.m., there will be an important Student Body meeting in the Science Auditorium in which nominations for next year's Student Body officers will be received. There are nine positions to be filled.

The election of the officers, held under the supervision of a committee consisting of present council members Richard Bergman, Foster Blair, Paul Gesregan, and Robert Oswald, will be held on Wednesday, June 12. The newly-elected officers will govern for one year, beginning in September.

Only those men who are now second semester Juniors or first semester Juniors are eligible for nomination. This is in accordance with the laws of the Pre-War Student Body Constitution which will govern the election, as the revised constitution will not be completed before the end of this semester.

There will be no official student council this summer, but any problems which would ordinarily be handled by the council will be referred to the council-elect.

The WEEKLY announced this week that it will welcome statements of policy from any nominee.

Ticket Sale Heavy For "M" Club Show

Returning from Philadelphia, directors Nelse Graham and Norm Morris announce that the costumes are all set and that final stage of the rehearsals are on the way, for the forthcoming production "Time Out".

Choruses are just about set and the specialty acts are getting readied. Becker, Sweda, Getz, Sweatlock, and other leading men are all set for the opening curtain.

Lighting and much of the staging of the show will be handled by the Mask and Dagger club of the College. Although the scenery is not complicated, there is much hurried changing to be done and skillful handling is required.

Jim Gross in charge of the music for the show will also present his aggregation as a part of the show both in the pit and also on the stage. The Glee Club will do many old college songs while the quartette of 'Berg men will do some rousing numbers.

Several times during the recent rehearsals the show had to be stopped in order that order might be restored with the onlookers laughter preventing the continuation. Assignments have been handed out for the property work and make-up. Misses Myn Fillman and Peggy Krause will take charge of the make-up.

President of the "M" Club, Joe Podany, recently returned from his honeymoon, announces that ticket sales indicate sell-outs for the entire three night performance. There are still some avail-

Debating Title To Independents

Defeating Frank Falcone and Frank Guiliana in the final round, Fred Johnson and Jack Laughner captured the Intramural Debating Tournament championship on Monday evening, May 27. The two judges, Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English Department, and Dr. James E. Swain, head of the Social Sciences Department, awarded the victory to Johnson and Laughner, who presented a strong affirmative case in favor of peace time conscription.

In the earlier rounds of the tourney, Johnson and Laughner had defeated Herb Garber and Dick Rau and the Alpha Tau Omega team composed of Wallace Worth and Ed Sullivan. Their opponents, Falcone and Guiliana, advanced in to the finals by means of a victory over Donald Miller and John Mellinger. In the first round they had drawn a bye.

With the intramural tournament, the Forensic Council concluded its activity for the year. Among the plans for the next fall are debates and forums in the Lehigh Valley Debating League, a

In response to the many pleas for aid for the destitute peoples of Europe, the M.C.A. will launch its campaign for clothing June 3.

Truly a gigantic enterprise, the M.C.A. has chosen to answer the cry for help by collecting used clothing. A small part of a great relief effort, nevertheless the seriousness with which we at Muhlenberg heed this appeal will, along with the other 130 million Americans, determine the success or failure of the venture. This is a personal matter. Whether we, succeed or not in our drive at 'Berg depends on your doing all in your power to help. Give all the used clothing you can spare. Ask your relatives and friends to help. Let's really pitch in and show the world that we, at Muhlenberg, are not indifferent and callous to the world's suffering.

We have been hearing a lot in recent months about peace, a lasting peace. We've also been hearing many saying that a permanent peace is impossible. But no one will deny that, irrespective of the results of the peace conferences, world peace will be greatly strengthened if we are able to meet the physical needs of the world in this crisis.

On Tuesday, you will be asked to nominate members of the September Semester Senior Class for positions on the Student Council.

Many of us have often been severely critical of the laxness of people regarding their duties as citizens. It is up to every student here at 'Berg to see that we are not LAX in performing our duties as citizens of our Student Government.

The WEEKLY has published on page one a list of men eligible for nomination. We feel that it is your duty to STUDY this list carefully before you come to the Student Body meeting. For by so doing, you will then be in a position to nominate only those men who have proved their ability for the job—men who will be aggressive, hard working and scholastically capable.

Since there will be little time between nominations and elections for the candidates to acquaint the students with their views, the WEEKLY will welcome all statements of any nominee pertaining to the platform which he plans to pursue if elected.

We have been fortunate this past semester to be guided by an excellent student council. Let us by our nominations and votes make certain that the Council to be elected will be an equally good one.

Course On Japanese Rare For Colleges

With the sudden outbreak of hostilities in 1941, the American concept of Japan and the Japanese people was twisted by hate and malice. The Japanese for decades had been a quaint people living in "paper" houses in the picturesque scenery of their mountainous island, eating rice and pickles, and hastening around in their clacking wooden sandals at the behest of their Emperor. Then Pearl Harbor, and the Japanese were propagandized as a savage and treacherous people, seventy million fanatics fighting and dying for their god-sent Emperor. But why is this? What motivates the Japanese?

Muhlenberg has taken the lead among Colleges of the East in offering a new elective course which proposes to explain the anomalies of the Japanese and their government in terms of their culture and history.

To instruct the course in The Cultural History of Japan, Muhlenberg College has obtained the capable services of the Rev. Edward T. Horn, D.D., an alumnus of the class of 1907. For more than thirty years, Dr. Horn has been a missionary of the United Lutheran Church to Japan. Through years of experience and study of the Japanese language and history, he has acquired a keen insight to the psychology and philosophy of the Japanese.

Dr. Horn was President of the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Tokyo for ten years, and in this capacity he was able to observe the influence of the Japanese educational system on the youth of Japan. The College is fortunate in having a man who is able to interpret the trends of Japanese culture and history from first hand experience.

More than twenty students have enrolled in the class for the Cultural History of Japan this semester. Many interesting discussions and enlightening lectures have developed from the queries and demands of students who have become conscious of the Orient by the War. Muhlenberg College is to be hailed for the program of expanding the curriculum and for the program of spreading understanding of other people whereby world progress and peace may be better insured.

CAMPUS HIGHLIGHTS

Deutscher Verein Will End Semester With Ausflug, June 3

The annual Ausflug of Der Deutscher Verein will take place on Monday, June 3, in the small park in the Lehigh Parkway. Members of the club who are graduating from Muhlenberg College will make farewell speeches in German.

Arrangements are in charge of the program and refreshment committees. Games of softball, singing, speeches, and tasty refreshments are parts of the program. Equipment for softball games will be provided by the Athletic Office. Later, as the members gather around the fireside to roast doggies, traditional German songs will be sung.

The past few semesters, either Dr. Barba or Dr. Reichard have entertained the members of the club for an evening of merry-making. This year, in traditional form, the Ausflug will again be a closed affair, i.e., for members of the club. In event of rain, an evening of entertainment will be held in the recreation room of West Hall.

All members of the club who wish to attend the Ausflug shall meet at the Administration Building at 4:00 p.m. on Monday, June 3, to walk to the chosen site.

Students who intended to become members of Der Deutscher Verein, but, for various reasons, were unable to attend the initiation ceremony, are to be considered as members of the club and are to be initiated to full membership in September.

The maximum membership of the club at any one time is to be limited to fifty members. Any student contemplating membership, has been asked to submit his

Ladies Auxiliary Meets At Chapel

The women's auxiliary of Muhlenberg College has named its new president, Mrs. Elmer H. Bausch at the meeting in the Gideon F. Egner Memorial Chapel, last Tuesday.

The new presidential cabinet will consist of Mrs. William C. Berkemeyer, first vice president; Mrs. John H. J. Reinhard, secretary; Mrs. Charles Nehf, assistant secretary; Mrs. Walter H. Gross, treasurer; and Mrs. William J. Weber, assistant treasurer.

The organization's annual report has shown that it now includes over 1,100 members, including 32 life memberships, to such well known personalities as Mrs. Levering Tyson, and Mrs. Oscar F. Bernheim. It also reported two new members, one who is Miss Hannah E. Clayton, Muhlenberg College commons dietitian.

This organization is responsible for much of the landscaping on the Muhlenberg campus, through its generous donations. Their program for landscaping has been in progress for the past few years.

After the business session, Dr. John W. Doberstein spoke on the challenge to Christian higher education that is presented by returning service men. He said that the college is dealing with older students, more students, and with men who have increased experiences and resources, and more interest in basic human problems. These men are less interested in extra-curricular activities, and are impatient with previous tradition. He discussed the challenges and advantages that these G.I. students present to the college.

Alumni Memo

By John Wagner, Alumni Secretary

A good many of the veterans on the campus today were students at College before entering service and to them, as well as to others in the Muhlenberg family, the following figures on Muhlenberg men in service may be of interest.

2075 graduates and former students wore the uniforms of the armed forces in World War II. The breakdown shows the following figures: ARMY—Brig. General—2; Colonel—4; Lieut. Col.—16; Major—40; Captain—137; 1st Lieut.—147; 2nd Lieut.—53; Non-commissioned—624. Total 1024.

Wearing the Navy blue were 908 graduates and former student who are divided as follows: Captain—5; Commander—5; Lieut. Comdr.—22; Lieutenant—83; Lieut. (j.g.)—117; Ensign—142; Non-commissioned—534.

Serving in the Marines, 143 men held the following ranks: Lieut. Col.—1; Captain—3; 1st Lieut.—18; 2nd Lieut.—30; Non-commissioned—91.

Thirty-six men paid the supreme sacrifice while serving their country. At the present time, one man is still listed as missing in action and one as a prisoner of war.

ACCENT ON... SPORTS

By Art Peters

Looking back over the recent MUHLENBERG track season, completed last weekend as the MULES took second place in a triangular meet with Haverford and Lafayette, the campaign on the surface appears none too successful.

In the win and loss columns the record is hardly impressive, the MULES having failed to take first honors in any of the meets in which they competed.

However, statistics in record books often fail to tell the whole story. BUD BARKER took over this spring with but a handful of "green" prospects, most of whom were totally inexperienced. With each week the boys showed improvement, and by the end of the season they were impressive in most every department. Certainly with the material which campaigned this season on hand next year, COACH BARKER'S task will be an easier one.

ED SIKORSKI in the dashes, AL RUBBERT in the middle distances, OTIS SUMMERVILLE in the mile and VERN MILLER in the field events were standout performers all season. SCHLUGEE, ROBERTSON, FRANTZ, NAILL, BODGZIEWICZ and all the others also came along in fine shape during the season.

Our proverbial hat goes off to BUD BARKER and his boys who did a swell job in building for the future—in molding the nucleus about which MUHLENBERG track teams will grow in the next few years.

MUHLENBERG mentors SCHWARTZWALDER and BARKER are attending a coaches' confab this week in RHODE ISLAND. JIM LEAVITT is the terror of the INTRA-MURAL SOFTBALL LEAGUE with his record of five wins to no losses... no intercollegiate sports program for the summer session is being contemplated by the college... efforts are being made to include SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY on the 1947 basketball schedule—SYRACUSE was eliminated from the NATIONAL INVITATION BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT this year by LEE COKER and his MUHLENBERG basketballers... certainly thought VAN COMBS would precede RED BALDWIN down the aisle to matrimonial bliss.

Netmen Swat Dragons Of Drexel Tech 8 To 1

Bounding back after the shutout defeat suffered at the hands of Lehigh University last week in Bethlehem, Coach John Shankweiler's Muhlenberg tennis team presented the Dragons of Drexel Institute of Technology with a stinging 8 to 1 setback last Saturday on the Oakmont courts here in Allentown.

The match was originally scheduled for May 11th but was rained out on that date.

Sweep Through Singles

With Bob Cerney, Walt Weller, Bill Klink, Bob Ranken, Howard Haring and Ernest Hoh smothering their opponents in the singles events, the 'Berg netmen scored a clean sweep in that department.

In doubles competition, the Mules took two matches, dropping one.

Bucknell Next Foe

The victory over the Philadelphiaans, the second in four starts, places the Shankweiler crew on even footing for their match with Bucknell tomorrow on the Bisons' courts in Lewisburg. The Bucknell fray will be followed next Wednesday by a contest with Lehigh at the Oakmont Tennis Courts. The Mules, rapidly gaining poise and confidence, remember well the 9 to 0 trouncing they sustained in their previous meeting with the Engineers and are eager to avenge the defeat.

Results:

Singles—Bob Cerney, Muhlenberg, defeated Norm Parmet, Drexel, 7-5, 6-4; Walt Weller, Muhlenberg, defeated Max Forwalt, Drexel, 6-3, 7-5; Bill Klink, Muhlenberg, defeated Bill Kratzer, Drexel, 6-0, 6-2; Bob Ranken, Muhlenberg, defeated Ray Holman, Drexel, 6-2, 6-4; Howard Haring, Muhlenberg, defeated Herb Goetz, Drexel, 5-7, 6-2, 8-6; Ernest Hoh, Muhlenberg, defeated Ray Holman, Drexel, 6-2, 6-4.

Bucknell Tops Mule Nine, 9-5

A slugging Bucknell team set Muhlenberg down 9 to 5 at Lewisburg Saturday.

Bucknell started the ball rolling by scoring two runs in the first inning on two doubles and an overthrow by Bibighaus to third.

Cliff Kindred was hit in the knee by a hard liner in the third, but stayed in the game until the fifth inning.

'Berg scored in the third inning on singles by Kindred and Henry, and in the fifth when Lucas singled, stole second and was driven home.

Taking advantage of Kindred's injury, Bucknell laid down three bunts to the mound, in a big sixth inning.

Paige got on on an error, and went to second on Hubka's bunt. Another bunt loaded the bases. Bartlett doubled to drive in three runs. Another bunt and a single scored Bartlett. Bloom got on due to an error scoring Walker. Paige scored Bloom on a single.

'Berg scored again in the sixth but was unable to catch up.

Supple Gives Up Two Hits As Princeton Tops Mules

Three errors in the seventh inning cost Muhlenberg a victory over Princeton, at the Tiger's field Wednesday. The game was a pitchers battle for six innings, with Supple Princeton's hurler, keeping the Mules hitless, while Busch gave up four hits, the tussle ending 3 to 1 in favor of the Tigers.

'Berg missed a scoring chance in the first inning when Dean got on by an error by the pitcher and Tybrand was hit by a pitched ball. Both runners advanced on a passed ball. With men on second and third, no outs, Muhlenberg failed to push any runs across.

'Berg scored in the seventh when Henry singled and went to third on Supple's overthrow to first. Bibighaus drew a walk.

Schwob's sacrifice scored Henry and advanced Bibighaus to second. Baldwin walked and went to second on Busch's bunt, Bibighaus moving to third. Princeton pulled itself out of the hole by throwing Dean out, short to first.

Errors Aid Tigers

The 'Berg nine didn't seem satisfied with leaving the seventh inning stretch to the spectators, and seemed to relax themselves, letting three misplays upset the fracas.

Skolnick of Princeton got to first on Schwob's error. Zundel was hit by Busch, who then struck Supple out. Fairchild, a pinchhitter, got an infield single, and two men scored on Busch's overthrow to first. Bibighaus's throw to the catcher was muffed, and Fairchild scored. After two more hits, Busch retired the side.

League Leaders Continue To Dominate Intra-murals

Competition in the Intra-mural Softball League was somewhat curtailed this week as rain caused postponement of Tuesday's card. Potentially powerful West Hall was to meet Phi Kappa Tau while Navy Blue was scheduled to compete with the Navy White team.

On Wednesday play was resumed as the Navy Whites downed Lambda Chi Alpha 14 to 1, the losers being held to two hits by Grieme, Navy hurler.

In the other contest of the day East Hall extended its winning streak to four straight as they topped Navy Blue 11 to 6, Larry Delp the winning pitcher.

Thursday's games saw league leading A.T.O. rack up its fifth consecutive win as Leavitt hurled his mates to a 2 to 1 victory over Navy Red.

In the other game East Hall maintained its tight hold on second place in the league standing by beating Navy Yellow 10 to 0. Delp was the winning pitcher.

Arrangements for playing postponed games will be made in the near future. Announcement of rescheduled contests will be made by the Physical Education Department.

MULE TRACKMEN TAKE SECOND IN TRIANGULAR MEET IN EASTON

By Herb Needleman

Rounding off their track campaign in a triangular meet with Lafayette and Haverford last Saturday, the galloping Mules missed their last chance to chalk up their only win of the season by placing second to a well balanced Leopard team.

Lafayette gaining a clean sweep in the high jump, and low hurdles, scored 78 points to take first. Muhlenberg followed with 56, while Haverford took third with 15.

Coach Bud Barker's boys did themselves proud, even in defeat, by turning in some of their best times of the campaign at Easton.

Sikorski—again—took two firsts in the 100 and 200. Ed's time in the 100 was a cool ten flat! Breathing down Sikorski's neck in both sprints was Al Rubbert. Second in the broad jump also went to Sikorski.

Vern Miller took a first in the broad jump and a second in the javelin. Mike Bogdziewicz collected eight points for 'Berg, placing first in the discus and second in the shot put.

Mal Robertson climaxed a season of consistently good pole vaulting by tying for first in that event. Mal also placed third in the high hurdles.

It should be kept in mind, when looking over the track team's record, that most of the men were in 'Berg suits for the first time, that this was Bud Barker's first year as track mentor, and finally that the boys only had four meets

Monroe and Enoch Light were among the famous bands that played for 'Berg dances. Although this is the first appearance at a Muhlenberg dance, Fields' distinctive style and great popularity are certain to make him a hit.

Beautiful Castle Gardens located in Dorney Park, provide an ideal setting for the dance. Always well liked in the past by Muhlenberg students, the floor is spacious, providing enough room for the college's large student body. The dance is formal. Student Council President George Sweda emphasized that all students should attend. "Admission for all students and their dates, as well as for members of the V-12 Unit and their dates, is free." In addition, friends and alumni are invited to attend, tickets being on sale at the door for two dollars a couple. Chaperones are to be announced later, and the faculty and ship's company will be invited guests of the Student Council.

Clothing Drive

appropriately taken from the Book of 2 Timothy in the New Testament, has been shown in several local churches and in many cities all over the country. It was obtained here through the local office of Lutheran World Action, and has been hailed by the audiences who have seen it as a powerful, pertinent picture, which vividly demonstrates the plight of Europe's people today, and what we must do about it. Accompanying the film will be a brief talk by Lewis Moore, who will explain the drive more fully.

The campus clothing drive has received the whole-hearted endorsement of Dr. Tyson, as well as that of the students and faculty of Cedar Crest, who expressed regret that they could make no more concrete contributions to the drive because they themselves are collecting clothing to be sent to a school in France which the girls of Cedar Crest have adopted.

Supporting roles were handled excellently by Eleanor Sabo as Jemima Cooney, John Mellinger as Martin Mullahone, and Dorothy Oyer in the part of Rosey Violet.

The play was ably directed by Mr. Andrew Erskine of the Muhlenberg English department, who is well known for his previous successes with Muhlenberg productions. Props and lights were handled by James Reppert and John More, and Robert MacDonough is especially to be complimented for his good work as stage manager.

A second performance will be given this evening.

In a concerted effort to attain one thousand dollars for the field house fund, Editor Rogers has announced contributions to the total of one hundred and thirty-five dollars. These donations raise the grand total to somewhat under eight hundred dollars.

Vice-Adm. Conolly Commencement Speaker

Navy Closes Muhlenberg Unit; Abel Thanks College

At the end of this current semester, the officers training program which the navy has conducted at Muhlenberg College for the last three years draws to its official close. During this period, the college has given academic training to many hundreds of navy V-12ers, Marines, and finally V-5s. Now, with the departure of the present V-5 unit from the campus, the college returns to a totally-civilian student body.

From here, the trainees have a choice of either continuing their academic work in an accredited college of their own choosing for the summer session, or of reporting to active duty at a Naval Air Station for Selective Flight Training. All trainees not gaining admittance to summer session will go to selective flight training during the summer.

Those trainees who complete their fourth semester here at 'Berg in June will go on to a Naval Air Station for Selective Flight Training. Upon completion of this phase of the training, these men will have the rating of Aviation Cadet, and proceed to Pre-Flight Training.

Lt. Commander Abel, commanding officer of the local unit, said in a special interview granted to the WEEKLY, "I wish to thank the College for the fine cooperation which they at all times gave to the Navy. In particular I would like to express my appreciation to the administration, the faculty and to the student body.

I have never made any requests to the college which were not given every possible consideration.

The faculty has at all times retained the highest standards. At the same time it has given much individual instruction and attention, in spite of the added loads which it had to assume because of the war.

Mr. Allen H. Jones Faculty Addition

The first of several new instructors to be added to the English Department, which will bring the total complement of that staff up to nine, is Mr. Allen H. Jones.

Recently discharged from the Army, Mr. Jones, whose home town is Upper Darby, Pa., received his A.B. from Drew University in 1933. After graduation, Mr. Jones did graduate work in Spanish and business at New York University. During this time he also did instructing work in Spanish, French, and English at Morristown, N. J., High School, and was for a time principal of the Herrick Center, Pa., High School, where he taught Spanish, English and Latin.

In 1936 Mr. Jones became housemaster of Girard College in Philadelphia, where he remained until 1942, serving as English instructor. In that same year, he received his M.A. in English from Temple University, before he entered the service.

At Drew, Mr. Jones was a varsity athlete for three years in basketball and baseball. He also played some semi-professional baseball after his graduation from college.

While in the Army from October 1945, to March 1946, Mr. Jones served in Japan, as an inspector of Japanese schools for the U. S. Army. At this time he also conducted a school in English composition for service personnel.

Graduation Ball With Shep Fields Next Thursday

With Shep Fields and his New Music playing for dancing and listening pleasure, the Graduation Ball Thursday night, June 20, at Castle Garden, will climax the social activities of the semester. Sponsored by the Student Council, the Ball is formal. Dancing will be from nine till one, and admission is by activity card or payment at the door of $2.00.

Shep Fields' orchestra, one of the leading ones in the country, whose New Music features no blaring brass, should be ideal for the dance, the Council committee believes. Castle Garden, located in Dorney Park, was chosen as the site because of its beautiful dance floor, one of the largest in the area. The Ship's company and members of the faculty and administration will be invited guests at the dance. The Chaperones, all faculty members, will include Dr. and Mrs. John Doberstein, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Stine, Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Corbiere, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Corriere, and Dr. and Mrs. Preston A. Barba.

Council members have gone to a great deal of work in preparing for the dance and expect it to be an outstanding event. They believe all members of the student body, to whom admission will be free, will want to attend.

Instructor Of Bible Joins Faculty Staff

Dr. Tyson announces the appointment of Rev. Matthew I. Wiencke as an instructor of religion and philosophy. Rev. Wiencke graduated from Wittenberg College and the Mount Airy Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia. At present, he is taking graduate work at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland. His graduate work consists of Classical Archeology, Hebrew, and Greek.

An appointment for the summer term has been granted to Rev. Wiencke. A leave of absence from September to June has been granted him in order to allow him to complete the work necessary for his doctorate. The appointment is then to become permanent.

It is to be noted that there will be no chapel services during the summer term. Dr. Doberstein, Chaplain, will be away from the campus during the summer months in order to complete some literary works of his own.

Navy Dance At Dorney Highlights Unit Departure

Tonight, the Navy Unit brings Bud Rader and his orchestra to play at their semi-formal Graduation Ball to be held at Castle Garden. Always a popular Muhlenberg favorite, Rader "gives" with smooth, dreamy music and should provide a fitting send-off to this last unit of the Navy training program.

BUD RADER

Admission is free and open to all Muhlenberg students, both Navy and civilian, and their dates. All are invited to attend, and special arrangements have been made to make this one of the most enjoyable dances the Navy has sponsored.

The preparations for the dance have been carried out under the supervision of Lieutenant Commander T. T. Abel. A/S Clarence Smith is the Navy trainee in charge of the dance arrangements.

Castle Garden, located at Dorney Park, is also the location for the formal Graduation Ball to be held June 20. Always popular as a dance hall, it now offers the added attractions of Dorney Park itself. All in all, a wonderful night is planned for everyone.

Alumni Day June 21 Opens Graduation

For the first time since the war, Muhlenberg will this semester hold its customary June graduation. Although this is not as early as in ordinary times, the late dates of the twenty-third and fourth were necessitated by the accelerated schedule. The sixty odd graduates include not only those who have completed their requirements this semester, but also those who completed the lists before March of this year.

VICE ADMIRAL RICHARD L. CONOLLY

The principal speaker for Commencement on June 24 will be Vice-Admiral Richard Lansing Conolly, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Administration). In addition to the Navy Cross, the distinguished Service Medal with two Gold Stars, the Legion of Merit with Gold Star, and the Commendation Ribbon, Vice Admiral Conolly has the Mexican Service Medal, the Victory Medal, Destroyer Clasp, and is entitled to the American Defense Service Medal Fleet Clasp, the Asiatic-Pacific Area Campaign Medal, the European-African-Middle Eastern Area Campaign Medal and the World War II Victory Medal. He also has been made a Commander of the Order of the Bath by Great Britain.

Vice Admiral Conolly, a native of Waukegan, Illinois will have the degree of Doctor of Laws conferred upon him.

Previous to the Commencement ceremonies, the Baccalaureate Service will be held on Sunday, June 23 in the College Chapel. Dr. O. Frederick Nolde, an outstanding man in the United Lutheran Church in America and a specialist in the field of Christian Education will address the graduates and guests.

Dr. Nolde achieved national prominence as an advocate of a Just and Durable Peace. The degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred on Dr. Nolde.

In addition, Rev. George O. Bierhoe, one of the founders and at this time president of Endicott Junior College and alumnus of Muhlenberg will receive the degree of Doctor of Letters and Harry C. Banks, Jr., Professor of Music at Girard College and composer of varied pieces for organ, voice, and violin will have the degree of Doctor of Music conferred upon him.

In conjunction with these ceremonies, Alumni Day will be held on Friday, June 21. Among the gala events will be a golf tournament at the Lehigh Country Club, an alumni dinner in the Commons and a sports program on the campus.

Three Juniors In Oratory Contest

The annual Junior Oratorical Contest will be held on Friday, June 21, at 10 a.m., in the West Hall Auditorium.

The three speakers in the contest are Philip Mitterling, John Reumann, and William Young.

The first prize of twenty-five dollars is the Clemmie L. Ulrich Prize, while the second place speaker will receive the class of 1908 Prize of ten dollars.

Only juniors are eligible to enter the contest, which will be judged on the basis of subject matter and the manner in which it is presented.

The contestants are preparing their speeches under the guidance of Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English Department.

Prof. Robert Boyer At Air Conference

The Air-Age Education Research in cooperation with several major American universities is sponsoring a World Congress on Air Age Education. The World Congress will be held at the International House in New York City from the 21st to the 28th of August.

Mr. Robert A. Boyer of the Muhlenberg Physics department will represent our school at the Congress. He is to be a member of the Steering Committee whose purpose is to outline the procedure for achieving the objective of the conference.

This objective is to bring together leaders in the field of education throughout the world in order to discuss:

First, the methods by which education and social understanding of people can keep pace with the rapid changes in the technical and economic phases of air transportation.

Second, basis for curriculum revision in terms of the needs of the air age;

Third, the procedure by which student and teachers can gain experience relative to the air, including flight training, travel, and flight experiences; and

Fourth, the development of the most effective content for mass education media, including radio, press, and motion pictures, in the program of adult education.

A program has already been planned for the entire 8 days of the conference including exhibits and topics for discussion at the luncheons and at the conference session. These topics include, Major Problems of the Air World, International Relations in the Air Age, Personal Flying and Education, and Education for the Air Age.

The various committees will meet each morning to discuss the complications of the full-conference panel discussions held the

Professors Seek Doctors' Degree

Mr. Winfield Keck and Mr. Kingsbury Badger, two well-known and effective teachers, have resigned from the Muhlenberg faculty, to resume work this summer toward their doctorates.

Mr. Keck, who has been here since September 1941, teaching in the Department of Mathematics and Physics, has distinguished himself as an able teacher, conscientious and deeply interested in the problems and aspirations of his students. He will continue his graduate studies at Brown University, where he will teach in the Department of Physics.

Mr. Badger, like Mr. Keck, has earned both the respect and popularity that spring from challenging teaching and sound scholarship. His courses, particularly in Representative English Writers, Chaucer, and American Literature, have been stimulating and thoroughly enjoyable. After ten years at Muhlenberg, from 1936 to 1946, he is leaving to resume his graduate studies at Columbia University.

These valuable friends, Mr. Keck and Mr. Badger, will undoubtedly be remembered by the present student body, as well as the alumni of this college, for some years to come.

EDITORIAL

With this the last publication of the present volume, we make our final curtain call on the Weekly stage. Accompanying such leave are many fond memories of people and events which we will long remember along with the more interesting souvenirs of our career.

Upon the assumption of our office in March, we embarked on a journey with a specific goal—to reorganize and revitalize the school publication. In many respects our aim was attained. In some, however, because time did not permit, we could not accomplish our purpose. But this last fact is more than compensated by our being succeeded by two, who are ably equipped to continue the program we started.

Let it be clearly understood, however, that part of their burden during the next year, must be borne by all of the members of the college family. For in no other way can we be assured of a truly greater Weekly.

We would add here, that only because ours was the good fortune in the past few weeks, to muster much support and a more intensified interest, were we able to make any contribution toward bettering the paper.

With sincere thanks then, to all, administration, faculty, students and especially our staff, we would make our exit, leaving but this suggestion: Let Cooperation be the watchword!

Rhodes Scholarship To Oxford Afforded American Students

An excellent opportunity has been afforded American students to further Anglo-American friendship by the promulgation of the first post-war awarding of 32 Rhodes Scholarships. The elections for these scholarships will take place in December 1946, with the scholars-elect entering Oxford on October 1, 1947.

Our College Store

Many students have been wondering about the college book store, and how it is operated. Hidden deep in the basement of the Administration Building, it has always featured greatly in the minds of all students as a place for boisterous laughter and eats, as a meeting place for campus personalities and politics, and as a store where text books and academic and incidental supplies can be purchased. But its purpose and organization has always been little known hence in this article we wish to clarify the situation.

Both the book store and the soda fountain are owned and operated by the Student Loan Committee. Organized in 1933, this committee had as its objective the development of a student loan fund, where students needing money to continue their studies could make small loans without interest.

The Student Loan Committee itself is composed of three men, Dr. Swain, Dr. Johnson, and Mr. Balmer. The first two are members of the faculty, while Mr. Balmer is a member of the Board of Trustees. Most of the work of supervising the book store is done by Dr. Swain, who is the Treasurer of the committee. Kenny Conrad, that slap-happy joe-joe behind the counter, is in charge of operating the soda fountain.

At the end of each year, the book store turns over its profits for the year to the Loan Fund, thus making possible more loans to the students. At the present time, the number of loans made are relatively few, but they amount to over two thousand dollars.

Students interested in securing

In order to make this opportunity available to all, the Rhodes Trustees have decided to adjust the requirements for eligibility, so that those whose college life was interrupted by service in the Armed Forces, can likewise participate. The requirements for regular scholarships remain the same.

All scholarships are tenable at Oxford University, where the holders are enabled to take a two year course and receive their degrees. Only under direction from the Committee, will any student be allowed to continue his studies beyond the allotted two years.

At present the Rhodes Scholarships carry an emolument of 400 pounds (about $1900). It is hoped that if at all possible, the student should supplement this sum with 50 pounds (about $250) from his own resources. Those who can qualify under the G.I. Bill of Rights (Public Law 346) are entitled to the same benefits at Oxford that they would ordinarily receive if they attended an American university.

For a regular Scholarship—

- (1) The Candidate must be a male citizen of the United States, unmarried, and have had at least Five years residence in this country.
- (2) He must be between the ages of 19 and 25 years by October 1, 1947.
- (3) A completion of two years of college work (Junior standing) should have been fulfilled by the time of application.

For the War Service Scholarships—

- (1) Marriage will not bar an applicant's entry.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Three months ago you published an excellent editorial giving your support to a faculty member's suggestion that every student of Muhlenberg College be requested, between matriculation and graduation, to read at least one hundred of the world's two hundred greatest books in all fields of knowledge.

Your concluding question, "What do you think?" provoked a considerable amount of discussion in English classes and elsewhere among both students and faculty members. Many of the latter especially, of course, had already done much thinking about the advisability of such a plan.

Concerning their attitude toward the idea, in general, students may be classified, I think, into the following groups: first, the small number who are whole heartedly in favor of this or any other project for cooperatively reading the classics, a knowledge of which they believe is essential to a liberal education; second, those who are interested by the idea and might be convinced of its worth; and third, the large group of students who see no value at all in the plan, considering it extremely impractical.

Because of the size of this last group, the great amount of time that reading would require of all students, and the alterations in curricula it might necessitate, the plan you have advocated probably will not be adopted in the near future, as you realize. I should like to appeal to the students who fall into the first two classifications, however, not to allow the general disinterest and adverse circumstances prevent their enjoyment of an educational experiment which is finding favor today in many colleges and universities.

Could not a class or club be formed to meet during the day or evening to read and discuss as many as possible of the great books that are not now required reading in any course? Professors or visiting lecturers would guide the thinking of the group, whose members would read assigned books between; say bi-weekly sessions. Could not college credit be given for such a class?

At least, let those of us who are interested in this meeting, through their writings, the great minds of the ages, come together to share our ideas on the subject and plan a course of action. A steering committee, composed of men who intend to remain in college this summer, might be elected to study the suggestions carefully and to negotiate, on our behalf, with the faculty and administration.

Let us meet briefly, Thursday, June 13 at 12:20 p.m. in the Science Auditorium. Perhaps by September a reading program can be established; at any rate the strength or weakness of favorable opinion among the students will be demonstrated. We have talked long enough; now let us act!

Respectfully yours,
FRANKLIN E. SHERMAN

... The Awful Truth ...

By Mike Rogers

Not enuf time or space here to tell you all about the show last week-end in case you missed it. But, as one of those who had a part in making the show the success it was, many thanks to Norm and Nelse for the terrific production and all the rest of the gang. Complete success showed in both the production and financial end of the deal...

We saw you at the show, Hepburn with that lovely Dawn Fry girl... And you too Ben Celian with that lovely, lovely, and I do mean just that, little job from the local scenery... Stan Eideken and frau attracted lotsa lookers from the audience, and the "hubbas" were fast and furious...!

"Slumber Session" will be commencing shortly and many of the gang will be around for the term, but to those of you who will seek your rest and revelry at various spots, many good times and don't forget to lift "one" for the boys...

The next BEEG item on the agenda looks like the veddy formal Graduation Ball at Castle Garden Thursday, June 20th. We heard Shep Fields and his new band a few months ago and take a tip, the gang makes the music that is good, and we do mean good. So get the frau rigged up in that new outfit she's been eyeing in the window, see Roth for the straight-jacket for you, and try and phenagle twenty bucks worth of posies for about a fin from the local Jesse James's who

Never Again

There are strange things done in Allentown
By the men who go to school,
The bars and rails have heard strange tales,
That would make your blood grow cool.

But the strangest thing they could ever behold,
Was that night at the club, the local pub,
That YOU were passed out cold!...

The beer is cold and its glow of gold
Seems to hold you like a spell
And you stand and sway, happy and gay,
Recalling a joke to tell.

And the girl in your lap gives your face a slap
You do not think her kind.
Ti'l she starts to say in her gruff little way
That she was only reading your mind.

A most unpolite crowd, very noisy and loud
You can't see a thing; you wonder why.
"Oh pardon me," says a mother of three,
"That's my finger you have in your eye."

You may feel sad or possibly mad,
You choke and gasp for air.
The smoke is thick and your necktie sticks,
To the chewing gum under your chair.

Things are rough but you think you're tough.
You keep going back for more.
You reach for the bar, it seems so far.
The ceiling looks like the floor.

Someone says, "Hey Jack, get off your back"
Then another steps in your face.
You seem to know its time to go,
But you can't seem to leave the place.

Through the smoke and haze in your stupid daze,
You hear the words, "Drunken Bum"
You've learned if you survive, remain alive
You'll never mix beer with rum.

The results, as you see, may disagree,
With the sturdiest constitution.
You resolve right then, that NEVER AGAIN,
Is the only real solution.

Alumni
Memo

By John Wagner, Alumni Secretary

As this is the last issue of the Weekly for this semester, I want to, on behalf of the Alumni Association, welcome the graduating seniors into membership in the Alumni body. We are proud to add your names to our files and assure you of our interest in you, wherever you may go upon leaving Muhlenberg.

Membership in the Alumni Association carries with it many privileges. There are no dues, and we are not primarily interested in securing money from our graduates. Rather, we want our members to take advantage of the fellowship which exists among all members of the group, and to feel that the College stands ready to aid them at any time they so desire. The Placement service is at your service to aid you in putting your education to work; the Alumni Office will keep you in touch with the College through the Alumni Magazine and addresses of your friends and classmates, if you will drop us a line when you need information.

Muhlenberg Choir Will Perform At Student Assembly Tomorrow

Having presented a series of Sunday evening concerts in churches throughout Eastern Pennsylvania during the past month, the Muhlenberg College Chapel Choir will be heard in a concert appearance at the assembly tomorrow, June 13. Starting time for the program is 11:30 a.m., and the place is the Science Building Auditorium. The choir's program will include a section of college songs, as well as sacred numbers.

Opening selection on the program will be the Alma Mater. Other Muhlenberg numbers in this portion of the program dealing with college songs will be two original numbers written by Muhlenberg men. They are "Dawn and Desire" and "Fair Muhlenberg." Besides the numbers sung at the recent Sunday evening concerts, a new number, "Jehovah Reigns," will be heard. The complete program includes:

Alma Mater	Kistler, Arr. Marks
Dawn and Desire	Simpson-Marks
Fair Muhlenberg	Reiger
Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee, Bach	Gounod
Prepare the Way to Zion	Swedish melody; Arr. Luvaa
Forever Free	Dutch melody; Arr. Lefebvre
A Song of Joy	McKinney
Beautiful Saviour	Whitford
Lovely Appearance	Gounod
Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah	Haydn
O God, Our Help in Ages Past	Mueller
A Hymn of Freedom	Croft-Davis
Jehovah Reigns	Thiman
The Spacious Firmament	Whitford
Hallelujah, Amen	Handel

Long recognized as one of the outstanding choirs in the country, the Muhlenberg Chapel Choir is only now returning to its ambitious pre-war program. During the war the accelerated schedule, depleted student body, and transportation difficulties cut the choir's activities to a mere fraction of what they once had been. Dr. Harold K. Marks, director of the organization, said, however, in an interview, "I expect the choir to be back on its pre-war basis by next year." He added that this semester's group is one of the most active in the past few years.

The choir presented sacred concerts at St. John's Lutheran Church, East Mauch Chunk, on April 28; at St. John's, Spinnertown, May 5; St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Allentown, the following Sunday; St. Andrew's South Perkasi, May 19; and at St. John's Lutheran Church, Coopersburg on May 26. The choir also sang before the Ladies' Auxiliary of the college, both in the chapel and at a luncheon meeting at the Americus Hotel. Last week choir members, as the "Men of Muhlenberg" chorus, took part in the M Club production, "Time out." A light program of college songs and popular numbers, including "The Winter Song" and "The Wiffenpoof Song," was offered.

This evening choir members will be feted at a banquet at the Jordan Inn. Plans for the event have been made by George Baker, assistant manager. Robert Kishbaugh is manager, and Eugene Harmony the other assistant.

Co-Editorship Selected To Head Weekly

To keep pace with the increase of Muhlenberg's rapidly expanding student body and to meet the demands for a larger "Weekly" next year, Marshall Rogers and Jack Reumann were elected on Monday evening as Co-Editors for next year's paper. The term of office is for two semesters, beginning in September. William Glase was elected as business manager.

Both Rogers and Reumann have been associated with the "Weekly" for a long time. While a member of the unit stationed at Muhlenberg, Rogers served on the paper in various editorial capacities, finally being elected editor, to succeed Ted Jentsch. However, after publishing just one issue Mike was transferred to the Unit at Villanova. After receiving his discharge Rogers returned to 'Berg as a civilian student. During the past semester he resumed his highly popular column, "Ye Awful Truth." A native of Miami Beach, Florida, Rogers will be graduated from Muhlenberg next June. He was starred in the recent M Club production, "Time Out," appearing as master-of-ceremonies.

The other co-editor, Jack Reumann, has had six semesters' experience on the paper, being Managing Editor this past term. Reumann is from Lansdale, Pennsylvania, and has been active in many college activities, including choir, Der Deutsche Verein, the Pre-theological club, and several honorary fraternities. He is editor of the "Clarla" and is a proctor in West Hall. Reumann will also be a senior next year.

While no definite plans have been announced as yet, the new editors did state that there will be no Weekly during the summer school, but that a greatly expanded paper will be published next year to meet the requirements of an enlarged enrollment. The various editors on the paper will be appointed later.

Close Election Decides Members For September Term; Gift Chosen

At the closely contested election held on June 10th, the following men were named to serve on the Student Council: Harold Helfrich, Robert Kishbaugh, Carl Reimer, John Reumann, Philip Mitterling, Paul Balze, Robert Ranken, John Meyers and Ernest Hawk. Samuel Krouse and Craig Dorward were the two alternates elected. The new student council will take office in September.

The retiring student council ably covered the transition period from a war-time basis, in which most of the activities were suspended, to a peace-time schedule full of activities.

They were instrumental in reviving some of the old traditions such as the tug-of-war between the Sophomore and Freshman classes. A new assembly program board was placed in the lobby of the Administration Building and many interesting programs resulted from their untiring efforts. Better relations between Cedar Crest and Muhlenberg was attempted in the Play Day activities and Sport Dance. The Intramural Program, the Sport Dance at Central Park, and the Graduation Ball to be held at Castle Gardens is further evidence of their efforts.

They also voted to donate two hundred dollars a year, for the next three years, starting in September, for two stained glass windows to further grace the beauty of our chapel. The windows are to portray "Matriculation," and "Commencement," and will be inscribed, "Gift of the Students, 1946-49."

According to the council, this action was taken now so that work could be started on the beautification of the chapel immediately.

Weaver Returns As School Doctor

President Tyson has announced the return of Dr. Thomas H. Weaver, Jr., to the Muhlenberg staff. Dr. Weaver had formerly been in charge of the Muhlenberg College infirmary.

The present Navy Sick Bay will be discontinued on July 1, 1946. This will include both Navy and the civilian personnel. These facilities have been at the disposal of the college since July 1943. The new infirmary location and facilities have not yet been selected.

Dr. Weaver, a former pre-medical student at Muhlenberg '36, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, in the class of '40. After graduation, he served a one-year internship at the Allentown Hospital; following which he was appointed to the hospital staff as medical resident, and then senior medical resident.

After leaving Muhlenberg in July 1946, Dr. Weaver was commissioned in the Army medical corps, where he was assigned as medical officer in the U. S. Veterans Administration at Palo Alto, California. He now holds the rank of Captain.

While serving as college physician, Dr. Weaver was active in many local organizations, including the Red Cross, where he aided in the development of a nurses aid program for the Allentown hospital.

"Time Out" Huge Success

The Muhlenberg College Varsity "M" Club did it again in this year's production, "Time Out." The auditorium of the Muhlenberg Science Building was well filled on the three big nights, and many times during the show actors were forced to take a rest until the audience's laughter died out.

With the close of this year's production—the first since the war—the "M" club concludes a successful year. Under the guidance of the President, Joe Podany, the club wishes to express their appreciation to every one who had any part in helping make the show a success, including all members of the cast, stage crews, ushers, and particularly Misses Myn Fillman and Peggy Krause for the excellent work they did on the make-up. To the two producers, Nelson Graham and Norman Morris, for their unselfish time and energy, the "M" club extends their sincere appreciation. However Joe Podany has announced that a verbal appreciation will not be all. The club is planning to have a gala party for every person that participated in putting "Time Out" across.

From the proceeds of the show the "M" club plans to buy Varsity "M" pins for all members of the club who took part in the production.

Council Ban Of Corsages Announced

By Gordon Daggy

If you are the fortunate chap with the diamond studded stick pin and the convertible buick, the checking account or father-in-law with a fortune, this notice may be disagreeable to you. However if you fall into the class of peasants of which the great majority of we College "studs" belong, you will undoubtedly be quite pleased to hear that the STUDENT COUNCIL of Muhlenberg College has forever and completely banned the decorating of "La femmes" with the time honored corsage. In other words, gentlemen, from this point on, the presence of a "sweet young thing" adorned in those $3.50 gardenias is outlawed at school sponsored functions. Alas, for the gals, they and their sweet

Oswald; Vice President, John E. Rogers; Secretary - Treasurer, James D. Reppert. Each officer is active in the various extra-curricular activities of the college.

During the meeting, plans were laid to increase the activities of the club during the coming year. In this connection, it was decided that the next production of the club will be presented late in November. Several plays are now under consideration, the names of which will be released later.

Productions of the Mask and Dagger which were presented this year included "Rope" and "Shadow and Substance."

Navy V-5 Unit Tours Navy Yard

On Saturday, June 8, 1946, the entire V-5 Unit of Muhlenberg College toured the Philadelphia Naval Air Base under the guidance of Naval officers. Leaving early on Saturday morning, they visited the various departments at the base.

Upon arrival, they mustered in front of the flight office to receive directions and to be divided into three groups. Traveling separately, each group toured the Naval Air Experimental Station, Naval Auxiliary Air Station, and the Naval Aircraft Factory. The schedule of events was adhered to as closely as possible in order to see the different sections in the allotted time.

Inspection of the various departments of the Naval Air Experimental Station was done according to a strict schedule. The departments which were visited are the Aeronautical Instrument Laboratory, Aeronautical Material Laboratory, and Aeronautical Engine Laboratory.

Later, the entire unit boarded an aircraft carrier. After again mustering on the hangar deck, the unit was again divided into three groups and toured the ship under the guidance of ship officers.

Graduation Ball

Shep Fields, the popular young orchestra leader whose band will play, is responsible for not one but two daringly new and strikingly successful ideas in the world of modern music. Early in his career Fields realized that a band needed to be not only good but also distinctive. His first innovation was the famous "rippling rhythm," with which he swept to nationwide fame. Success, however, to Fields did not mean sitting back placidly; for a long time an experimenter in musical instrumentation, Fields scrapped thousands of dollars worth of contracts, disbanded his orchestra, and started to build a new one. This new band contained no trumpets or trombones.

Navy Closes Unit

Not only was the administration and the faculty at all times friendly, but the student body was exceedingly cooperative in helping the Navy feel an integral part of the student body. George Sweda, and the Student Council went out of their way at all times to help us feel a real part of the campus community. Everyone has acted the part of perfect gentlemen unlike the members of some other institutions with which I have been affiliated.

Just as an example of the friendliness which has surrounded me here at Muhlenberg is the HELLO which greets me at every turn.

To prove that these are really my sentiments, I should like to say that in January I was offered my release. Rather, I choose to stay in the Navy because by doing so I could remain here at Muhlenberg."

Season Closed By Forensic Frat

Climaxing this semester's forensic activity on Muhlenberg's campus, Jack Reumann, Phil Mitterling, Ernest Hawk, and Bill Richards, were initiated into the Tau Kappa Alpha, National Honorary Forensic Fraternity at the home of Professor Everitt Monday night.

Jack Reumann, and Phil Mitterling have been active in debating during the past two seasons, primarily in the Lehigh Valley Intercollegiate Debating League; Bill Richards was a varsity debater prior to entrance into the service, as well as participating this past school year. Donald Lehrkinder and Ernest Hawk were elected to membership by virtue of their having won an oratorical contest.

This was the first T.K.A. initiation since the beginning of the war. Faculty members of the T.K.A. who participated in the initiation included Dr. John D. M. Brown, Mr. Ephraim B. Everitt and Mr. E. Philip Bollier.

Auxiliary Holds First Luncheon

On Tuesday, June 4 at the Americus Hotel, the Women's Auxiliary held its first luncheon in the history of the organization. Among the prominent guests were Dr. and Mrs. Emil Fisher the former of whom is president of the Lutheran Ministerium; Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Hagan, who was recently awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws by the college; and Dr. and Mrs. Levering Tyson. The principal speaker on the occasion was Dr. Peter K. Emmons and musical relaxation was furnished by the College Choir.

Among the information revealed was the statement by Mrs. G. Donald Marks, retiring president, that the membership of the auxiliary now includes 1100. She also disclosed that since its organization, the Ladies Auxiliary has been responsible for the raising of $50,000, all of which has been used to enhance the campus and its buildings.

previous afternoon. Consultants will be available to extend their help at committee meetings when needed.

The gymnasium at the International House will contain exhibits of aviation material, teaching aids, and equipment.

Mr. Boyer recently received a letter from the Congress regarding a student at the University of Pittsburgh who will also be a delegate to the conference. The student, W. Marshall Morgan, is the leader of the University of Pittsburgh Flying Club. He is interested in reviving the intercollegiate student flying club organization. He would like to have students from other colleges with a similar interest contact him in order to develop a program which might be utilized in this intercollegiate organization.

Muhlenberg students who are interested should write to:

Alpha Tau Omega

Alpha Tau Omega at Muhlenberg has successfully come through the crisis brought to all fraternities by the war. When Walter Weller returned to the campus from the army air corps last November to resume his studies, a chapter consisting of only nine other active men elected him Worthy Master. It was under his guidance that by March 5, the beginning of the present semester, the chapter had been expanded to 37 members, including 12 brothers who returned from the service and from medical school. Things really began to hum at Alpha Iota.

February 14 was marked with sorrow for all ATO's for the days of Alpha Iota's grand old alumnus, Oscar F. Bernheim came to an end. He was the A.T.O. who was instrumental in guiding the alumni in the construction of the chapter house and who had served for nearly forty years as the treasurer of Muhlenberg College. The Founders' Day program of March 23, when 14 pledges were initiated, was dedicated to Bernie's memory. One hundred and thirty alumni and active brothers gathered at the Elks' Club for the first post-war Founders' Day Banquet, after which David A. Miller, Dr. Robert C. Horn, and William F. Hillegass told of how Brother Bernheim had left his impression on all A.T.O.'s.

By the time that Spring arrived the chapter had 47 members, many of whom won berths on the varsity athletic teams of the spring sports. Walt Weller and dynamic Bob Rankin took their places on the Cardinal and Gray tennis team; Jim Doran and Paul Clausen played baseball, and "Slim" Summer-ville ran the mile for the 'Berg timber-toppers. The Gold and Blue softball club remains undefeated in Inter-mural competition.

A gala house party week-end was enjoyed by the chapter and 18 pledges on May 10, 11, and 12, at which affair President Weller announced his engagement.

With only 6 seniors graduating, the house will be in full swing next Fall when some more of the boys return from the service. Bill Hillegass and Ora Wooster will represent the chapter at the Congress to be held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel from June 20 to 23, where new ideas for the advancement of A.T.O. will be presented by chapters from all over the nation. The alumni plan complete refurnishing of the house, and with the 18 pledges now receiving their indoctrination in the best A.T.O. style, everybody is looking forward to a great year in 1946-47.

Phi Kappa Tau

Two faculty men and four under graduates were initiated into Eta chapter of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity on Saturday night as the last formal business of that Greek-letter society for this semester. Those who became members of the national social fraternity included: Dr. Elmer Kilmer of the Social Studies department; Dr. Ralph Wood of the German department; Frederick Johnson; Ernest Wallander; Donald Neiser and Albin Gapsch.

The formal initiation culminated a semester of hard work for the fraternity in which time the chapter was returned to its house at 2224 Liberty St., and during which time extensive repairs were made to the property to put it back into the shape of its pre-war standards. During the war the Chapter house had been turned over to the college for the use of civilian students.

Taking an active part in collegiate activities, building up its numerical strength to that of pre-war years and maintaining a high scholastic rating were prime objects of the organization. Members of the group were active in extra-curricular activities, as well as in the college inter-fraternity system and intra-mural sports.

A houseparty week-end was held in conjunction with the Inter-Fraternity Ball, at which time there were many reunions among those who had been separated by the war and meetings of a new college generation with the old ones.

Three members of the fraternity were members of the college Student Council during the past semester. They were: Foster Blair, Oscar Baldwin and Joseph Podany.

The chapter was unable to begin serving meals in the dining room during the past semester, but with the election of John More as steward for the coming semester, plans are going forward to open the dining room.

Steps were taken during that time to strengthen the bonds between the fraternity and the college, so that today the two units are more strongly-knit together than in many past years.

a loan should talk the matter over with one of the committee members. The students may borrow any amount between ten and one hundred dollars. We urge anyone interested to take advantage of this plan, as it was conceived to help you and you alone.

Lambda Chi Alpha

With the close of the current semester, the Nu Epsilon Zeta chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha looks back on a highly successful season. Eleven new men were initiated, and many social occasions spotlighted the fraternity's activities. Considerable renovating was done on the house, especially to the cellar.

The semester's events started off with a bang. A rush smoker held at the Shrine Club attracted over one hundred men. Highlighting the occasion were speeches by Prof. Truman Koehler and Attorney Donald Hock. The National Traveling Secretary, "Chuck" Dougherty spent a week visiting the chapter, during which time he made final arrangements for the reopening of the house on July 1st. For the major affair of the fraternity social life, the Inter-Fraternity Ball, the chapter planned a gala week-end house-party.

During the semester, the fraternity met in the basement of their house. This was adapted into a combination meeting room and lounge early in the semester.

Recently initiated were the following men: Bruce L. Stinzel, Yar Chomicky, John W. Walters, Wistar B. Paist, Robert M. Smith, Philip L. Garis, Theodore E. Brubaker, Mahlon J. Kistler, Alfred H. Pouse, Harry C. Custer, and Frank J. Holzman.

Brother Hank Trastle, of the class of '45, was up visiting the gang after having just been discharged from the Navy.

Phi Alpha Theta Elects Philip Mitterling President

The final meeting for this term of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, was held at Mr. Norman B. Wilkinson's home on Wednesday evening, June 5, at 7:30 p.m.

The principle item of business was the election of officers for next year. Philip Mitterling was elected president and John Myers, secretary-treasurer. Plans were made for activities next year.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Edward T. Horn, who spoke on the suppression of the Japanese people. According to Dr. Horn Japan will take large strides under the government program set up by General MacArthur. General discussion followed Dr. Horn's address.

SPORTS

By Art Peters

No finer climax to the 1946 baseball and tennis season could be asked for than the dual victories scored by both the Mule diamond crew and netmen over the week-end. The baseball wins over Ursinus and Franklin and Marshall set the record for the season at seven wins and seven losses, while the tennis wins over Bucknell and Lafayette established the final tally in that department at four wins and three losses—which adds up to a mighty successful spring sports campaign when you keep in mind the caliber of opposition met throughout the season and the fact that this has been the first peacetime season in quite a while, and world-beater combinations are not built up over night.

We say "well done" to Hoss Lough and his 1946 nine and to Dr. John Shankweiler and his tennis team. Both mentors and their charges worked hard to field creditable teams this season, and both succeeded. As in track, prospects for the future in baseball and tennis loom excellent because of the performance of the teams of this season.

TOMMY UPTON, cage star of the UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA last season is playing shortstop for the PENN nine and has been impressive both in fielding and hitting. . . . URSINUS baseball coach MESSIKOMER went on record as saying, "We don't lose any from now on." Since those words the BEARS have dropped a 14 to 5 decision to FRANKLIN and MARSHALL and a 3 to 2 contest to MUHLENBERG.

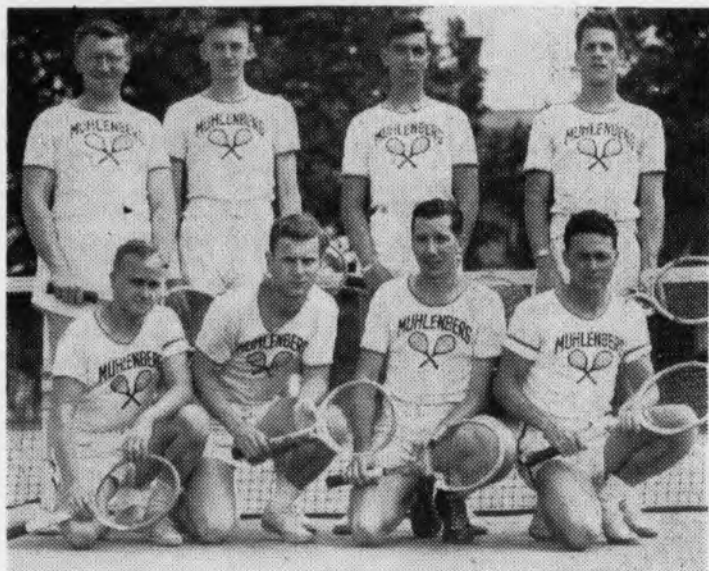

Recently the University of Western Maryland was the site of a four-college golf tournament between the Western Maryland golfers and the teams of Loyola, Johns Hopkins and the University of Delaware. Other colleges in the East are also realizing the wide popularity of golf among their students. We feel that plans for a golf team should be incorporated in plans for an expanded athletic program at Muhlenberg. Golf is not a sport limited to the large universities and should be given a chance here.

MUHLENBERG athletic officials wanted to stage a double-header with FRANKLIN and MARSHALL last Saturday to make up the previously rained out contest between the two schools, but the DIPLOMATS declined because of a lack of hurlers. . . . HOSS LOUGH sometime ago commented that DIZ DEAN was the most improved ball player on the MULE squad—DEAN'S clutch hitting against URSINUS and FRANKLIN and MARSHALL definitely put those games in the win column for MUHLENBERG.

Tennis Team Closes Campaign
Defeating Bucknell, Lafayette

Ushering out the current campaign with a burst of speed and expert play, Coach John Shankweiler and his Muhlenberg netmen wound things up for 1946 by scoring weekend victories over the tennis teams of Bucknell University and Lafayette College on the local Oakmont Tennis Courts.

Meeting Bucknell on Friday the Shankweiler-tutored swatters came through with a hard-fought 5 to 4 victory. The match was scheduled for Saturday, June 1, but rain curtailed action on that date, although several contests had been held before final postponement was deemed necessary.

The Mules split in singles competition, Walt Weller, Bill Klink and Bob Ranken, scoring wins. In doubles play the Mules took two of the three frays, the Weller-Ranken and Moyer-Bross combinations coming out on top.

Lafayette Easy Foe

Continuing its winning ways, the tennis team handed Lafayette a 7 to 2 defeat on Saturday on the Oakmont Courts. The match had been rained out on April 27.

The Mules took five of the singles events and copped two of the doubles contests.

Mule Kicks

Coach Frank "Hoss" Lough, the baseball season having been completed, has left the campus for the University of West Virginia where he will continue working in pursuit of his master's degree in physical education.

The members of the tennis team recently elected Walt Weller "honorary captain" of the past season's club.

As basketball spring drills continue at Rockne Hall, the number of candidates who are being scrutinized by Coach Barker is becoming larger each day. And with each day of practice the varsity squad is being cut down to more and more of a workable size.

According to current plans grid coach Floyd Schwartzwalder and his assistants will begin putting football candidates through their paces August 19th. That will give the boys about a month of practice before the opener on September 18 with Lafayette in Easton.

Dean's Timely Double Gives 'Berg Nine
4 To 3 Victory Over Diplomat Team

Closing its 1946 baseball season in a blaze of glory, the Muhlenberg baseball team followed up Friday's win over Ursinus with a 4 to 3 victory over the Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall on Saturday on Muhlenberg Field, Cliff Kindred being credited with the win.

Alpha Tau Omega
Maintains Hold
On Intra-murals

As the final regularly scheduled week of intra-mural softball play rolls around, powerful Alpha Tau Omega continues to maintain its firm hold on first place in the league standings. As of Monday, June 10, the A.T.O.'s boast a record of six wins and no losses.

Navy White's surprise victory over East Hall has shoved the upperclassmen from second to third spot and skyrocketed the Whites into the number two berth.

A.T.O. racked up its sixth victory of the season on Tuesday, June 4, as six-time winner Jim Leavitt squelched a last inning West Hall rally which threatened to pull the game out of the fire for the Frosh. As two runs came across in the seventh for West Hall a three-run advantage for the A.T.O.'s dwindled to a single run. With the bases loaded and two out, Leavitt retired the side to put out the flames which were dangerously licking the pillars of Alpha Tau supremacy in the league. A.T.O. 5, West Hall 4.

In the other game of the day, Lambda Chi Alpha allowed an early six run lead to disappear in the fifth inning as Navy Red tied the score at 7 to 7. Although Lambda Chi pushed a tally across in the sixth, Navy Red rallied and scored eight times in their half of the frame. The Lambda Chi's came back to touch Red hurler Hall for four in the seventh, but their determined rally fell short. Navy Red 15, Lambda Chi Alpha 12.

On Wednesday, June 5, Navy Yellow won its first game of the season as it defeated Phi Kappa Tau, thanks to the fine pitching offerings of Bell. Navy Yellow 10, Phi Kappa Tau 5.

In the upset of the week, Navy White edged out second place East Hall 12 to 10. The victors, paced by a barrage of 20 hits, led all the way. East Hall scored five runs in the last inning but Greime, White pitcher, settled down and retired the side. Navy White 12, East Hall 10.

Games scheduled for Thursday, June 6, were rained out.

Team captains are requested to contact the Athletic Office for instructions as to the playing of postponed contests.

Standings as of Monday, June 10:

	Won	Lost
Alpha Tau Omega	6	0
Navy White	4	1
East Hall	5	2
Navy Red	3	3
Navy Blue	2	3
West Hall	2	3
Phi Kappa Tau	1	3
Lambda Chi Alpha	1	5
Navy Yellow	1	5

Franklin and Marshall had slightly the better of things in the early innings, as the boys from Lancaster pushed across one run tallies in the first, third and fifth frames while the Mules were held scoreless.

Mules Stage Rally

A four run seventh inning rally began when Paul Karobeinick, Mule backstop, singled. Big George Bibighaus walked, and Frank Henry got on via an over-throw, Karobeinick scoring. Bibighaus romped home on Hollinger's wild pitch. After Bill Lybrand went to first on an error, Ted Halkias popped out. Diz Dean, again coming through with beautiful clutch hitting, pounded out a screaming double, scoring Henry and Lybrand. Hollinger then regained his poise and retired the side.

Walt Busch, who went in for Kindred who made way for pinch hitter Halkias in the seventh, held the Diplomats scoreless in the remaining innings.

Mules Beat Bears
In 3 To 2 Thriller

A stinging single belted into center field by Diz Dean with two out in the ninth inning sent Ted Halkias home from second with the winning run in a well-played game staged Friday on Muhlenberg Field, the Mules defeating the Bears of Ursinus College 3 to 2.

After four innings of scoreless deadlock, Muhlenberg went ahead in the fifth as they tallied two counters. Ursinus scored a run in the seventh and added another in the ninth to knot the score at 2 to 2.

Dean Singles in 9th

In the Mules' half of the inning, Halkias got to first on a free pass and stole second. With two out Dean punched out a single and ended the game, 3 to 2 with Muhlenberg on top.

Johnny Myers, winning pitcher, limited the Bears to seven safeties.

Lehigh Sinks Mule Netmen In Match Here

Lehigh University's highpowered tennis crew extracted a 7 to 2 victory from Coach John Shankweiler and his Muhlenberg netmen in a match played Wednesday, June 5, at the Oakmont Tennis Courts, home pasture of the 'Berg hopefuls. Although the locals went down to defeat for the second time this season before the might of the Engineers, the loss was less decisive than the 9 to 0 setback incurred in their previous meeting in Bethlehem.

Bright spot of the day was the smashing victories of Bob Cerney and Walt Weller over Lehigh's number one and two men, Ed Meyer and Ray Stauffer, in singles competition. Many of the other contests were extremely close and hard-fought all the way, extending the Engineers to the limit from beginning to end.

The summaries:

Singles—Bob Cerney, Muhlenberg, defeated Ed Meyer, Lehigh, 6-4, 6-7; Walt Weller, Muhlenberg, defeated Ray Stauffer, Lehigh, 6-2, 6-3; Bob Arnold, Lehigh, defeated Bill Klink, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-3; John DeHuff, Lehigh, defeated Bob Rankin, Muhlenberg, 5-7, 6-2; Jack Mellinger, Lehigh, defeated Howard Haring, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-2; Bob Solomon, Lehigh, defeated Ernie Hoh, Muhlenberg 6-1, 6-4.

Doubles—Arnold and Stauffer, Lehigh, defeated Cerney and Klink, 7-5, 6-4; Beyer and Deyer, Lehigh, defeated Weller and Rankin, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2; Mellinger and Solomon, Lehigh, defeated Bross and Moyer, 6-2, 9-7.

Many complaints, queries, and comments on the recent Student Council election. It is the opinion of this reporter that the newly elected Council is not representative of the student body. Too many behind the scenes operations pertaining to nominations, qualifications, etc., have brought about this condition. The student body is not properly informed on the situation and there is much to be desired in the way of a representative Student Council. From the point of nomination, to the Dean's desk, there is work to be done on the matter, and it looks like everyone should raise their eyebrows, and some questions.

(3) The candidate need have completed only one year (Sophomore standing) of college work instead of the required two.

In his will, Cecil Rhodes stipulated the following attributes as important prerequisites for all candidates: (1) literary and scholastic ability and attainments; (2) qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship; (3) exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates; (4) physical vigor, as shown by an interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

Any student who is interested in this endeavour and desires more information, should see Dr. Tyson, who is the Institutional Representative of the Rhodes Scholarships from Muhlenberg. Feel no grief fellows, for 'tis for you that this radical legislation has been enacted. You, the chap with the hole in your pants, you wonder where you will find your next cigarette butt, yet previously you've been obligated to steal $3.50 for a stinking old "fleur" which dries up for the waste basket the next day. Doesn't it make you burn when she says, "Please don't hug me, you might crush my flowers." I can't stand it myself. And those da-----d pins, they are enough in themselves to drive a man crazy. When you get stuck you really get stuck. No more! no more! Quote the raven, "Never More".

As for the little woman, if she really loves you, the flowers won't mean a thing, if you tell her you have lots of dough. Don't worry boys, she will smell good without the flowers; buy her a cake of soap. (kidding, of course). If she insists on flowers, tell her there has been a war and they don't make them anymore. She will understand.

You have all the dope now, gentlemen. Act accordingly, remember NO flowers, if one chap buys them the others may feel badly. A little cooperation with the school and the council will make a working policy of a new born law which I am sure will benefit you and all concerned.
